London Meet Adopts Measures To Aid Germany

STEPS EXPECTED TO REVIVE FAITH IN NATION'S CREDIT

Action Taken Calculated To Afford Temporary Relief With Hope That Respite Will Put Country on Road to Recovery.

GERMAN ENVOYS NOT SATISFIED

Berlin Leaders Still Hope for Some Definite Assurance of Credit Extensions.

BY FRANK H. KING.

LONDON, July 23.—(AP)—The seven-power international conference ended today after taking temporary measures to revive world confidence in Germany's financial and economic future.

As forecast, these paliatives were confined to a three-month extension of the $100,000,000 loan from the central banks of the world powers, to concerted measures in all countries to maintain existing credits in Germany, and to recommendations dealing with Germany's future needs.

The final plenary session at the foreign office in Downing street ended at noon with felicitous farewells which stressed the interdependence of nations and welcomed the participation of the United States, through Secretaries Stimson and Mellon, at the European council table.

In a formal statement expressing his satisfaction with the result of the conference, Secretary Stimson pointed out that the governments of all accredited countries have agreed to use their influence and leadership in allaying the panic which was causing withdrawal of German credit.

Bulk From United States.

"Most of this money," Secretary Stimson said, "comes from America and our banks, under the leadership of our federal reserve system, already have been organizing to reassure creditors against the withdrawal of these funds."

The Bank of England, he said, has been taking similar steps, and action was now promised in the conference of the others of Germany's creditors.

Only at the headquarters of the German delegation was there a lack of enthusiasm over the results of the conference. While admitting the Bruening government has secured a breathing spell in its international financial relations by the achievements of the London meeting, and also secured an internal breathing spell by the defeat today of the nationalist and communist efforts to convene the reichstag, Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtis are still risking their political position, according to the informed German view, unless they take back with them to Berlin some tangible assurance of new credits. The American, French and British delegations were agreed tonight that the London meeting had accomplished its purpose as far as checking Germany's rush toward a financial panic is concerned.

Well Satisfied.

Secretaries Stimson and Mellon, in formal statements, declared they were well satisfied with the conference results. Secretary Stimson described the meeting as a fitting sequel to President Hoover's reparation holiday, announced June 20. Secretary Mellon emphasized the lack of confidence in Germany is not justified by Germany's internal economic situation which, he said, is inherently strong.

The French expressed themselves as eminently satisfied with the London meeting because it leaves them in much the same position they have held heretofore regarding the extension of new credits to Germany, either on a short or long-term basis.

The British were congratulating themselves on what they considered the statesmanlike conduct of another international gathering by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

All of the delegates paid tribute to

Memphian Kills Mother Thinking Her Burglar

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 23.—(AP) Awakened by a noise in a hallway adjoining his sleeping apartment, early today John H. Myers, 26, fired one shot at a vague form which he believed a burglar in the darkened hall at the entrance to his room. When he switched on the lights he discovered that he had shot and fatally wounded his mother, Mrs. Rosa Myers, 66. She died in an ambulance en route to a hospital.

STIMSON PLANS VISIT TO BERLIN

American Official Will Continue Conferences With Germans.

BY LOUIS LOCHNER.

LONDON, July 23.—(AP)—The question of further financial aid to Germany by the United States, it was learned tonight, will be taken up by Secretary of State Stimson, during his week-end visit to Berlin.

The American delegation to the seven-power conference were guests of the German delegation at a dinner tonight given by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening. Other guests included several men high in German financial and economic circles.

Secretary Stimson will leave London tomorrow shortly after the members of the German delegation. The significance attributed by both delegations to Secretary Stimson's hurried visit to the German capital was that America wants Germany to know she is with her in her hour of need.

Both Secretary Stimson and Secretary Mellon were told tonight, once more, by Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius, of Germany, that, while President Hoover's help as it has materialized in the seven-power conference, is tremendously appreciated by Germany, yet this can only be the beginning of financial and economic aid to the Reich.

As an "earnest" of the desire of the United States to tell the world it has faith in Germany and its government, Secretary Stimson, during the sessions of the conference, volunteered to go to Berlin at once, even ahead of the visit of Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson, of Great Britain, who are scheduled to spend the coming weekend there.

The Americans, reaching the hotel where the Germans were staying tonight, in answer to Chancellor Bruening's invitation, found there not only the chancellor and the foreign minister, but also Undersecretary of State Von Buelow, the finance ministry's expert; Count Schwerein, Von Korsick, Carl Melchior, German banker, and Herr Schmitz, director of the German dye trust, who is considered one of Germany's best economists and men of practical affairs.

In the presence of these men, Germany's needs, beyond those taken care of by the seven-power conference, were once again discussed. Chancellor Bruening and his delegation firmly believe, it was learned from good authority, that loans to Germany can only come from private sources, American and others.

One of the subjects which Secretary Stimson is expected to discuss during his brief visit to Berlin is the coming disarmament conference at Geneva. Both the American and German delegations felt tonight that their countries would have little difficulty agreeing on policy and it was believed that both would go the limit to help, through international co-operative ef-

FRUITS OF PARLEY ARE DISAPPOINTING TO BERLIN PRESS

Monarchist Organ Claims Only Ruler Can Save Country From Catastrophe in Near Future.

BERLIN, July 23.—(AP)—While today's newspapers reflected a general shock of disillusionment at the failure of the London conference to bring new credits to Germany, the extreme of the press opinion was expressed by the official Hohenzollern organ, Der Aufrechte, which today declared:

"Only the monarchy can save us."

The newspaper appeared today with the following bulletin prominently displayed:

"What does Germany need? Many still do not dare say it openly, but the understanding grows, and already the thinking and sincere in all circles are whispering to one another: 'Only the monarchy can save us and lead us upward out of the catastrophe'."

The paper added that the former kaiser is following the developments of Germany "with passionate anxiety and sympathy."

Financial and industrial leaders in Germany, however, have not given up hope. Among the people, who still go about the stores and cafes gossiping about developments, there is a tendency to agree that Germany will have to help herself and make the best of things.

The newspaper Germania, official organ of Chancellor Bruening's centrist party, declares prolongation of restrictions on banks and markets will not be helpful. The paper recommends further reduction of the Reichsbank gold coverage, contending that expansion of currencies would not be dangerous so long as the Reichsbank maintains a high discount rate.

Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, is condemned by other papers who agree with the Germania's position for not having acted already.

Several papers suggested that what the Reichsbank needs is "new leadership."

COMMITTEE VOTES TO DROP SCHOOLS

Abolition of A. and M. Institutions Favored by House Group.

Exempting only the Georgia Industrial College, known as the Sixth District Agricultural and Mechanical College, the house committee on the state of the republic voted Thursday night to abolish six of the A. and M. schools belonging to the University of Georgia system.

Action came on a bill which had been introduced by Representative Miles Collier, of Madison, and after considerable debate in favor of retaining the schools had been made.

Appropriation for the school, including the Barnesville school, already have been eliminated by the house appropriations committee. The Collier bill, in addition to abolishing the entity of the schools, also would have transferred the property back to the several boards of trustees.

The schools abolished by the committee were:

Fourth district A. and M., Carrollton.

Georgia vocational and trades school, Monroe.

Seventh district A. and M., Powder Springs.

Tenth district A. and M., Granite Hill.

An amendment seeking to defer the proposed abolishing of the schools until September of next year was lost in an executive session, 6 to 4, but there was no opposition to striking the Barnesville school from the measure. The appropriations bill now being considered in the house has had all appropriations for these seven schools stricken out.

The action of the committee followed a public hearing at which representatives from virtually all of the schools were present and presented their contentions.

'Ma' Kennedy Granted Annulment Of Vows to Mate Held in Bigamy

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—(AP)—The same swift tempo that characterized the wedding of Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy and G. Edward Hudson entered her successful annulment proceedings in superior court today.

The proceedings lasted about 10 minutes, and came to an end with the suddenness with which the mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, married Hudson in Cowlitz county, Washington, June 28.

Hudson faces a Washington bigamy charge, a divorce suit filed by Mrs. Newton-Hudson and a breach of promise suit by Mrs. Ethel Harbert.

Hudson was absent from the jammed courtroom. His attorneys announced previously he would remain in seclusion until the arrival of a warrant from Longview, Wash., charging him with committing bigamy in marrying Mrs. Kennedy.

The proceedings brought Mrs. Ken-

Boardman Will Seek Record On New York-Turkey Flight

Russell Boardman and John Polando (inset), who hope to make a non-stop flight from New York to Istanbul, Turkey.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—Last minute preparations, including a final conference with Dr. James H. Kimball, caused Russell Boardman and John Polando to delay the start of their projected non-stop flight to Istanbul, Turkey, until several hours past midnight.

Dr. Kimball advised the flyers that foggy weather obtained over parts of Newfoundland and they decided to alter their course and strike across the sea from Halifax, N. S., in quest of a new long distance flight record.

The object of the flight is the setting of a continuous flight record between New York and Turkey.

Boardman said that if upon arrival at their objective they had enough fuel remaining in their tanks they would try to go on to the city of Angora.

They will bear formal communications to the Turkish government from the ambassador of that country at Washington and other officials.

The young aviator, who has spent several months preparing for the trip and awaiting favorable weather conditions, said his ship had been cleared by customs officers at Roosevelt field recently in readiness for the hop.

His managers conferred at length this afternoon with Dr. James M. Kimball, aviation weather expert, and Dr. Kimball advised them they could expect good flying conditions over most of the route.

They proposed to fly up the north Atlantic coast and pass out to sea from Harbor Grace, N. F., without stop. The course then plotted would take them over Ireland and thence across the European continent.

Flying conditions over western Europe then would determine. Boardman said, whether they would continue eastward by a route to the south of France and south of the Alps or across Germany and to the north of the Alps. He said no attempt would be made to surmount the high peaks because of the additional fuel which would have to be consumed for the high flying.

The fliers tonight stored in their plane 17 parachutes with which to drop messages as they pass over principal points on their route to identify the plane. In the parachutes will be messages giving a record of the elapsed voyage at each point.

TAVERN SHELLED IN SEVILLE RIOTS

Artillery Brought Into Use To Intimidate Syndicalists.

SEVILLE, Spain, July 23.—(AP)—Artillery surrounding a tavern frequented by communists in the suburb of Macarena reduced it to wreckage with 22 rounds of rapid fire today, in the government's effort to put down syndicalist disorders.

Soldiers manned machine gun and artillery units tonight, ready for instant use should the disorders which today cost five lives be repeated.

Dwellers in the tavern's neighborhood, all outside the danger zone during the bombardment, were registered and searched for arms. The inmates of the tavern had vacated the building prior to the attack.

The authorities said the tavern, a mecca for communists, contained a

2 WOMEN KILLED IN GRADE CRASH

Mrs. W. E. Cobb and Daughter-in-Law Die When Train Hits Auto.

Two Atlanta women met death Thursday morning at a grade crossing on the Dollar road, near Adamsville, when their car was struck by a passenger train on the Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast railroad. The victims, Mrs. W. E. Cobb, 48, and Mrs. W. H. Cobb, 25, both of 913 Oakhill avenue, S. W., were on their way home after visiting Jessie Cobb, son of the elder Mrs. Cobb.

According to the official report of railroad investigators, W. H. Morris, the engineer, did not see the automobile in time to stop, as the crossing is situated on a curve. The car was struck broadside and dragged about

Anne's Radio Test Last Step In Lindy Flight Preparation

BY W. W. CHAPLIN.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—There is only one more major step to be taken in preparation for the Lindberghs' vacation flight to the orient, due to begin next week, and that is to be taken by Mrs. Lindbergh.

The big low wing monoplane rides at anchor at North Beach, its flight capabilities with the floats which have replaced its wheels fully tested; its compass swung, its navigation instruments checked and its radio installed.

Engineers have tested the radio and found it good, but they are professionals of technical expertness. Now it must be tested by the fingers of the one who will use it in actual flight across the arctic circle.

And that one is Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, the daughter of Dwight W. Morrow who, in a brief period, has learned not only the duties of wifehood and motherhood but also has found time to become an expert pilot, navigator and radio operator.

Within the next few days the big plane will lift from the East river with Colonel Lindbergh at the controls and Mrs. Lindbergh seated in the rear cabin with her hand on the sender's key and ear phones upon her head.

It is expected the test will be made with the Pan-American Airways radio station at San Juan, Porto Rico, a strong station at sufficient distance to indicate how closely the Lindbergh ship can keep in touch with civilization once it wings its way into the barren north.

After the long distance radio test all will be ready for the flight. Lindbergh has announced he and his wife hope to get away next week. He said he had not yet decided on the day but it was generally believed it would be the middle of the week.

NBC WILL BROADCAST LINDBERGHS' DEPARTURE

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—The National Broadcasting Company announced tonight that it had completed arrangements for a descriptive broadcast on a national hookup of the departure of the Lindberghs next week on their vacation flight to the orient and also their arrival in Tokyo.

BRIDGE APPROACH PUT UNDER ARMS BY 'ALFALFA BILL'

Oklahoma Executive Declares Martial Law To Prevent Removal of Road Barriers.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 23.—(AP) Governor W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray late today declared martial law on a strip of land comprising the approach to the toll bridge over the Red river between Durant, Okla., and Denison, Texas, which has been the seat of a controversy recently.

Adjutant General Barrett left immediately for the Denison bridge with instructions to use two or three units of the national guard now stationed at Durant.

The governor directed the military authorities to "hold their own" against any court writ.

The governor said his intention was to forestall any contemplated action to remove obstructions leading to the Oklahoma entrance to the toll bridge of the Red River Bridge Company. He said the bridge company threatened to remove the obstructions.

The Oklahoma approach to the bridge has been closed to traffic since July 16, when Governor Murray, "tired" of the delay in opening a free bridge built by the states of Oklahoma and Texas paralleling the toll structure, ordered highway employes to remove barricades obstructing the free bridge and block the way to the toll span.

Complications immediately arose, with Governor Ross Sterling, of Texas, ordering Texas rangers to the Texas approach of the free bridge with instructions to keep barricades up until a federal court injunction obtained by the bridge owners was vacated.

GUARDSMEN PREPARE TO MOVE INTO POSITION

DURANT, Okla., July 23.—(AP)—Thirty national guardsmen, shock troops of Governor W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray's "war of the bridges," slept under arms here tonight in preparation for a dawn invasion of embattled territory.

The patrol on duty at the approach of the toll bridge will be about a half mile from the Texas rangers stationed at the Texas approach to the free bridge paralleling the toll bridge.

HAWKS REGAINS HAVANA RECORDS

Famous Speed Ace Sets Two New Marks From New York to Cuba.

FLOYD BENNETT AIRPORT, NEW YORK, July 26.—(AP)—Completing a round trip speed flight from New York to Havana, Captain Frank M. Hawks landed here tonight 8:03 p. m. (eastern standard time), establishing new records in both directions.

His elapsed time for the northward flight was 7 hours 30 minutes and his flying time 6 hours 59 minutes.

He thus beat his own old record for the Havana-New York trip by 1 hour 14 minutes.

On the southward flight this morning he knocked 27 minutes from the time of James Goodwin Hall, flying broker, who last Saturday beat Hawks' old record for the New York-Havana hop.

Captain Hawks left Floyd Bennett field at 3 o'clock this morning and was away from New York only 16 hours 3 minutes. He spent 14 hours 35 minutes of that time in the air.

On the southward flight his flying time was 7 hours 36 minutes and his elapsed time 8 hours 8 minutes.

The total elapsed time on the round trip flight, counting out the time spent in Havana, was 16 hours 38 minutes.

Hall, on his Havana-New York flight, failed to beat the old record, which Hawks broke himself tonight, by seven minutes, but he spent only 7 hours 55 minutes actually in the air, thus clipping eight minutes from Hawks' old flying time record.

By covering the 1,403 miles between Havana and New York in 6 hours 59 minutes today, Hawks beat that flying time record of the broker by 56 minutes.

On his return trip Captain Hawks

Charlotte Places Ban On Elevator Hat Lifting

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 23.—(AP)—The old southern custom of men removing their hats when riding with women in elevators, was tabooed here today.

Signs in most elevators in office buildings read:

"Men are asked to please keep their hats on. Removing hats reduces elevator capacity and creates confusion. Thinking women will welcome this as it offers no disrespect and adds to their comforts."

REORGANIZATION FIGHT APPROACHES

Senate Calendar Cleared for Two Outstanding Measures of Session.

Senate decks were cleared Thursday for two of the major fights of the 1931 regular session of the general assembly, when preliminaries of the reorganization and congressional reapportionment moves were acted upon by the upper house.

Receiving the amended reorganization bill from the house, the senate referred it to the committee on state of republic, and ordered 300 copies of the bill to be printed. Senator Hugh Peterson, of the fifteenth district, announced a public hearing on the measure at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon in the senate chamber.

The congressional reapportionment bill, already reported favorably by the senate committee, was set as a special and continuing order of business for next Wednesday.

Fate of the reorganization bill in the senate is a matter of conjecture, staunch supporters of the measure claiming that they have enough senate strength to obtain passage of the bill practically as adopted by the house, and opponents contending that the bill will be torn to pieces by the upper branch of the legislature. It was virtually agreed, however, that the bill will not get through the senate without a stiff battle and some changes.

Talmadge Is Target

The mounting fight on the state department of agriculture started in the senate with condemnation of Commissioner Eugene Talmadge's expenditure of $10,000 to boost the price of hogs, Thursday gained new impetus when Senator W. H. Duckworth, chairman of a special senate committee given broad powers to investigate the department, announced that the probe probably will begin Monday.

At the same time, as plans were being made for the agricultural department investigation, a fight on the State College of Agriculture loomed in the senate, following introduction by Senators L. L. Moore, of the forty-seventh, and W. C. Perkins, of the seventeenth, of a resolution to require the board of trustees of the college to restrain the president, Dr. Andrew M. Soule, from issuing propaganda on the low cost of cotton raising. This resolution was referred to the agricultural committee.

The Moore-Perkins paper charges that for several years the college has issued what the president and his associates term "Plain Facts and Figures," purporting to show that cotton in Georgia can be produced at a cost of 5 to 6 1-4 cents a pound. These figures have gained widespread publicity, to the hurt and injury of Georgia cotton growers, and the price and use of Chilean nitrate of soda have been increased thereby, to the injury of the cotton growers, the resolution charges. Under provisions of the resolution, pay of any offending official would be stopped if he persists in spreading such propaganda.

Bills and resolutions passed Thurs-

Rum Fight Shot Traced To Gun of Dry Agent

DETROIT, July 23.—(AP)—William Cavers, police department ballistics expert, reported today that the bullet which struck Arthur Gajeski, a passenger on an excursion steamer in Lake St. Clair Tuesday night during a gun battle between a rum boat and two customs border patrolmen, was fired from the gun of one of the federal agents.

Gajeski, who was wounded in the arm, was leaning over the rail of the boat watching the affray.

The border patrolmen are Clarence E. Fish and Arthur Wesolowski. Cavers' report said the bullet was from the gun of Fish.

American on Long World Cruise Twice a Pirate Captive, He Says

VILLEFRANCHE, France, July 23.—(AP)—Pirates, head hunters and a sultan were among the hosts of William Albert Robinson, of Boston, Mass., on a world tour in his 32-foot ketch, Svaap, which sailed into Villefranche harbor today.

His grandmother, Mrs. Ida Knippfler, of Milwaukee, was waiting for him with a basket of sandwiches when he arrived at 4:22 p. m., just 12 minutes behind his schedule, after having left New London, Conn., in June, 1928.

"Albert," his grandmother said, "I've never known you to be so late. Where have you been?" And this, while on the way to a bath, was the story Robinson told:

Fifteen days out from India, the mariner landed at Makalla at the end of the Mohammedan feast of Ramadan. There he saw charging mobs with silver scimitars being stopped by the sultan's guards just before death blows were about to be struck.

The sultan gave the Boston boy 150 rupees "in order to cement cordial relations with the United States."

Robinson twice was captured by pirates in Arabian ports.

$5,500,000 TAKEN TO PAY OFF DEBTS OF OTHER BUREAUS

Russell Spokesmen Are Surprised as Plan Is Approved, 82 to 63; Administration To Move for Recommendation Today.

WASTE IS CHARGED BY BIBB MEMBER

Assemblymen Agree Not To Permit Expenditures To Go Beyond Budget; Several Bills Approved.

BY R. E. POWELL.

Diversion of $5,550,000 from the funds of the state highway department to the payment of unpaid appropriations was voted, 82 to 63, by the house of representatives, sitting as the committee of the whole, late Thursday afternoon.

The vote was on an amendment offered by Representative Orville A. Park, of Bibb county, and came after Park had challenged the assembly to make a choice between "health and highways, childhood and cement."

Spokesmen for the Russell administration, confessing surprise at the size of the vote cast in favor of a policy Governor Russell has repeatedly opposed, and one on which the special session last spring repeatedly frowned, announced that the amendment would be reconsidered today and predicted its ultimate defeat by a larger majority than that by which it passed.

Fifteen per cent of the funds allocated in the general appropriations bill, which are derived from gas and license tag taxes, would be shifted to the general treasury for the years 1932 and 1933 under the provisions of the amendment. The total amount annually would be approximately $2,750,000.

"Too Much for Roads."

Speaking on his amendment, and making his second speech on the floor during the session, Representative Park declared that the issue of highway diversion had never been settled at the polls "and, if it was, it was settled wrong and I am one to stand here and tell them so.

"I wasn't elected on any such a platform," he continued, "and neither were you. The highway department is spending a vast amount of money like a drunken sailor—most of it is unjudiciously expended and a lot of it is being wasted."

He declared that there was no necessity for the erection of the new highway building, across from the capitol, at a cost of $150,000 and added that the department is burdened also with "a $20,000 grass-cutting nuisance."

"From 1924 until March of this year," the Bibb member said, "the state of Georgia has spent more than $100,000,000 on roads and when we get through we will have spent over $400,000,000. We can't afford it and particularly at the expense of starving our children.

"I don't expect you to pass this amendment. You have voted down everything else opposed by the Russell administration. Why will you vote against this? Because you are

85-Year-Old Veteran Asks Divorce for Peace

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 23.—(AP)—Saying he "would like to spend the remainder of his days in peace—if possible," C. B. Holton, 85-year-old Civil War veteran, today sought a separation from Mrs. Nannie Sherill Holton, whom he married in 1922.

In the complaint of a suit filed in superior court, Holton claimed Mrs. Holton had a "vixenish" disposition."

On one occasion, he alleged, she snatched his pension money from him while he was counting it and refused to return it to him.

AUGUSTA GAS HEARING NEARING COMPLETION

Written Arguments Will Be Filed by August 15, Counsel Say.

The Augusta gas rate hearing is expected to be closed today so far as verbal testimony is concerned. Federal Master Styles Hopkins indicated a desire to finish the second hearing by today when he announced at the end of Thursday's session that the hearing will be resumed this morning at 9:30 o'clock instead of 10.

Attorneys on both sides said they expected to have their written arguments in the hands of the master by August 15.

The Georgia Public Utilities Company of Augusta is seeking to have rates set by the Georgia public service commission declared confiscatory. The commission and the city of Augusta are opposing the action.

Thursday's session was given over entirely to cross-questioning of witnesses. Dr. John Bauer, Frank Batte and E. B. McGuinn were on the stand.

R. A. Weise, Augusta city engineer, testified last Thursday afternoon. He said, basing his figures on contracts he had made to lay water mains, that the gas company's gas mains could be replaced at a cost of $293,000. The utilities concern has held that their mains are worth $416,000. Attorney Marion Smith cross-questioned Weise and when it was disclosed that he had made his estimate on an old report, asked him to recalculate the estimate on newer figures and present it at the hearing this morning.

FREIGHT RATE HIKE SOUGHT BY BANCROFT

Finance Institute Head Says Increase Would Aid in Business Recovery.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—A substantial increase in freight rates today was described as a most powerful possible stimulant to immediate business recovery by James R. Bancroft, president of the American Institute of Finance.

Bancroft wrote the interstate commerce commission, sending a copy of the letter to President Hoover, that commodity price declines and demands for various moratoria must be stopped and recommended the freight rate increase to change these trends.

At the same time, the commission speeded forward by three weeks' hearings on the blanket 15 per cent increase in freight charges proposed by the railroads. Continuation of the hearings was set for August 10 instead of August 31, on a request by carriers for early completion of the case.

Shippers protested they were entitled to the original time allowance to prepare their case.

Bancroft wrote from the institute headquarters in Boston that in his opinion on July 14 "our present capitalistic system was closer to actual collapse than at any other time in its modern history."

NORMAN DAVIS TAKES POSITION IN LEAGUE

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—Norman H. Davis, New York banker, today cabled his acceptance of the post offered him by the League of Nations on its finance committee.

He will sail for Europe in time to attend a conference on European credits August 20 and a subsequent meeting of the league's finance committee early in September.

Mr. Davis, who has served both as assistant secretary of the treasury and undersecretary of state, began his business career in Cuba, where he organized the Trust Company of Cuba.

MILK BREAD

for your CHILDREN?

ONLY bread that is enriched with the full food-value of whole milk can be called "Milk Bread." The Federal Government and the State Government both have set up stringent regulations defining the difference between plain bread and nourishing, health-building milk bread.

That ruling is your protection against false claims. It is a clear-cut basis on which you may choose the bread that will build up the strength and the energy of your family.

One trial of Merita Milk Bread will convince you that it is the finest bread you have ever tasted. It costs no more than 10c brands of plain bread.

At your grocer's, sliced for your convenience, or unsliced if you prefer.

Albert Fall Tells His Story

Sinclair's Visit to Fall's Ranch

BY ALBERT B. FALL.

(Copyright, 1931, by N. A. N. A., Inc.)

Editor's Note: This is the ninth of a series of articles in which Albert B. Fall, sentenced to prison for having accepted a bribe while he was secretary of the interior, tells his own story of his experiences in Washington.

In December, 1921, I had gone from Washington to Three Rivers, N. M., to be home Christmas Day. December 22, I received from C. V. Safford, administration secretary in my office, a telegram which said:

"If agreeable to you and they can make the trip, H. F. Sinclair and J. W. Zeverly desire to see you there at the ranch the latter part of next week on a very urgent and important matter. Zeverly states would not disturb your holiday except matter was especially urgent. Zeverly requests immediate advice as to your wishes."

Although I wondered what the "urgent and important matter" these gentlemen had on their minds might be, I wired Safford to tell them to come ahead. Sinclair and Zeverly, his attorney, arrived in Sinclair's private car at Three Rivers about December 31. They were accompanied by their wives.

The "urgent matter" turned out to be a request for modification of the terms under which Sinclair had leased lands in the Osage Indian Reserve, a lease which had cost his company more than a million dollars.

He thought the cash bond terms too onerous. Considerable money had already been put up, and feeling that the government was amply protected I allowed his company to furnish a mortgage on all their equipment in the Osage Reserve instead of cash for the remainder yet due on the bond.

Teapot Dome.

While he was there, Sinclair asked me if I was considering leasing Naval Reserve No. 3 in Wyoming, Teapot Dome. I told him I was not at that time, but would take the matter up when I returned to Washington.

"Well, if you decide, I'd like to make the government a proposition," Sinclair said.

I assured him he would have an opportunity.

Until Sinclair came to the ranch, I had never had any negotiations of any kind with him. I hardly knew him. No more was said about Teapot Dome during his visit.

He was greatly impressed with our ranch. I was pleased, naturally, that he should appreciate its charms. He spent a day tramping around over it, with one of my cowboys for a guide. The ranch was a magnificent property, 55 miles long and 24 to 34 miles wide.

When Sinclair killed a deer and a wild turkey practically in sight of a picturesque dwelling called "The Rock House," nine miles from my home place, something seemed to happen to him. He declared he was going to own a part of that ranch. He had seen more wild game than ever before in his life. In one pasture, while I was with him, at least 5,000 quail had flown up; there were fish in the mountain streams, wild turkeys gobbled on the mountainsides.

Sinclair said something about "The Sons of Hope," a social organization of wealthy men, poker players, I understood. He thought it would be well nigh perfection if "The Sons of Hope" owned a retreat on the ranch, with "The Rock House" as a center.

I didn't take him seriously. I had seen city men go into raptures over the wild like that before, and I believed he was merely having a passing fancy.

Partnership in Ranch.

The manager of our ranch was my son-in-law, M. T. Everhart, Pueblo, Colo. While I called it "my" ranch, and lived on it and considered it to all purposes mine, in reality I held only half the stock in it. To sell any part of it would require dealing with my son-in-law, and instead of selling, we had just been buying the Harris ranch previously spoken of.

Later, in Washington, Colonel Zeverly called on me.

"I know you thought Sinclair was joking, or just talking," he said, "but he wants to buy part of your ranch. He thinks it would be a great place to breed race horses." (The famous horse Zev was named by Sinclair after Zeverly.) "Sinclair's very enthusiastic about that 'Rock House.'"

"He doesn't need to buy it," I said. "I told him he could go out there and use that 'Rock House' any time he wants. He's always welcome."

"I'm afraid that won't suit him, Zeverly said. "He wants to own it so he can change it all around."

Thinking it over, it occurred to me that by forming a new corporation and disposing of an interest just sufficient to pay all the corporation's debts, including the $100,000 I owed E. L. Doheny, our ranch would be clear of debt.

I told Zeverly a sale might be made.

"And how much will it cost the chief?" he asked, referring to Sinclair.

Third Interest Price.

I figured up: $133,000 to pay off the Tres Ritos (Three Rivers) Land and Cattle Company's indebtedness and to clear up some lands we were taking over, and $100,000 to repay Doheny's loan, a total of $233,000.

"For that figure you could get a third interest," I said. I told Zeverly to take the matter up with Everhart, and that if a deal could be made on those terms I would be satisfied.

The following May Zeverly, who meantime had discussed the matter with Everhart, told me one morning that Sinclair was in town (Washington), and that he had brought $200,000 in bonds to close the ranch deal.

"Two hundred thousand is not enough," I reminded Zeverly. "The price, as I told you, is $233,000."

Zeverly said it must be an error, that the additional money would be provided, and that all the money would be in Liberty bonds. I told him it made no difference what form the payment was in.

When Everhart received the bonds, the deal having been closed between him and Sinclair, it was after banking hours. He brought the bonds to my apartment in the Wardman Park hotel, and put them in the old desk I had used as a senator.

To cover certain indebtednesses of the ranch to myself I took out $2,500 worth, and Mr. Everhart later carried the bonds away and credited them to our corporation. Afterward he brought $90,000 worth to El Paso and took out $20,000 to be used for ranch purposes, and I took the remaining $70,000 and paid it on the lands we had contracted to buy. That was my only contact with those bonds.

This ranch deal was the one cited in the conspiracy trial, in which Sinclair and I were acquitted, as having influenced my letting of the Teapot Dome lease to Sinclair.

Before we went to trial we had a conference, of course.

"They are insinuating," I said, "that there was something crooked about that deal. There's no reason why we shouldn't tell all about it. Let's call Everhart and have him testify."

But Sinclair didn't want to.

Cop Helps "Prospect" As Salesman Loses Car

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 23.—(AP)—Because T. W. Powers, an automobile salesman, was anxious to please a young woman prospect, he is without both his prospect and his car. But he has the package of cigarets she asked him to buy, although he doesn't care for that brand.

A stylishly-dressed young woman entered his place of business today and asked for a demonstration of a shiny new roadster. They had hardly started before she asked for a cigaret. Powers didn't have the kind she wanted and she handed him a quarter to buy her a package in a drug store.

While he was complying with her request she drove off with the car. The roadster hadn't gone far before it gave out of gas, but an obliging traffic cop assisted her in filling the tank while the theft was being reported to police headquarters. She proceeded on her way, leaving Powers with the cigarets and a nickel change.

POLICE GUN WOUNDS CAUSE DAILEY'S DEATH

Alleged Convict Dies as Result of Duel in Brother's Yard.

Wounds received in a gun battle with policemen Wednesday night proved fatal Thursday to Victor Dailey, 30, of 452 Newport street, despite efforts at Grady hospital to save his life. Dailey was shot by Patrolman J. A. Etheridge after he is said to have fired two shots at the officer's companion, H. D. Donehoo. Dailey was said to have been armed with a pistol and a shotgun and also was alleged to have been drinking heavily.

The shooting, which occurred at the home of Dailey's brother, J. T. Dailey, 247 Stovall street, took place in the backyard.

Dailey, who was said by police to be an escaped convict from a camp near Chatsworth, had threatened to kill his wife, it was reported, and she fled from her father's home on Newport street to the home of Dailey's brother, where her husband followed and renewed his threats. She called police.

In addition to his wife, Dailey is survived by two small daughters, Alma and Mildred Dailey; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Dailey, and six brothers. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Brandon, Bond & Condon.

WHITNER ANNOUNCES ADDITIONS TO FIRM

Whitner Howard and John S. Whitner have become members of the firm of John C. Whitner & Company, one of the oldest insurance agencies in Atlanta, it was announced Thursday. The agency was established in 1865 by Major John C. Whitner.

In 1906, when Major Whitner died, the management of the agency was taken over by his sons and since 1926 both a local and general agency have been operated. The agency represents large English and American companies, having represented one, the Palatine Insurance Company, Ltd., of London, for 38 years.

In the general agency now are John A. Whitner and Charles F. Whitner, sons of the founder, and Whitner Howard and John S. Whitner, grandsons. In the local agency are: Henry F. Whitner, James T. Whitner, Charles F. Whitner, Jr., and John Charles Whitner, all grandsons of the founder.

Both the new members of the firm have been connected with the company for a number of years.

DIVIDENDDECLARED BY KING HARDWARE

Five per cent cash dividends on business earnings of the King Hardware Company have been distributed to stockholders of the local concern. Undivided profits of nearly the same amount have been set aside from the net income for the same period, it was announced Thursday by Dean S. Paden, vice president and general manager.

Mr. Paden stated that sales for the first six months of the calendar year are 11 per cent higher than those of the same period in 1930, reflecting the steady advance being made in the business.

The hardware executive pointed out that this increase was in total dollar-volume, which means an even larger percentage increase in unit-volume, in view of the generally reduced commodity price.

Mr. Paden attributed the increased sales volume to the policy instituted some time ago. "Some months ago we went entirely through our stock from the fourth floor to the basement, from Buckhead to East Point in branch stores, examining every item in very department of all the stores in reference to the possibility of price reduction," Mr. Paden stated. "Whenever we found the item out of line with current market figures, a readjustment was made quietly, but immediately it resulted in a market stimulus of sales."

3 CHAMBER UNITS PLAN JOINT PARTY

For the first time in the history of the organization, the three units, junior, senior and women's divisions, of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, will get together for a joint summer session and "family party." The party will be held on the grounds of Lakewood park at 6 o'clock Friday evening, July 31. Over 300 prominent Atlantans are invited.

A Junior Chamber committee, headed by Dr. Rayford W. Tharpe, vice president of the Jaycees, is perfecting the entertainment plans. Festivities will include a "Tubby Walton" chicken dinner, midway rides and a dance in the park casino. Junior Chamber members on the committee in charge of arrangements with Dr. Tharpe are Frank Shaw, George Yancey, Duncan Peek, John Armour, Frank Hill, Mike Benton, Jack Patterson and Al Terry. The women's division will co-operate with the Junior Chamber.

ROGERS FORCES PLAN FOR TRI-STATE OUTING

Employes of 400 Stores To Gather Here Sunday and Monday.

Employes from three states in which the 400 grocery stores of Rogers, Inc., are located will assemble in Atlanta Sunday and Monday for what is heralded as the largest annual outing ever planned in the history of the company.

A huge parade, headed by police escort and a band, and made up of 400 automobiles, in addition to decorated floats, trucks and busses, carrying 3,500 employes with their families and friends, will mark the opening of the gala event. It will pass through the principal downtown streets Monday morning.

Featuring the parade will be the distribution of 50,000 coupons in the streets along the route of the parade, redeemable at the Rogers stores for foods and household articles totaling $3,000 in value. The coupons will be thrown from the cars in the parade to spectators along the sidewalks. The parade is expected to leave the Rogers warehouse on Whitehall street between 9:30 and 10 o'clock.

The line of procession will be up Whitehall and Peachtree streets to Baker street, east to Ivy street, then south to Decatur street, up one block to Pryor street and over South Pryor to Lakewood park. It is estimated a large portion of the city's population will line the downtown streets, where the 50,000 coupons will be cast into the air to flutter down on lucky spectators. Adults presenting the coupons at Rogers stores Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will be given the articles described.

All Rogers stores, including nearly 100 in South Carolina, 150 in Georgia, outside of Atlanta, 150 in Atlanta, and a few in Alabama will be closed for the occasion and the managers, their employes and families invited to participate in the annual outing. The Ansley hotel has been designated as headquarters and three floors reserved for Sunday afternoon and night to care for the out-of-town employes.

On Monday, the procession, which will be two or three miles long, is expected to reach Lakewood park about 11 o'clock, when the principal festivities will begin.

A gargantuan barbecue to be prepared from 2,000 pounds of lamb, 2,000 pounds of pork loin, 1,000 pounds of veal and 2,000 pounds of hens for Brunswick stew, and which has required enlargement of Lakewood's record-size barbecue pits, will be served after arrival of the cars. In addition to the Rogers workers and their friends, a large number of guests, including civic and political leaders, will be present. Numbered badges will be distributed to all individuals of the Rogers' party.

Following the barbecue, activities will be centered at the grandstand and race track, where four negro boxing bouts will be followed by a series of races and variety contests participated in by the company workers. Another feature of the outing will be a baseball game between the teams composed from "out-of-Atlanta employes" and "in-Atlanta boys."

A contest between out-of-town stores and Atlanta stores that has been under way for two months, based upon net results of sales and profits, will reach its climax at the barbecue when the winning side will be announced. In fulfillment of the contest wager, the losing side will be obliged to eat cornbeef and cabbage and forego its shares of the barbecue unless the winners relent in view of the abundant supply of barbecue being prepared.

Local P. O. Inspectors Aid Roundup Of Big Bandit Gang in Illinois

The story of how local postoffice inspectors have trailed a gang of alleged gunmen and stick-up artists for more than a year, only to run them to earth after one had been killed and another had killed a deputy sheriff after a bank holdup, was revealed here Thursday with the return to the city of the inspectors, Frank C. Ellis and G. McGregor. Three men held in Watseka, Ill., have confessed to 10 postoffice holdups and two bank robberies.

According to the signed confession of the three captured bandits they are the ones who robbed the postoffice at Barnesville on February 4 of this year, taking more than $5,000 in stamps and money.

The local men went to work on the case and soon connected them as a gang with nine other holdups of postoffices. The next after the Barnesville affair was at Miami Beach, Fla., on February 11, where they failed to open a safe and got nothing. It was here that they gave a clerk back his own personal money with the remark that he had to work for it, and that they just wanted "government money."

The three held are Pierce F. Lanigan, Edward Frauenfelder and Joe Jazorak. The latter is said by the local federal officers to have succeeded Tracey Howard Cortright, alias Joe Hayes, as head of the gang when Cortright was killed by a cashier in an attempted holdup of a state bank at Marlboro, Md., on April 9.

The three were captured last Friday night near Watseka, and all are held on a charge of murder growing out of a holdup of a bank at Buffalo, Ill., on July 17. It is alleged that Jazorak killed Deputy Sheriff Henry Ennen, of Ford county, Illinois, while making his getaway. He is alleged to have told the sheriff to surrender after the sheriff had fired all of the ammunition from a shotgun, and that after he placed his hands in the air, walked to him and shot him down in cold blood.

The postal inspectors, hot on the trail of the three, found them in the hands of state's authorities, but obtained confessions of the postal robberies. Ellis and McGregor will return to Watseka Monday to assist in the prosecution. If and when the state is finished with the three, they will be brought back to Georgia to face trial for the Barnesville affair. Other officers associated on the probe were J. A. McWhorter and N. Hoffman.

Summer fruits for Winter Days

DURING the long winter, when it is so difficult to vary the diet, how good it is to have a pantry well stocked with jams, jellies and preserves.

Now is the time when all good housewives are "putting up" the luscious summer fruits for winter use. Appetizing aromas float from the kitchen on every little breeze.

Recipe: GRAPE JELLY
Grapes, Water, Dixie Crystals Sugar
Wash grapes, put in preserving kettle with water, let come to boil, mash and strain. Boil juice 20 minutes, then add ¾ pounds Dixie Crystals Sugar to each pint of juice. Cook 15 minutes, skimming while boiling. Pour in jelly glasses and seal when cold.

It is well to remember that the secret of good preserving is the use of an abundance of good, pure Sugar. DIXIE CRYSTALS is the very sugar to use for delicious jams, and clear, delicate jellies and preserves—it is so fresh, so easily soluble, and so absolutely pure.

At your grocer's

TRIBUTE TO DR. WHITE PAID IN ANDERSON

Business Suspended in South Carolina City as Georgia Pastor Is Buried.

ANDERSON, S. C., July 23.—(AP) Dr. John Ellington White, who first attracted attention as captain of one of the south's earliest football teams, and later rose to a position of eminence in Baptist circles of three states, was buried here Thursday.

Business in Anderson was suspended while practically the entire citizenship joined members of his faith in paying final tribute to the 62-year-old churchman who died in Savannah, Ga., Tuesday.

For 12 years Dr. White lived and worked in Anderson. He came here in 1915 from the Second Baptist church at Atlanta, Ga., which he served 15 years and became president of Anderson College and pastor of the First Baptist church here.

In 1927 he went to Savannah to become pastor of the First Baptist church there. Two years later he was elected president of the Georgia Baptist convention and at the time of his death was president of the Savannah Protestant Ministers' Association, a trustee of Mercer University and of Shorter College.

He was a native of Clayton, N. C., and a graduate of Wake Forest College where he played football in the late '80's. He served churches at Wilson and Edenton, N. C., before going to Atlanta in 1900. While in North Carolina, he served as general secretary of the Baptist convention in that state.

Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church, Atlanta, conducted the funeral services. He was assisted by Dr. Warren M. Seay, pastor of the local church and other local ministers.

Senior deacons of the Savannah church served as pallbearers while deacons of the Anderson church, members of the local Rotary Club and a group of prominent men from South Carolina, North Carolina and Georgia made up an honorary escort.

Included in this group were United States Senator J. W. Bailey, of North Carolina; Frederic J. Paxon, of Atlanta; Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, of Greenville, president of Furman University and of the Southern Baptist convention; Dr. Z. T. Cody, of Greenville; Dr. E. W. Sikes, president of Clemson College and Federal Judge H. H. Watkins, of Anderson.

According to reports to officers, Holt chased Yarbrough around an automobile several times and the latter suddenly stopped and began cutting Holt with a small penknife. The wounds are not deep, but it was necessary to take the wounded man to a hospital in an ambullance.

WOMAN'S TRIAL OPENS IN STOCKING MURDER

Defense Loses Attempt To Disqualify Star Witness of State.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 23. (AP)—Inez Temples watched every move that was made and listened intently to every statement Thursday as Solicitor-General C. S. Baldwin brought before a jury testimony that links her with the death of Edna Horton, 14-year-old white boy, who was found in the home of Robert Seay last November strangled to death by a silk stocking.

Seay was convicted for the murder of Horton on Tuesday and was in court today to assist in the defense.

Evidence was introduced tending to show that Horton was the principal witness in a case charging a statutory offense against the Seay brothers and the women.

The defense made an attempt to disqualify the testimony of Billy Grimes, star witness for the state, who testified that he saw the two women and Robert Seay taking the boy to the Seay home from a woods near by. Attorney C. B. McCullar, of defense counsel, failed in his impeachment proceedings. Mr. McCullar wanted to show that the witness was mentally incompetent but Judge James A. Park sustained an objection made by the prosecution.

The court recessed late this afternoon until 9 o'clock tomorrow when the defense will introduce two other witnesses and place the defendant on the stand. The case will probably reach the jury Friday.

The courthouse has been packed to its capacity throughout the trial.

Bootle's Report Reveals Decrease In Middle Georgia Liquor Cases

MACON, Ga., July 23.—(AP)—The fact that the federal prohibition harvest in Macon and the middle district of Georgia during the fiscal year just ended was 224 cases less than that of the previous year is attributed by United States Attorney W. A. Bootle to wiser bootlegging or less whisky.

Mr. Bootle this afternoon released his annual report, prepared for the attorney general in Washington. It showed only 619 prohibition cases commenced in the district during the fiscal year ended June 30. The report for the same period last year showed 843 cases.

Liquor, he commented, "certainly is not sold as openly this year as during the year before. If they're selling it, they're taking it farther up into the attic and farther back into the alley."

Mr. Bootle said there had been no letup in the enforcement efforts during the last year. The fact is, he declared, the middle district of Georgia has had more agents and they have been more active.

"Cases are just harder to make, either because bootleggers are becoming wiser and because there is less liquor."

The attorney said the emphasis of the prohibition department during the year has been placed on manufacturing instead of bootlegging. He said the department had been out for the "big boys," and had brought several of them to trial during the year.

Other outstanding features of Mr. Bootle's report on prohibition are:

	Ending Fiscal Year 1930	Ending Fiscal Year 1929
Cases pending close	195	202
Cases terminated	668	850
Convictions	564	767
Acquittals	30	24
Nolle prossed	74	59
Pleas of guilty	483	686
Jury trials	111	105
Fugitives	14	9
Fines, etc., imposed	$18,385	$25,745
Collected	$ 9,519	$15,343

At the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 1931, there were 146 cases pending.

P.-T. A. Sessions Also Are Concluded; Music Leaders Will Adjourn Today.

ATHENS, Ga., July 23.—Two of three institutes at the University of Georgia summer school closed Thursday and the other will end Friday, after bringing hundreds of visitors from all over Georgia and the south here.

The County School Superintendents' Institute and the Institute of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, which opened Tuesday, closed Thursday afternoon. The Southern Music Teachers' Institute, which is being held in connection with the Grand Opera Week, will close its three-day session Friday.

"Higher social standards should be set for the young people in dress, manners, speech, and recreation," said Mrs. W. E. Monts in a talk before the P.-T. A. Institute Thursday morning. She criticized the wearing of high-heel shoes and satin dresses. The need of a schoolroom library, better music, better movies and better art for children also was stressed by Mrs. Monts.

"There should be some set standard for the modern age," said Mrs. R. H. Hankinson. "In the old days there were set rules—such as a man wearing his coat when with a woman, a man not smoking in the presence of women, etc. Today, however, there are no set standards. Boys and girls literally pack themselves in automobiles, five and more to the seat; parties begin at midnight and continue until 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning. There should be some fixed standards, some improved methods to govern what boys and girls should do."

District chairmen who addressed the institute included: Tenth district, Mrs. George H. Baldowski; eleventh district, Mrs. W. S. McClain, and Mrs. C. C. Stebbins, and twelfth district, Mrs. D. D. Smith.

Others speakers were Miss Leila Bunce, "Home Economics, School Lunch and School Cafeteria"; Miss Beverly Wheatcroft, "Books"; Miss Martha McAlpine, "Parent Education"; Mrs. H. G. Parks, "Publicity"; Mrs. Irving Rothchilds, "Councils"; Mrs. I. H. Hofmayer, "History"; Mrs. Bruce Carr Jones, "True and False Tests"; Mrs. M. E. Judd, Mrs. Jere W. Wells and Mrs. I. L. Waxelbaum, "Criticisms"; Mrs. John W. Lloyd, "Final Examinations."

Adoption of uniform textbooks for the state's public schools through the junior colleges, adoption and strict adherence to a detailed budget system, recommendation of the rental textbook plan, and the need of a public opinion strong enough to save civilization from another war were urged to state school superintendents, principals, teachers and others at the closing session of the superintendents' meeting.

Among those speaking were Professor W. M. Holsombeck, superintendent of the Barrow county public schools; Miss Jeannette Rankin, first United States congresswoman from Montana, who now lives near Athens; Superintendent B. M. Grier, of the Athens public schools; Dr. E. D. Pusey, dean of the Peabody School of Education; Dr. J. S. Stewart, university summer school director, and Superintendents E. L. Bridges, W. J. Andrews, and A. N. Swain.

Discussing the problem of the selection of textbooks in the state, Professor Holsombeck, superintendent of the Barrow county public schools, urged at the superintendents' conference that the same textbooks should be used by all public schools throughout the state.

Miss Rankin declared that the people of the world had to choose between war or civilization. "Civilization cannot withstand another war," she said.

Dr. Pusey urged adoption of a detailed budget for every county, a state classification and certification of all teachers, and a minimum salary standard for superintendents, principals, supervisors and teachers.

He pointed out that it was demoralizing to reduce salaries or to fail to pay salaries.

The textbook rental, adopted more than a year ago by the Athens public schools, was advocated as the best plan for the state at present by Superintendent Grier. "It saves the pupil well over half of his or her textbook fees and has advantages over all the other plans offered," he said.

REV. JAMES ENGLAND PASSES IN JONESBORO

JONESBORO, Ga., July 23.—The Rev. James E. England, 84, superannuated Methodist minister, died at his home in Jonesboro at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon after an extended illness.

Mr. England had been a member of the north Georgia conference since 1875. He was one of the few circuit preachers that had been chosen by the conference as delegate to Southern Methodist conventions.

Although Mr. England held many pastorates, he also engaged in revival and circuit work. During this work, he made many friends throughout the state. Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon from the Jonesboro Methodist church.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. J. H. Jolly, of Taylorsville, and Mrs. E. L. Bryant, of Decatur, and three sons, L. C., P. I. and James O., all of Atlanta, and two sisters, Mrs. Robert Williams, of Maysville, and Mrs. Mollie Matthews, of Jacksonville, Fla.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR GEORGE H. WOOTEN

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 23.—Funeral services for George Henry Wooten, 72, who died after being hit by an Atlanta & West Point passenger train, were held Thursday morning at the chapel of Hammett & Groover, the Rev. L. W. Twiggs conducting the services.

Mr. Wooten, while walking in the Calumet community early Tuesday morning, apparently walked into the side of the slow-moving Crescent Limited which had just left the station bound for Atlanta. Mr. Wooten did not hear the train nor the warnings of fellow pedestrians. He was thrown several yards by the blow and never recovered consciousness.

Mr. Wooten came to LaGrange 15 years ago and for 10 years was a bookkeeper for Dr. F. M. Ridley.

THREE PERSONS JAILED IN DEATH OF OFFICER

Home Addresses of Two Men and Woman Sought at Waycross.

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 23.—(AP)—County officers today were attempting to learn the home addresses of two men and one woman held in the Ware county jail on charges of fatally injuring County Policeman James Hilton Johnson yesterday.

Sheriff L. C. Warren said that one of the men and the woman in the car gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. William C. Devere. He said a marriage license found in their automobile showed they were married in Mayport, Ky., February 21, 1925, and that the marriage license was issued to Miss Catherine Hallmark.

The sheriff said today that this couple had given their names after their arrest last night as Mr. and Mrs. William C. Bedere. The second man who the sheriff said last night told them his name was Andrews, today gave his name as Norman.

None of the trio would give their home addresses, although Sheriff Warren said their car bore an Ohio license tag with the number 925550.

Johnson was killed when an automobile he had taken in custody on a charge of carrying liquor swerved into a trestle and knocked him off the running board.

The occupants of the car drove away, but officers took up the chase and found the abandoned car, carrying 30 cases of liquor 12 miles from here. One man and the woman were arrested nearby and the other was captured after a search by a posse of several hundred persons.

COOKING SCHOOL COMES TO CLOSE

Huge Attendance Makes Course One of Most Successful Staged by Constitution.

Topped off by a highly successful climax, The Atlanta Constitution's summer cooking school came to a close Thursday. Thousands of women of Atlanta and vicinity attended the four lectures and on the last day Keith's Georgia theater, in which the sessions were held, was packed with interested enthusiasts.

Mrs. Ralph Paris, well-known member of the Young Matron's Circle of the Tallulah Falls school, was the official hostess for Thursday and introduced Mrs. Vera Howard Hall, nationally prominent cooking expert.

This particular summer cooking school has been one of the most successful events staged by The Atlanta Constitution and has entertained and instructed thousands of women over the four days. Mrs. Vera Howard Hall has delighted her large audience each day with many varied and appetizing dishes and the local housewives have been as one in saying that they have gained a great deal of valuable information from her lectures. Mrs. Hall's inimitable manner of getting over to her audience exactly how to prepare culinary masterpieces has made this summer cooking school an outstanding success.

Mrs. Hall was delighted with the way in which she was received by Atlanta housewives. "Atlanta has always been interested in better things to eat and this session has proved to me that in no other section of the south are housewives more eager to learn new and quicker ways of preparing them. I am enthusiastic over the kind and generous reception given my efforts and I have done my very best to please everybody. I do hope I'll have the privilege of returning to Atlanta and again be associated with The Constitution's summer cooking school."

Summer cooking schools were instituted by The Atlanta Constitution several years ago and have always been well attended by local women. This event is just one of the ways in which The Constitution strives to serve the local housewives who, by their attendance, show they are intensely interested in learning how to better manage their homes.

The following well-known companies co-operated in the cooking school: Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, W. D. Alexander Company, Atlanta Ford Dealers, Beaute Bob Salon, Coca-Cola Bottling Company, Corn Products Company, Davison-Paxon Company, Edison General Electric Appliance Company, Georgia Pure Milk League, General Food Sales Company, Inc., Myron E. And Still None Knows Truth of Brodie Leap

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—It's just 45 years to a day since Steve Brodie bobbed up soaking wet under Brooklyn bridge to win undying fame and add a phrase to American slang.

But the argument about it isn't settled yet. Gatherings of Brooklyn sporting fans still get hot and bothered debating the question:

"Did he jump or was it just a clever stunt with a dummy?"

Some will loudly maintain that the former newsboy who had developed into a sport was seen on the dizzy span an instant before he appeared in the river. Others will offer to eat their hat if he leaped from anything higher than a tugboat.

"FLYING MISSIONARY" CRASHES NEAR BUFFALO

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 23.—(AP)—An airplane flown by Brother George Feltes, S. J., flying missionary on his way back from New York to his post in Alaska, crashed in a field near the municipal airport as it was coming down to land at the port this afternoon. Brother Feltes was believed not seriously injured.

FOREST FIRES RAGE IN 4 WESTERN STATES

Flames Spread Path of Ruin in Vast Timber Lands.

DENVER, Col., July 23.—(UP)—Forest fires spread a wide path of ruin tonight through the vast timber lands of four western states.

In the picturesque Black Hills of South Dakota, the heavily wooded "dude ranch" district of Montana, the virgin forests of Wyoming's Yellowstone park, and the pine-clad hills of Idaho, the blazes leaped from tree to tree, demolished thousands of acres of timber, brought some 2,500 firefighters on the run and threatened damage almost unparalleled in the west. The Black Hills fire was the only one which could be checked.

One of the largest fires blackened the forest near the copper mining city of Anaconda, Mont. Miners, cowboys and dude ranchers hastened with shovels in frenzied attempts to check the blaze with deep dug trenches.

Two parties of smoke-blackened vacationists staggered to safety after they had been rescued from the fire zone by the cowboys employed on the Mount Haggin dude ranch.

Blistering winds sent another serious blaze rushing through the Salmon forest of Idaho toward Big Hole pass and into Beaverhead National forest, toppling over thousands of ancient green pines as it went. Some 300 men fought the flames, hoping for rain, though there was no indication of this aid to their fight.

J. Pierpont Morgan Jr. and other eastern notables spending vacations in the dude ranch country of Wyoming have pitched in with cowboys, ranchers, forest rangers and all other available hands to battle forest fires.

Morgan came 40 miles from the Diamond G ranch to assist in fighting the blaze near Dubois, which for a time threatened the C. M. dude ranch.

FLA. HOUSE PASSES APPROPRIATIONS BILL

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 23.—(AP)—The house today passed, 60 to 31, a biennial appropriations bill carrying provision for approximately $13,400,000 by state departments in the next two years.

The bill was passed after only a few amendments were adopted to a bill presented yesterday by the house appropriations committee. The senate already has passed an appropriations bill, carrying different provisions for expenditure than those listed in the house bill.

Both bodies of the legislature must agree on an appropriations bill before it can be sent to the governor for approval or disapproval.

A much-amended house bill to increase state occupational licenses was passed by the senate today, 22 to 13.

BIRMINGHAM PASTOR FACES OUSTER MOVE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 23.—(AP)—The News today says a resolution by the board of deacons of the First Presbyterian church here calling for the resignation of Dr. Trevor Mordecai as pastor will be presented at a congregational meeting next Sunday.

Dr. Mordecai is vacationing in Florida and it is understood he will not be present at the meeting. Asked for a statement, he referred the News to a member of the church who is acting as his spokesman.

ATLANTA'S SCOUTS GREET SIPLE TODAY

Boy Scouts of the Atlanta Council are planning a big day for Paul Siple, the Scout who spent two years at the south pole with Admiral Byrd. Young Siple will arrive at 7 o'clock this morning at the union station, where he will be met by the Boy Scout officials and escorted to the camp at Vinings, 14 miles northwest of Atlanta.

PAUL SIPLE.

The program includes field day and rally contests, water contests, picnic on the ground, an address by Siple and a campfire. All Scouts and public are invited, but are requested to bring their own lunch.

Young Siple celebrated his twenty-first birthday in the antarctic. He left New York while still 19, the youngest member of the expedition and one of the youngest in any group of explorers. Commander Byrd commented on his ability in withstanding the hardships of the antarctic ice and his being "a man among men." Siple was selected from a group of 600 Scouts to go with Byrd as his orderly.

BILBO CALLS SOLDIERS TO AID POLL PURGERS

JACKSON, Miss., July 23.—(AP)—The calling out of the militia today to keep order at the checking of the voters' polls in Issaquena county added spice to Mississippi's political campaign that has lumbered along for weeks in listless fashion.

With only a scant dozen days remaining before the ballots will be cast in the democratic primary, the political fervor has been confined mainly to the 7,000 candidates who have stepped on each other's heels in their race to get their voices heard above the din.

But the approximately 250,000 qualified voters refuse to be blasted out of their lathargy by stump oratory. They feel that one candidate per 35 qualified voters is spreading it on a little thick. The usual whooping of the candidate that once brought the voters to their feet with wild cheers now produces only mild handclaps and even the annual rally of the patrons' union, where guns frequently have been drawn after partisan disputes, had difficulty in drawing a yell.

Now that bayonets have been mixed with the issues, some of the candidates' managers believe that public interest will be aroused to the delight of the old timers at the cross roads.

State militiamen were sent to Issaquena today by Governor Theodore G. Bilbo after a delegation of women had told him there was danger of bloodshed when the election commission began checking the rolls of voters and pointed out that at the last meeting a gun was drawn when the commission could not agree on striking off some names.

The governor sent 30 soldiers to guard the county's 275 ballots, making one soldier for less than ten votes. Some citizens of the county objected vigorously against bringing in the troops, saying the situation had not "produced any smoke, let alone fire."

TENNESSEE SHERIFF DIES OF WOUNDS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 23.—(AP) Sheriff J. Mart Murphy, 44, of Robertson county, whose wounding Monday resulted in national guardsmen being summoned to Springfield to protect his assailant, died in a hospital here today.

Murphy received the discharge of a shotgun just below the heart while he was attempting to arrest Everett Holloway, 35, who was said by officers to have been threatening his wife with a butcher knife. The sheriff was brought to Nashville immediately after the shooting, and Holloway was placed in jail at Springfield.

When a large crowd gathered around the Springfield jail Tuesday, national guardsmen were called from Nashville to avert possible trouble. By Tuesday night the crowd around the jail had grown to such proportions that it was decided to bring the prisoner to Nashville. It was necessary for the militiamen to push their way through the crowd with bayonets before they could get Holloway to a waiting automobile. He was placed in jail at Nashville.

American Catholics Seek Canonization Of Mother Seton

VATICAN CITY, July 23.—(AP)—A petition bearing the signatures of 150,000 Americans asking that the first American saint be created in the person of Mother Elizabeth Seton, founder of the Sisters of Charity in the United States, was presented to Pope Pius XI today.

The Rev. Joseph B. Code, of Saint Ambrose College, Davenport, Iowa, gave the pope a huge scroll and recalled that the cause of beatification was introduced in 1907 by Pope Pius X.

Mother Seton inaugurated practically every work of Catholic social welfare in the United States," Father Code said.

The pontiff asked for a copy of Father Code's preamble, saying he would read it at leisure. He imparted the apostolic blessing on the whole order founded by Mother Seton.

Enthusiastic Yeggs Lose Loot in Blast

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., July 23.—(AP)—Robbers who yesterday entered the office of a soft drink company here and carted a safe to the banks of a canal for opening, got little for their trouble.

The charge of the explosive they used to crack the safe was so strong it wrecked the strong box and the cash contents—$196.70—were destroyed.

EX-CONVICT CAPTURED AFTER DUAL KILLING

Reputed Bootlegger Slays Two To Escape Agents' Trap.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 23.—(AP)—Four hours after he shot and killed two federal prohibition agents to escape a trap they laid for him, George Adams, reputed Fort Wayne bootlegger, and former convict, was captured by local police early today.

Cornered on a road at the south edge of the city with a load of liquor the agents had ordered last night, Adams shot and killed at close range John J. Wilson, 40, of Rockwell Center, Iowa, ranking special agent in the Indianapolis prohibition enforcement office. Wilson was said by his companions to be unarmed.

Then, wounded in the neck and cheek by shots from the gun of Walter M. Gilbert, 33, special agent from Cincinnati, Adams returned the fire and Gilbert fell, fatally wounded. He died an hour later in a Fort Wayne hospital.

A special federal prohibition informer, C. E. Green, of Portland, Ind., and another special agent, Oliver J. Gettle, of Indianapolis, who said Adams "seemed to be crazy," dived for cover to escape the fire from Adams' gun. Both were cut by barbed wire fencing in a culvert into which they dropped.

GOVERNORS' PARLEY ON COTTON URGED

AUSTIN, Texas, July 23.—(AP)—A resolution requesting Governor R. S. Sterling to call a conference of governors of cotton-producing states to discuss the cotton situation and remedial measures was adopted unanimously by the Texas house today. The date would be set by Governor Sterling.

The cotton acreage reduction bill to restrict the acreage of each farm that could be planted to cotton was introduced today by Representative J. J. Olsen, of Yonkum. Cotton acreage of each farm would be reduced 50 per cent. The bill would prohibit the same land being planted in cotton on successive years.

The law would not become effective until a similar law had been passed by four other cotton-producing states.

MAKING IT UNANIMOUS.

Discussing the probability of the nomination by the democrats of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, Mark Sullivan says in a news article appearing elsewhere that "If Governor Roosevelt remains a little while longer as the only candidate in an active, nation-wide sense, it will be impossible to deny him the nomination."

As a matter of fact his nomination is already practically assured. It requires but little knowledge of national political conditions to know that no man yet mentioned as a possible opponent, can defeat him.

Even though the New York governor, who for the past several years has spent much of his time in Georgia, has not announced his candidacy, at least a third of the states are already practically committed to send delegations to the national convention favorable to his candidacy.

Among these states are some of those having the largest number of delegates, notably New York and Pennsylvania. In several other states, with Georgia heading the list, strong statewide Roosevelt-for-president organizations have been formed.

The republican press has zealously spread rumors about a possible antagonistic attitude by former Governor Al Smith, and is constantly stressing the strength of other candidates. This is easily explained by the fact that of all democratic possibilities Roosevelt is the most feared by the republicans.

The democratic press is overwhelmingly of the opinion that Governor Roosevelt's nomination is assured, and that he will receive the undivided support of the majority of the democratic leaders.

The efforts of the republicans to create the impression that there is a split between Smith and Roosevelt evidences their ardent desire to head off the New York governor in his steady progress toward the nomination. Whatever may be said of Governor Smith, he has never been accused of ingratitude and no man in the whole country has stood closer by him than Governor Roosevelt.

Despite the effort of the republicans to drum up opposition and dissension, it is becoming more and more apparent every day that there have been few things more definitely preordained in the realm of politics than the nomination of Governor Roosevelt.

Every indication now points to the next presidential race being between the virile, clear-thinking New Yorker and President Hoover.

The result is already known in the record of the failure of the republican administration, and in the general demand for a change.

Great Britain and the United States, it would seem, took the spotlight right away from France as a result of the London conference on the German crisis.

Speaking of records, how about the swimming star who was in such a hurry to get a degree in mathematics that she flew from Atlanta to Los Angeles?

Dawes and Dwight Morrow have been helping Hoover to apply the presidential pulmotor to the gasping Reich. Evidently it was from the start more than a one-man job.

If you wish to know the meaning of "irreducible minimum," just lamp the latest bathing suits for flappers.

NO TIME TO RAISE TAXES.

In connection with the proposed water rate increase it should be remembered that a specific tax once increased is rarely reduced.

Instead of this addition to the tax burden already being borne by the public, municipal expenses should first be reduced to the measure of the city's income.

The city knows the amount of its annual income, and every department should be conducted at an expense confined to that limit.

If this is done there will be no necessity for an increase in water rates.

This is no time for governmental "luxuries" of any kind. On the other hand the city's operating expenses should be cut to the lowest possible minimum, as has been done by all commercial and industrial establishments.

Instead, the city has been moving to create new expenses. Among these proposals is a pension authorization, which would tack an additional expense on the city at a time when it cannot pay its way out of current income. Council at its last meeting, wisely refused to give approval to this measure, which, it is to be hoped, has thus been effectively squelched.

Every dollar of expense added at this time simply means a further contribution to the existing demoralization of the municipality's financial affairs.

What the people want and should have is a lowered tax burden instead of an increased one.

Once lower the pension gates as proposed and the city will be on a fair way to ruin.

Certainly now is not the time for the city to assume any such burden.

GOVERNMENTAL "LUXURIES."

Governor Jullus L. Meier, of Oregon, in a recent article strikes directly at the root of the problem of high taxation when he writes in a recently published article that the present is no time for "governmental luxuries."

In commenting on the situation in Oregon, Governor Meier emphasizes that the only way to reduce taxes "is to reduce the cost of government . . . and if we are to be rescued from the present excessive cost of local government and confiscatory taxation, we must learn to deny ourselves many of the things which we would enjoy but which we cannot afford to possess."

Oregon with an area of 96,000 square miles has only 36 counties, while Georgia with an area of only 59,000 miles is split up into 161 counties.

Fully half, and probably more, of the governments of those 161 counties come under the head of "luxuries" which could be done away without impairing in the slightest degree the service being received by the taxpayers.

So long as the people of the smaller counties, who are taking more out of the state treasury than they are putting in, insist upon supporting useless groups of county officers, they may expect no relief from their present excessive local tax burdens.

As Governor Meier says, the only way to reduce taxes is to reduce the cost of government. An easy way to do that is presented in Georgia through the adoption of a carefully considered plan of statewide consolidations of groups of useless counties.

The plight of Germany should be an impressive warning to other nations that yearn to make war whoopee.

That McPherson skirt can point to her Ma and plead pre-natal inheritance with a ten-to-one chance to get by with it.

The shade of Mary Ellen Lease is calling to the Kansans once more to "raise more hell and less wheat!" They could do worse than that.

Secretary Hyde has gone west to find out what the farmers are mad about. He will be as successful as if he'd kicked into a hornets' nest.

The "nude cult" is growing rapidly in Germany. That is one method of economic salvage.

Having butted into the European mess President Hoover must butt through to goal or lose his goat.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

The World's Armies.

Six nations of the world are to spend more than two billion dollars during 1931 in keeping their war machines in good order, according to the French bureau of the League of Nations. Of the six the United States, with the smallest army, spends the most. Italy and Japan, which have small armies but big reserves, spend less than any of the other powers, with the exception of Germany, whose army is restricted by the Versailles treaty.

According to the statisticians the world spends one hundred times as much on the war machines as it does on diplomacy, states the British United Press in connection with this announcement. The United States and Japan are spending more, proportionately, than they did before the war on the upkeep of their war machinery. Britain, France, Germany and Italy are spending less. America's increase in costs between 1913 and 1931 is 86 per cent. Japan in the same period has increased her expenditure by 48 per cent. Britain is spending 1 per cent less than prewar, Italy 14 per cent and France 16 per cent.

As set out in the league's military annual, from which the French statisticians worked, the 1930-31 naval, military and air expenditures of the nations were: Great Britain, $555,104,204; United States, $668,277,000; France, $475,059,805; Japan, $250,000,000; Italy, $255,000,000, and Germany, $160,000,000.

Incomprehensible Russians.

Don Miguel De Unamuno, the great Catalonian who has returned to the rectorship of Salamanca from which Alphonso deprived him and sent him into exile, has analyzed the Russian revolution and the spirit of that extraordinary people, still so little understood in the east. Idealistic Russia he pictures as a savage who takes up in earnest the follies that have been born in the brains of more civilized nations. These latter construe fine theories, says Don Miguel, such as the doctrines of Christianity and communism contain, but they make sure never to apply them. But Russia believes in them, takes them to heart and wants to bring them to reality. Michelet, the French historian, already has the same idea in mind when he wrote: "Russia tells us today she represents Christianity. Tomorrow she will say 'I represent socialism'." It is true that all the illuminati of history have been Russia's masters: St. Paul, Rousseau, George Sand, Ibsen and Karl Marx, most of them enemies of society. "Russia," goes on Unamuno, "is a religious animal and the western nations are political animals. Russia has been Christian for centuries, not Christian in the western sense of the world but primitive and revolutionary. Communism to the Russians is a religion, curiously and mystically linked with Christianity. This must have been in the mind of the Russian poet, Alexander Blok when he wrote: 'Before the Red Flag marches the figure of Jesus Christ'."

Today Is Anniversary Hoover's Proclamation For World Peace

Editor Constitution: July 24, 1929, President Hoover pronounced the pact forswearing recourse to war for the settlement of all disputes to be in effect and active. All the great powers of the world are signatory to this treaty, and in their respective countries the people rose en masse and demanded this participation in the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy. In this third year of hope, we the nation who took a leading part in the above mentioned declaration have the opportunity to prove we meant what we said.

The recent report of the expenditure for world armament is appalling—$4,158,000,000—an increase of about $100,000,000 over the previous year's figures. We spent $707,425,000—roughly 1-6 of the total; the Soviet Union, $578,943,000; France, $466,980,000; Great Britain, $465,255,000; Italy, $248,946,000; Japan, $236,861,500; India, $211,587,622; Germany, $171,923,040; Spain, $112,583,000; China, $94,291,650, and Poland, $92,873,000. The other nations' expenditures were all below $50,000,000.

Will the citizens of this country demand real, drastic reduction at the coming Disarmament Conference?

You may use this letter as a reminder of the need to observe July 24, and its contents as material for an editorial. The public should have the facts, the figures and the thought.

NEGRO LABOR LEADER LOCATED AT TUSKEGEE

AKRON, Ohio, July 23.—(AP)—C. Louis Alexander, Barberton negro labor leader, whose disappearance February 4 led to a grand jury investigation and indirectly to two battles between Barberton police and communist sympathizers, has been located at Tuskegee, Ala., Prosecutor Don Isham said today.

Isham said he would leave today for Tuskegee to obtain Alexander's statements for the grand jury investigation of the negro's disappearance.

Three Barberton patrolmen were charged with abduction in connection with Alexander's disappearance, but the charges later were dismissed.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 23.—Norma Shearer returns from Europe with her winter wardrobe and every feminine eye in Hollywood is peeled for results.

The first thing they learned from Mrs. Irving Thalberg is the fact that hats have taken a new slant. The straight off the brow line—like a baby's cap—is a thing of the past. Nonchalant and naive it may have been, but the new chapeaux have taken a right and left tilt across the head.

And Norma Shearer's black derby, right down over one eye and way up on the other side, was expressive of the new idea. They also learned from a study of this young lady's traveling costume that the other departures are not so radical as we would think.

Print dresses—and how we swore they were over—are still with us. Norma Shearer wore a black print—very large as to pattern. In fact, the design of great white leaves left one in doubt as to whether it was a black dress with a white pattern or vice versa. The black suede gloves came well below the elbow with numerous wrinkles. And the slim arm in between was free of bracelets.

Oh, yes, it was hotter than the hinges, but La Shearer wore a pair of sables—carelessly tossed about the neck—just an anchorage for the splash of orchids which are the conventional accessory of this favorite.

Of the evening modes the flowered chiffons are greatly in evidence, although we kissed them goodbye a year ago and swore to affect other things. Nothing makes a woman more alluring and feminine than flowered chiffon. And women, these days, won't wear anything which does't contribute to youth and beauty.

Norma Shearer is about to make a direct departure in films—that is a direct departure from the usual Shearer thing we have come to expect—she will play demure and sincere roles for a change.

If every Hollywood movie actress would play roles instead of capitalizing herself, we would develop genuine actresses instead of stars with fan followings. The Shearer departure is healthy—for art's sake.

Everybody was so busy watching Jack Gilbert's attentions to a visiting Hawaiian princess that all completely overlooked the June Collyer-Stewart Erwin romance flowering here.

June Collyer is certainly one of the prettiest girls hereabouts. She went over big with Gary Cooper last year when she played in a picture with him. In fact, she went over so well that Lupe Velez took a hand in affairs and nipped that little flirtation in the bud.

Every now and again someone in Hollywood conducts a romance without flourish of trumpets. But more frequently than not it's "tally-ho" when love sits in the driving seat. Everybody knows every move in the game. It is talked about and hinted at and surmised over until it is a miracle any marriages ever occur. The victims must feel heavily married long before they get the idea of making it a permanent feature of their lives.

Winfield Sheehan is back in Hollywood—which always makes other producers sit up nervously and wonder what next. So occupied with the financial angle and the internal dissension in the corporation during the year passed, Sheehan, the most dangerous man in movies (from other producers' angles) has given them little to worry about in the past season.

Now that affairs are all straightened out we may expect some bombshells in a production way. What with the old Celtic spirit at work and a free fight!

The Conning Tower

Nature's Lost Ladies

Now wanton dust-flowers loiter on the road,
Flaunting seductive blue fragility,
Courting the sun's lips and the wind's desire;
Nature's lost ladies, spending recklessly,
Than tended blossoms in a cloistered place.

There is a new racket, in Fairfield county at any rate. It is the orange racket. A high-pressure salesman drives up, says that he is selling oranges by the crate cheaper and better than you can buy—the juice of one of these oranges, he says, is triple the amount you can extract from the ordinary orange purchasable elsewhere. "Just taste one," he says, and offers you one from his pocket. His claims appear conservative. You buy a crate containing 100 oranges for $6.50. The first eight or ten oranges are excellent; the rest are duds. The racketeer who stuck us drove a truck with a Connecticut commercial license plate. But we were too sharp for him; he wanted us to buy three or four crates, and we bought only one.

FUND DIVERSION VOTED BY HOUSE

hoping to get a little piece of cement running through your county.

"There is no excuse nor reason for the state of Georgia to be in the condition it is in when one department of government is rolling in wealth with $5,000 automobiles and $1,800 chauffeurs. Why must everything else in the state take a 15 per cent cut and this 'big baby' be allowed to keep its candy?"

Opens Old Discussion.

Representative Myrick, of Chatham, one of the administration leaders, declared that the Park amendment threw open, anew, the subject of highway diversion which the people of Georgia had opposed when they elected Russell governor.

"If you ever divert these funds once," he said, "you will continue to do so. Once you open the door it will never be closed. I tell you that the highway department is being economically and efficiently operated."

Another opponent of the Park amendment, Representative Mooty, of Troup, agreed with Representative Park that there was "extravagance" in the highway department but asked it not to "create a bigger evil by attempting in this way to correct one."

The committee was thrown into an uproar as it became apparent the amendment had been carried and a definite announcement from Representative L. Thomas Gillen, who was in the chair, brought wild cheering and hand-clapping.

Before it reached the section relating to the highway department, the committee, by a substantial majority, had adopted an amendment by Representative Lance, of Hall county, which strikes $100,000 annually off the budget figures for the department of agriculture.

The department this year is operating under the appropriation of $485,000, a large portion of which is collected from a tax on fertilizer tags. The budget pruning of Governor Russell cut this to $365,000 and 1932 and $355,000 for 1933. The house appropriations committee, adopting the amendment, cut it another $100,000.

Members speaking on the amendment declared that it was offered expressedly for the purpose of stopping publication, by the department, of the Market Bulletin.

Lindsey Gives Support

Representative Lindsey, of DeKalb, supporting the amendment, branded the agricultural department as a "political machine with unlimited funds at its disposal."

Before it resolved itself into the committee of the whole, the house unanimously adopted a motion made by Representative J. W. Culpepper, chairman of the appropriations committee, binding the committee not to increase the total amount of appropriations beyond the budget figures.

It began the day's cutting by lopping $5,000 off the appropriation for clerical and incidental expenses of the governor's office. Another shaving came when it cut $17,000 off the appropriation for insurance premiums on state property.

Indications were that consideration of the common schools and the university system by the committee will be deferred until next week, these sections having been passed over for the consideration of less controversial ones. The highway department flareup, while a repercussion from the common school group, was unexpected.

"It was," one administration supporter said afterward, "the fight of the common schools against the university system but combined with it was an undercurrent running against the administration. I believe the house, though, will reverse itself."

Fuel to the fight on the department of agriculture, which started in the senate with a resolution to probe an expenditure of $14,000 by Commissioner Talmadge to "stabilize" the south Georgia hog market was added with the introduction Thursday of a bill to abolish the bureau of markets, through which the money was spent. Representatives Dorsett, Almand and Bargeron sponsored the measure.

Representative Bush, one of the six members who voted against the reorganization bill Wednesday, obtained permission to change his vote from "no" to "aye," explaining that he had voted under a misapprehension.

One-half of the 20 per cent penalty assessed against delinquent buyers of automobile tags would be turned over to the county sheriff under a substitute for a bill by Representative Shelby Myrick, of Chatham, approved Thursday night by the highway committee of the house. The remaining half of the penalty would go to the state, which receives the entire 20 per cent under the present law. The bill is supported by the Georgia Peace Officers' Association.

Five bills providing for repayment by the state of money advanced by the counties for state road construction were referred to a subcommittee of Representatives Howard, Wood, Donaldson and Tippins. Several of the measures would make minor changes in the organization of the highway department. J. W. Barnett, chairman of the state highway board, was quoted at the meeting as saying that the highway department now is building roads 15 to 20 per cent cheaper than several years ago, and is receiving more money. Supporters of the plan contended that passage of the bills would not hamper the department in its plan for developing Georgia's roads. The present law provides for repayment of the money to the counties when the state road system is completed, but, it was pointed out, additional mileage has been placed in the state system and more is liable to be added.

The committee referred to a subcommittee of Representatives Sick, Trapnell and Strickland a bill requiring red lights on the rear of all vehicles on the highways. Action on a resolution by the Richmond delegation authorizing the highway department to work night shifts in order to aid in relieving unemployment was deferred because of the absence of the authors.

store of arms which was destroyed.

Workers concentrated in a strike at a hat factory had insisted on remaining, but refusing to work, they were ordered to vacate the factory immediately.

Authorities believed the use of artillery probably would pacify the extremists' spirits. Seville tonight was quiet. Cigarette girls and stenographers had resumed work, and street cars and taxicabs were in operation again, under the protection of soldiers.

The fatalities today occurred at Alcala de Guadaira and in Seville. Here civil guards and troops killed four members of a mob who attempted to rescue three truckloads of prisoners. One person was killed at Alcala de Guadaira when civil guards fired on assailants of a guardsman who had been thrown from his horse.

Pablo Rada, aviation mechanic, arrived here from Madrid on his way to Cadiz castle for confinement pending investigation of his alleged complicity in the recent uprising at Tablada airdrome.

A monarchist, Funes Pila, accused of participation in promoting the disorders in Seville, was placed in jail.

FRANCO-GERMAN AMITY HELD VITAL

Laval Asserts Confidence Essential To Security of World.

BY PHILIP H. MYRING.

(Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 23.—(AP)—In a declaration tonight defining the attitude he had adopted throughout the seven-power conference, Premier Pierre Laval, of France, said there would be no peace in the world until confidence reigned between the French and German peoples.

This confidence, he declared, had been brought considerably nearer as a result of the past three days of conversations.

"I believe I have taken the proper course," he said. "The gravity of the financial and economic crisis in Germany caused President Hoover to make his recent proposals. The interested powers agreed to a year's moratorium on reparations and France accepted it on the lines laid down at Paris with Secretary Mellon and Ambassador Edge, of the United States.

"The adoption of the Hoover proposal also settled temporarily Germany's budgetary difficulties until such time as the measures proposed by Chancellor Bruening take effect.

"But during the past few weeks events served to show the sharpness of the crisis and its dangers. What could, and what ought, the French government do? It ought at the same time to safeguard the interests of our country and to observe the obligations of international solidarity.

"We have avoided no single conversation. We participated in the London conference in spite of the risks to which it could expose us. If the negotiators at this conference did not solve definitely the problem of the German crisis, they had the wisdom not to go outside the general outline for the discussion which was laid down in advance.

"Will the measures which have been adopted or recommended prove sufficient to withstand the evil? We must hope so. As to the remedies which will act more profoundly, they require precautions and preparations of a technical nature. That will be the task of the committee which will be appointed by the World Bank for International Settlements.

"These remedies demand, above everything else, an evolution of a political and moral nature. I venture to say that the conversations between the French and German ministers are leading us to a policy composed at the same time of prudence and boldness which will end in confident collaboration with Germany.

"There can be no credits without confidence. There can be no confidence in the world until harmony reigns between our two great peoples. In that lies safety. In that lies peace. And it is thus that all nations which are united with us in bonds of friendship understand the situation.

"Our task is far from being finished. We shall continue to act in the spirit which guided us in Paris and London. I have been wonderfully helped by the ministers who accompanied me here, and I owe a particular debt of gratitude to my friend, Finance Minister Flandin, who has brought his methodical mind, his cleverness and his competence to a solution of problems that have sometimes proved difficult."

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

BOYS SHOULD BOX AND GIRLS BE GRACEFUL.

If I had my way every boy in grammar school would be required to show a reasonable proficiency in boxing as the art is taught in school, and every girl would be required to show reasonable proficiency in dancing, as that art is taught in school, as a requisite for graduation. I would have every boy prepared to settle his disputes or differences with other boys by an encounter in the ring, under proper supervision. I would have every girl blessed with the gracefulness and the self-confidence which comes from the physical training that goes with the study of dancing. Both boys and girls, I believe, should be required to know how to swim and, of course, how to resuscitate before they are allowed to pass on to high school.

To narrow old pedagogues who had no such physical education and who cannot appreciate its importance or value, this will seem absurd. Whatever the old-timers may think about these newfangled fads and foibles, it is assuring to note that our new school buildings, both grammar schools and high schools, are splurging more and more on the equipment for this side of the child's education, and even now in a few schools the physical education teachers are almost on a plane with the teachers who train 'em from the neck up. In the less progressive schools, however, the physical education department still takes the snubs from the hoity-toity side and bides its day.

Parents of the peasant class do not understand what it is all about. To them—as to antiquated pedagogues—all this gymnasium, swimming and field activity is a crazy fad, and accordingly such parents readily conspire with children who seek to evade this part of school work. There are still too many doctors, too, who are quite ready to give a dishonest certificate or excuse to help some misguided boy or girl dodge gym class. I am sure doctors who do this are ignorant of the harm they do; they do not realize they are helping the dumb youngster dodge what is perhaps the most valuable part of his education, a training which may make all the difference between success and failure in life.

If Lies Are Necessary To Support a Business, the Truth Will Destroy It

By Robert Quillen

Most of the stories that come out of Russia concern the industrial and mechanical development of a backward land.

They are misleading stories, no matter how true they are, for they present only one side of the picture. They reveal the character of the new Russia no more than the photograph of a factory reveals the moral standards of its owner.

The true significance of the Russian experiment is revealed in other stories told by diplomats, travelers, newspaper investigators, and engineers who have completed their contracts and returned home to America.

They repudiated the debts of their country.

They murdered the well-born, the rich and the cultured.

They stole the lands, houses, money and personal property of the upper class.

They stole the personal property of foreigners and even went so far as to steal the table silver of the British embassy.

They deny the existence of a God; burn or tear down churches; and teach children to scorn and ridicule religion.

They require women, by the hundred thousand, to do the heavy labor that America leaves to the toughest roustabouts.

They "dump" the land's products—that is, sell abroad below the world market—to get the gold necessary to buy machinery, while their own people live on black bread, salt fish and horse meat and suffer privations and hardships that break their health.

They teach the people to spy on one another in search of "disloyalty," so that every man lives in dread of punishment and fears to express an opinion.

They use the schools, the cinema and the drama to teach children class prejudice and poison their minds with falsehood.

They use the newspapers and the radio to broadcast fake news. Item: America has accepted communism, and the red flag now flies in Washington.

They violate contracts made with American engineers as lightly as they violate America's standards of sex morality.

That, in brief, is the character of the new Russia. It is an institution built and supported by murder, theft, dishonor, deceit, tyranny and a deliberate policy of falsehood.

Its great public works built by American brains and the fact that its ill-fed serfs never are jobless may impress the unthinking, but its ultimate destiny will be determined by its character.

Cultivate it as you will, you can't make a thistle bear figs.

LONDON PARLEY ADOPTS MEASURES

the American representatives, Secretaries Stimson and Mellon. "They have gone to the assistance of the old world," said Premier Laval in his address at the closing of the conference. "They have remembered their origins and they have joined with us in our attempt to put an end to the instability of the economic system of Europe and to reintroduce security."

Tomorrow morning Europe's "barnstorming statesmen" will leave London for their home capitals. Secretary Stimson will go with the German delegation to Berlin tomorrow night. Secretary Mellon will return to his Riviera holiday, while during the week-end Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson, of Great Britain, will pay their delayed week-end visit to Berlin, returning the Germans' recent visit to Chequers.

Merely "Notes."

As far as new credits for Germany are concerned all the London meeting did was to "note with interest" the joint guarantees recently placed by hundreds of German industrial concerns. Upon these great concerns, Germany, by a recent emergency decree, could have asked for credit amounting to $500,000,000 and the German view is that unless some such deal is consummated the Bruening regime will be in danger of collapse.

It was also recommended that the World Bank for International Settlements establish immediately a committee to study the whole question of converting a portion of the short-term credits into long-term credits.

Thus, as Secretary Stimson pointed out this afternoon, the machinery has been provided to meet the German situation, however it may develop.

The American view is that once the present feeling of panic is eliminated, it will be easy to determine whether further capital is needed. It was considered probable that once confidence is restored it would be found that Germany can recover by her own resources.

With Secretary Stimson continuing his European tour to Berlin, Chancellor Bruening can proclaim that, although he failed to raise an international loan in London, he brought back to Berlin with him the American secretary of state, whose every word was listened to at the London conference. Secretary Stimson's visit, it was believed, would give the Bruening regime still another breathing spell for building up confidence in the German government, and the question of new loans, like other pressing issues of the German crisis, can be delayed a short time at least.

Although Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius plan to lay the whole financial situation before Secretary Stimson at a dinner given by the German delegation tonight in the Americans' honor, the discussion now probably will not take place until later.

The American attitude is expected to be that the London conference has created the machinery for dealing with the emergency in German finances and that this machinery, particularly the World bank committee to study German needs, should be put into action.

Secretaries Stimson and Mellon tonight received congratulatory messages from President Hoover on their conduct of the American case at the London meeting.

Over the teacups at a royal garden party at Buckingham palace this afternoon the French, German and other European envoys, together with the delegates from the United States, chatted with King George about the work they have done.

WASHINGTON PLEASED WITH PARLEY OUTCOME

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Led by President Hoover, the American capital tonight hailed the results of the London ministers' conference as a foundation for German economic stability.

Secretary Stimson reported fully by both trans-Atlantic telephone and cable the results of the conference. Acting Secretary Castle, of the state department, who talked with the secretary after the adjournment of the conference, laid the reports before the chief executive.

In talking with Acting Secretary Castle, Stimson said he intended to proceed tomorrow to Berlin for further conferences with German statesmen. The secretary's original plan upon leaving for Europe to discuss disarmament and other problems with European officials was interrupted by the London meeting.

After talking with Stimson, Castle said the United States would not have official representation on the committee to be appointed to study the question of credit continuances, conersations and renewals. The work of the committee was essentially a banking problem, he added, indicating he believed American representation, if any, would be from banking circles.

The secretary's decision to proceed to Berlin was received with surprise by some high administration officials, who had indicated they believed he would go to Scotland to rest after the conference.

Apparently, the secretary did not make clear to the Washington government the exact intention of his trip to the German capital, since Acting Secretary Castle in response to questions by newspapermen gave only his personal speculation on the subject. Castle said he assumed Stimson wanted to secure first-hand information on the German economic situation. He said there was no suggestion the secretary would go from Berlin to Paris for further talks with the French.

The conclusion of the London meeting left disarmament as the next important diplomatic problem before the Hoover administration. The forthcoming general disarmament conference at Geneva has received the wholehearted support of the American government. President Hoover twice in the past month has linked the burdens of heavy armaments with the world-wide depression.

ANNULMENT WON BY "MA" KENNEDY

nedy and Mrs. Newton-Hudson together for the first time. They were the only witnesses, Mrs. Kennedy testifying she married Hudson innocent of any knowledge he still had a wife.

Mrs. Newton-Hudson, who followed Mrs. Kennedy to the stand, told of her marriage to Hudson in Las Vegas and testified they had not been divorced.

As the judge severed the marital knot, Mrs. Kennedy sobbed and sought comfort on Mrs. Newton-Hudson's shoulder. Mrs. Kennedy was led from the courtroom to a corner drugstore where, between sips of an ice cream soda, she discussed the past.

"It'll be Mrs. Kennedy only—forever," she said. "I thought I had found romance but I see I'm too old."

Mrs. Newton-Hudson expressed sorrow that "it all had to happen."

A copy of the complaint filed in Washington against Hudson and a warrant ordering his arrest were received today by the sheriff's office.

Captain J. B. Fox, of the fugitive detail, said two deputies had hunted unsuccessfully for 12 hours for Hudson and that if he were not found or did not appear within a short time a fugitive warrant would be asked from the district attorney's office.

WARRANT FOR HUDSON SENT TO LOS ANGELES

LONGVIEW, Wash., July 23.—(AP) A certified copy of a bigamy warrant for Guy Edward Hudson, charged with marrying Mrs. Mibnie "Ma" Kennedy, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, here June 28, while he was still the husband of Mrs. L. Margaret Newton-Hudson, has been sent by air mail to Los Angeles authorities.

Cecil C. Hallin, Cowlitz county prosecuting attorney, said the annulment obtained by Mrs. Kennedy will not affect the bigamy charge here.

2 WOMEN KILLED IN GRADE MISHAP

300 yards. The bodies of the women were mangled.

The Dollar road is a short distance off Gordon road and the view of approaching trains or other vehicles is obscured. The younger Mrs. Cobb, daughter-in-law of the elder, was driving, police said. The two had brought Howell Cobb, another son, to visit his brother, and both were among the first to reach the scene of the tragedy. Both women were wives of Southern railway employes.

The train was proceeding at about 35 miles an hour, having left Atlanta at 9:40 a. m., en route to Brunswick, the report stated.

Mrs. W. E. Cobb is survived by her husband; four daughters, Mrs. J. M. Wallace, of Houston, Texas; Mrs. W. G. Carey, Miss Olive Cobb and Miss Dorothy Cobb, of Atlanta; five sons, Jessie, Howell, Oliver, Lee and Marion Cobb, all of Atlanta, and several brothers and sisters.

Mrs. W. H. Cobb is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Flury, of Rentz, and several brothers and sisters.

WOMEN WILL DISCUSS COUNCIL REDUCTION

Intimation of Fight in Assembly Given in League's Paper.

Intimation that council members fighting the Key ward and council reduction plan are backing a move to prevent passage of the proposal in the legislature features the current issue of Facts, official publication of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, and will be the chief topic of discussion at a meeting of that body slated for 10:30 o'clock this morning at 74 Whitehall street, according to Mrs. Harry Greene, president.

The Key plan calls for redistricting the borough into half a dozen wards with two councilmen from each and one alderman. At the present time there are 13 wards, with three representatives each.

"Any attitude on the part of the legislators different from the plan adopted at the polls would be in positive and absolute defiance of the will of the people of this community, and an outrage."

ATTORNEYS FLAY MUNICIPAL COURT

Recovery of $20,000 or "other large sums," deposit fees paid into municipal court of Atlanta under warrants and in civil matters, is sought in a petition filed Thursday in Fulton superior court by Attorneys Carl F. Hutcheson, Thomas G. Lewis and Lewis H. Foster.

An injunction to prevent officials of the municipal court from interferring with inspection of the public records by the plaintiffs is asked in the petition, the attorneys charging that citizens have been refused permission to see the records.

U. S. Panama Property Vice Scene, Says Editor

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(UP) A stir was created here today by charges of a publisher that the United States government, as owner of the Panama railroad, holds land in the republic of Panama on which are located two breweries, gambling houses and brothels.

Nelson Rounsevell, publisher of The Panama American, made the charges in an interview. He said also the railroad monopolized liquor transportation in the Canal Zone. He is here to advance a project for a modern highway across the Panama isthmus, to be built with funds obtained by sale of the government-owned railroad's land in Colon.

City Hall Court For Traffic Cases Opened by Cone

Four offenders Thursday paid $27 into the borough treasury at the first session of Atlanta's new "guilty-plea traffic court" opened at the city hall with Judge John L. Cone presiding.

Just before the session opened, members of the Atalanta Club, an organization of women employes, headed by Miss Grace West, president, presented Judge Cone a large bouquet of cut flowers.

"This is going to be a silk stocking court, I believe," Cone said, as the women trekked into the room.

He expressed appreciation of the gift, however. He was attended by C. O. Murphy, his clerk, and those facing him were disposed of at the rate of one a minute. Sessions will be held daily from 10 o'clock in the morning until noon except Sundays.

IDENTIFICATION GROUP ELECTS TENNESSEEAN

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 23.—(AP) Edward A. Parker, police inspector of Memphis, Tenn., today was elevated to the presidency of the International Association for Identification at the seventeenth annual convention.

Inspector Parker moved from the first vice presidency as a result of the death of President Harold J. Axtell, of Denver, Col., in office three months ago.

BHUSAWAL, India, July 23.—(AP) A British army lieutenant en route to Poona by railway sleeper was fatally stabbed early today by unidentified assailants who escaped. He died in a hospital to which he was taken from the train.

Another officer accompanying him also was badly cut, but will recover.

Chief Executive Takes to Air In Inspecting State Troops

In keeping with his modern polices, Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. (left) adopted the airplane as means of returning to Atlanta from Fort McClellan, Ala., Thursday with Adjutant General Charles Cox (right) after a review of the Georgia national guard units in training at the Alabama fort. The governor and adjutant-general are shown as they landed at the local airport. Staff photo by Sandy Sanders.

Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. Thursday morning returned from a visit of inspection to Fort McClellan, Ala., where Georgia national guard units now are quartered, in a giant army observation plane, landing at Candler field in time to attend debate in the state senate on his reorganization bill, which was passed by the house Wednesday.

Escorting the governor's plane, which was piloted by Lieutenant L. L. Stephenson, of the 106th observation squadron, of Birmingham, were two other army planes, with Adjutant General Charles Cox and Brigadier General H. D. Russell, of Macon, as passengers.

Governor Russell was among some 20,000 persons who witnessed the night show demonstration of "Atlanta's Own" 122d infantry Wednesday night. His party also included Congressman Robert Ramspeck and B. S. Barker, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, the two latter returning in their cars Thursday morning.

In Georgia's Legislative Halls

President W. Cecil Neill's bill to consolidate the dates of county primaries and presidential primaries, thereby insuring a full vote and taking care of the expense of the presidential primary, Thursday received approval of the senate committee on privileges and elections, and 300 copies of the measure were ordered printed for the general assembly. The bill definitely fixes the date of the election of delegates to the state presidential convention quadriennially on the second Wednesday in May. It also cures defects in registration laws, and gives a certain definite date for qualification of candidates in county and state primaries. A similar bill passed the senate in 1929, but was not enacted.

A bill to provide for control, sale or free distribution of hog cholera virus, veterinary tuberculin and similar serums, Thursday was adversed by the senate committee on hygiene and sanitation. Similar bills have been reversed by house committees.

Establishment of the Georgia Training School for Colored Girls was approved Thursday by the senate training school committee. The school would be under a board of managers and superintendent, and would receive incorrigible negro girls, those convicted of crime and those committed for associating with vicious and immoral companions.

House and senate committees on the Western and Atlantic railroad will leave the Union station at 10 o'clock this morning on the N., C. & St. L. railway for an inspection tour of the state's terminal properties in Chattanooga. The group will return Sunday. Luncheon will be served at Dalton this afternoon, and a dinner will be given at the Hotel Patten in Chattanooga tonight.

The joint conservation committee of the general assembly Thursday night embarked on an expedition to the Okeefenokee swamp, to dare the perils of the "Land of Trembling Earth" and the giant alligators of that Georgia wonderland. The trip was arranged by the Georgia Forestry Association.

Judge W. W. Stark, of the Piedmont circuit, and Mrs. Stark, Thursday were guests of the senate. Others given privileges of the floor included Dr. and Mrs. O. R. Styles, of Carroll county; Mrs. T. F. Bargeron and Miss Dorothy Perkins, guests of Senator W. C. Perkins, of the 17th, father of Miss Perkins; Mrs. D. F. Martin, wife of the senator from the 2d, and Miss Evalon McDowell.

The house committees on penitentiaries, the academy for the blind, the Georgia State Sanitarium, and the University of Georgia and its branches, all postponed their inspection trips indefinitely Thursday afternoon in order that they might not be absent while the house is considering the general appropriations bill.

MRS. F. A. VAUGHN INJURED IN CRASH

Mrs. F. A. Vaughn, of 918 McMillan street, was admitted to Grady hospital late Thursday afternoon with her left arm almost completely severed as the result of an automobile accident on the Fairburn road. She was in a critical condition owing to loss of blood, only a tourniquet hastily devised by the ambulance driver for A. C. Hemperley & Son having saved her from bleeding to death, according to hospital attendants.

Mrs. M. C. Davis, driver of the car, told Patrolman Joe Wiley, on duty at the hospital, that she met two trucks running abreast on the Fairburn road, just beyond College Park, and that when she swerved her car to avoid being struck, it skidded into an embankment. Mrs. Davis was uninjured. Names of the truck drivers were not given to police.

Mrs. Hal Arrison, of 235 North avenue, another passenger in the car, was treated for a severe gash on the right arm and allowed to return to her home. Mrs. Virgil Adams, of 918 McMillan, a third passenger, was unhurt.

NAMING OF ROOSEVELT NOW ALMOST CERTAIN

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The democratic leaders who do not at this time favor the nomination for president of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, have been brought face to face with the necessity of decision involving the extent which they shall go in preventing Governor Roosevelt's nomination from becoming an assured thing at this time. Specifically they must decide whether some of the other candidates they have in mind shall be put forward as active candidates.

So far Governor Roosevelt is the only active candidate in the sense that he is the only one in whose behalf delegates are being solicited and lined up in states other than the candidate's own. All the others have up to date the status of candidates who expect to come to the convention with only the support in a formal sense of their own states. The expectation of those leaders not supporting Governor Roosevelt has been that the aggregate of the favorite son strength would be sufficient to maintain a veto on Governor Roosevelt's candidacy until close to the time of the convention. At that time the important national leaders, so they have expected, would confer with each other and decide whether to let Governor Roosevelt have the nomination or to give it to another. In such a conference, by far the weightiest single voice would be that of ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, together with that of Chairman Raskob.

Running Counter.

In entertaining this program and relying on this expectation the leaders not yet committed to Governor Roosevelt have been running counter to what is almost a rule of presidential nomination politics, namely, that "you can't beat somebody with nobody." The rule means that when one candidate alone has nation-wide organized activity in his behalf he can hardly be headed off by the aggregate of quiescent candidates who are merely favorite sons of their respective states. In such a situation, the active candidate disproves the adage about the rolling stone and amasses such a degree of popular and delegate strength as to make it difficult to deny him the prize and dangerous to party unity to attempt to.

What will shortly appear is whether the national leaders not now favorable to Roosevelt will preserve their power to keep decision suspended by having some of the other candidates entered in state primaries on a nation-wide basis. If Newton D. Baker, of Ohio, to name one example, should be put forward in all states having primaries, he would gather delegates not greatly inferior in numbers to those of Governor Roosevelt and might readily get the nomination.

A difficulty in the adoption of such a program by the leaders not supporting Roosevelt is that the candidate most favored by several of them is Owen D. Young. It is difficult to make Mr. Young a nation-wide candidate for two reasons. One is that, as those putting him forward bitterly complain, Mr. Young absolutely refrains from co-operating in the way in which Governor Roosevelt co-operates with those backing him. The other is that Mr. Young comes from the same state, New York, as Governor Roosevelt. Consequently to make Mr. Young a candidate in a formal sense would amount to a declaration of hostility to Governor Roosevelt. Those favoring Mr. Young are not ready to do this yet.

Reluctant to Oppose.

Practically all the national leaders not favoring Governor Roosevelt are reluctant to oppose him aggressively at this time. They may never be willing to oppose him aggressively. What they wish is merely to keep the situation in flux and thus be able to make a decision according to what may be their best judgment at the time the convention meets. Most of them are not really hostile to Governor Roosevelt. To a considerable extent their attitude toward him is limited to feeling it is unwise for the party to be practically committed to him long before the convention meets. Even those who think strongly that Newton D. Baker would make a better candidate and a better president than Governor Roosevelt are reluctant to make an open fight against Governor Roosevelt. This very reluctance is precisely one of the conditions that arise when one candidate is active in working up strength while all the others are quiescent.

The net of it all is that if Governor Roosevelt remains a little while longer as the only candidate in an active nation-wide sense, he will achieve a status in which it will be embarrassing for the national leaders to deny him the nomination.

WOMAN'S KILLER KNOWN TO POLICE

Entire Police Force Ordered To Pick Up Man Sought on Sight.

The arrest of the slayer of Irene Hall Adams is only a matter of hours, Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole announced Thursday night. The killer is known to every detective working on the case and all of his known haunts are guarded. He will be locked up on sight.

In confiding the results of his investigation, Chief Poole said the solving of the six-day-old mystery would reveal one of the most sordid affairs ever brought to his attention.

The announcement that the slayer's identity had been learned came after a day of rapid developments in the inquiry into the woman's death which at first lagged because the police were unable to obtain any information concerning the person or persons she met on last Friday night, a few hours before the semi-clad and badly beaten body was found in a clump of bushes in the rear yard of an Ansley park home between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, just west of Piedmont avenue. However, early Thursday two negro chauffeurs and two negro maids were taken into custody and questioned by Detectives C. L. Taylor and George Barrett and within a few hours the detective department said that only the actual arrest of the killer remained to complete solution of the mystery. The negroes were released after questioning.

The negroes taken into custody are Willie Weaver and Eddie Weaver, chauffeurs, and Ella Pullman and Lela Mynack, maids. Mrs. Laura Harper, of a Boulevard address, also was taken into custody Thursday. She is described as a friend of the slain woman and the police said they thought she would be able to furnish them with information needed to file an accusation against the slayer when taken into custody. Lucile Adams, another friend of the slain woman, was rearrested Thursday and is being held as a witness.

Meanwhile another squad of detectives headed by Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant working under directions of Chief of Police James L. Beavers and independent of those operating under Chief Poole continued to hold in jail George Georgelas, a Greek waiter and his reputed sweetheart, Eva Well, though Georgelas sought his release on a writ of habeas corpus presented to Superior Judge Virlyn B. Moore by his attorney, Reuben Garland, early Thursday afternoon. The petition is to be given a hearing this morning by Judge Moore.

Sturdivant said he is holding Georgelas and the woman in the belief that the waiter may know something of the crime. The detective lieutenant said that he had learned that on Monday Georgelas had sold a motor car to W. H. Jones and that inspection revealed what might be bloodstains in the car and that an apparently blood-stained wrench also was found in the car.

Sturdivant also said that two days before she was slain Irene had told a girl friend and the house officer at a downtown hotel that she feared the waiter. The detective lieutenant added that he had been informed that the woman had "squealed" to the police that Georgelas and the Well woman were selling liquor at an Ivy street hotel, though he added that he had been unable to link Georgelas with bootlegging activities.

Sturdivant's squad is composed of Detectives Ginn and Evans of the homicide division. All three were away from headquarters and could not be reached for questioning concerning the latest developments in their investigation.

Mrs. Hoover Acquires Monroe's Money 'Kick'

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover has acquired an old manuscript in which President Monroe complains bitterly against being compelled to buy furnishings for the White House out of his own funds.

The manuscript relates that he was forced to buy furniture, carpets and curtains with his own money at a time when he was short of funds and needed the money for other purposes.

The manuscript, which has been purchased by Mrs. Hoover to add to her already extensive collection, has many observations on public affairs.

It is entitled "Observations on Matters of Public Interest" and is writen with pen and ink. A good deal of it is in the handwriting of President Monroe himself.

MOTORMAN REFUTES STORY OF GARRISON

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 23.—(AP)—Testimony that Moss E. Garrison, former Atlantan, was "under the influence of liquor, but not drunk" when he boarded a street car the night of May 2, after allegedly murdering his sweetheart, Hazel Bradshaw, whose knifed body was found in Balboa park May 3, was given today by J. M. Hughes, street car motorman.

Hughes was confronted with his testimony given previously at the preliminary hearing, when the motorman had said Garrison's breath that night "had the odor of wine" but that he thought the defendant was sober.

Defense Attorney A. Fairchild also attacked Hughes' statements to the effect that Garrison wore no tie when he boarded the street car. The state previously had introduced in evidence a necktie allegedly stained with blood.

"I noticed that he had no tie on when he stood by me talking," said Hughes.

"But at the preliminary hearing you said you didn't remember about the tie. How is it you remember now?" asked Fairchild.

"I've thought it over since," replied the motorman.

Hughes said that on previous occasions Garrison had boarded his street car, the last car on that line at night, at Monroe street or El Cajon boulevard intersections of Park boulevard, instead of walking "about a mile," as he did on the night of May 2, to University avenue, and Park boulevard, to get the car.

REORGANIZATION FIGHT APPROACHES

day by the senate in rapid-fire order were:

By Senator Stark, to prohibit county participation in state road building; by Senators Neill, Nelson and Horn, to prohibit deer hunting in Marion, Schley, Webster, Chattahoochee, Muscogee and Stewart counties for 10 years; by Senator Harris, to establish kindergartens in public schools; by Senator Perkins, to require officers and appointees receiving compensation other than salaries to make daily reports of fees; by Senator Bennett, to allow taxes for high school purposes.

By Senator North, to regulate chiropody; by Senators Watson, Dekle and Bennett, to amend the securities commission act; by Senator Neill and others, to adopt the 1932 code of Georgia.

A senate resolution to appoint a commission of three, including the superintendent of schools, to consider sound teacher retirement laws of other states and recommend legislation, lost by a vote of 20 to 25.

Senators John Wesley Weekes, of the thirty-fourth, and E. L. Reagan, of the thirty-fifth, Thursday introduced a bill to repeal the act which created "Atlanta and its boroughs, Senator Weekes explained that the "Atlanta" act was passed primarily to take advantage of the 1930 census, and that the census bureau failed to take cognizance of "Atlanta." The supreme court of Georgia has held that the act makes Atlanta, Decatur and other municipalities in the metropolitan area all boroughs, and that the state constitution says that only cities, counties and districts can issue bonds. There is grave doubt that Atlanta, Decatur and other cities in the area have the right to issue bonds under the "Atlanta" act creating "Greater Atlanta," he said. "The act does not serve any purpose," Senator Weekes added.

fort, to reduce the world's disarmament burden.

A vote of 35 to 17 in favor of the proposed constitutional convention, the object of which will be to create a modern constitution for the state of Georgia, was cast by members of the City Club of Atlanta at its meeting Thursday afternoon in the Tavern tea room. The vote was preceded by an open discussion of the question, in which most of the members present took part.

The club also voted to recommend passage of a bill for taxing intangibles and a committee, under the chairmanship of Edgar Watkins Sr., was appointed to set forth the club's views before the legislature. Other members of the committee are Bond Almand, Fritz Jones, LeRoy Wynn and Robert McLarty. Walter McElreath, president of the club, presided at the meeting.

Governor Asked To Free Mother Who Sold Rum

RICHMOND, Va., July 23.—(AP) Governor Pollard has been petitioned to grant a conditional pardon for Mrs. Lena Fornash, of near Richmond, alleged three-offense prohibition offender, who is said to have no way to care for her four children while she is in jail.

The woman is in jail here and has served part of a six months' term. Her children, all boys, range from 6 to 12 years of age. Their father, a railroad man, cannot care for them because of illness.

MAN SHOOTS TWO, TAKES OWN LIFE

Estranged Wife Wounded and Man Is Slain at LaFayette, Ga.

LAFAYETTE, Ga., July 23.—(AP)—A body identified as that of Lee Stephens, 22, charged with fatally wounding DeForest Myers, 20, and seriously wounding Stephens' estranged wife, was found today near the home of his father with a pistol in one of his hands.

Officers said he apparently committed suicide while a hunt was being made for him.

Myers died today and Stephens' wife, Mrs. Ruby Stephens, was suffering a bullet wound in her lungs. Fred Chapman, a neighbor, said he was knocked down when he tried to prevent Stephens from shooting Myers and Mrs. Stephens.

Details of the killing and suicide as gathered by Sheriff J. C. Keown show that Stephens, who had been separated from his wife for two months, saw her come out of the New Prospect church with her sister, Mrs. Judson Myers, with whom she was living. Stephens asked his wife to return home with him, but she refused. When the two sisters reached the Myers home they were met by Stephens, who opened fire, one bullet striking his wife in the chest and another in the side. DeForest Myers, brother of Judson Myers, had accompanied the two sisters and after shooting his wife Stephens shot him in the abdomen, causing death early this morning in a Chattanooga hospital.

INTERNATIONAL UNITY NEAR, SAYS LEADER

BLUE RIDGE, N. C., July 23—(AP) Harry Holmes, field secretary of the World's Alliance for International Friendship Through Churches, asserted that the world was so interlocked and interdependent in finance, business and politics that an international organization is necessary.

Holmes spoke before the opening of the southern conference on human relations in industry.

"The unity of the world," said Holmes, "is the result of three movements which began 300 years ago, but are reaching fruition only today. These are the expansion of Europe, the tidal wave of democracy, and the industrial revolution.

Holmes said the United States was linked to the rest of the world by being the greatest creditor nation and because it depends upon other nations for much of its raw materials.

Because of this economic interdependence, he said, American standards of living cannot be maintained higher than those of other lands and must be dragged down unless the standards of the others are raised.

Approximately 150 delegates are attending the conference.

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—One insurance claim of nearly $5,000,000 and six of more than a million were paid by life insurance companies in 1930 to policy holders and beneficiaries of the United States and Canada, the National Life Underwriter said today.

The largest claim, of $4,690,000, was left by John T. Dorrance, president and founder of the Campbell Soup Company, of Camden and Cinnamison, N. J.

Others exceeding $1,000,000 were paid the estates of J. Frank Nutting, of New York, vice president of the F. W. Woolworth & Co.; V. E. Macy, New York philanthropist; Thomas B. Slick, Yonkers, N. Y., and Oklahoma City oil man; William H. Miner, Chicago capitalist and manufacturer; Harry Busick, Baltimore hotel owner, and Harry S. Black, New York builder.

The total was $2,642,259,949, or $20 for every man, woman and child of both nations.

RECTOR LOSES SUIT FOR DIVORCE DECREE

CAMDEN, N. J., July 23.—(UP)—Dr. Camille Estornelle, Episcopalian minister who has been accused of comporting himself in the style of an "Elmer Gantry," lost his fight for a divorce from Mrs. Florence Estornelle today when Special Master William Knight announced that he would recommend the divorce be denied.

Knight said he would make such a recommendation on the grounds that the clergyman had been guilty of misconduct and that he believes Mrs. Estornelle is entitled to a divorce on her cross-complaint.

The special master's announcement came at the close of a three-day hearing in which Dr. Estornelle denied that he is the father of Miss Anne McKenna's two-year-old son and threw the blame for his marital difficulties on the shoulders of his mother-in-law.

GERMAN BANK SUED BY CHASE NATIONAL

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—The Chase National bank filed suit in the supreme court today against the recently closed Darmstaedter und National bank, of Berlin, Germany, seeking judgment of $749,959 with interest from July 21 last.

The Chase National asserts that last April it accepted a series of bills of exchange under an agreement with the German bank. When the bills became payable July 21 there were no funds on deposit to the credit of the Darmstaedter bank at the Chase National and the latter was forced to pay out of its own funds.

Season's Trend to Empire Styles Seen in Paris Winter Fashions

BY MARY KNIGHT.

PARIS, July 23.—(UP)—The winter fashion display opened today on the hottest day of the summer, and ranged from the leg of mutton velvet coat sleeve of the empire period to street coats with calf-length pajamas designed for town wear.

The house of Yteb was the first with its showing. It will be followed by other famous dressmaking establishments through the first week of August. There were many novelties among the new creations, which showed a leaning toward empire and second empire styles.

Yteb displayed the leg of mutton velvet coat sleeve, a modified evening puff sleeve. Skirt lengths for day were to the lower mid-calf, and evening lengths to the instep or the floor.

Short trains hung from bustle bows from the waistline. Predominating colors were black, white, wine, green and peach. Materials included velvet, lace, crepe and taffeta.

The empire influence was seen in the quaint shoulder treatment, big collars and muffs. One street coat was shown with calf-length pajamas for town wear. Off-shoulder evening gowns were draped with tulle. Velvet shoulder bows, tight waists and diagonal draped skirts were used in all models.

A new material, diarachuak, a double rough tweed for ensembles, and trim sealskin dresses were also featured. One of many novelties was dogaliah, a rough wool sports material so called because it incorporates long, white dog hair.

Hats ran toward plumes and feathers, raising the hopes of the ostrich farmers after seven lean years.

More American buyers were on hand than last year. The number of Germans was reduced due to difficulty in arranging credit and payments. Professional buyers predicted that trading would be more brisk than for three years.

TENNESSEE GOVERNOR INJURED IN ACCIDENT

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn., July 23.—(AP)—Governor Henry H. Horton suffered a scalp wound today when the car in which he was en route to Bolivar on official business skidded on the slippery paving and crashed into a telephone pole. He was taken to a drug store for first aid and then to a doctor's office where his injury was dressed.

The governor and R. H. Lyle, commissioner of institutions, were riding in the rear seat of an automobile that is used for the transportation of prisoners. The crash threw Governor Horton against the heavy wire screen that separates the rear and front seat and is designed to prevent prisoners from escaping.

Lyle suffered slight scratches and the bumper was torn from the machine.

Ed Smith, an employe of the state penitentiary, was driving the automobile. He was unhurt.

PIUS AND 20 CARDINALS CONFER IN VATICAN CITY

Secrecy Surrounds Hurriedly Summoned Meeting of Leaders.

VATICAN CITY, July 23.—(AP)—Conflicts between the church and state in Italy, Spain, Mexico and Lithuania were discussed today by Pope Pius with 20 cardinals of the Curia summoned hurriedly to a meeting which took on the importance of a special consistory.

The session, in the Vatican library, lasted nearly three hours and was conducted in the greatest secrecy. When it was over no statement was issued.

It was believed in some quarters that the cardinals had been called into conference because of recent criticism in Italy that the pope has been acting independently without consulting the cardinals.

MRS. FLEETFOOT'S NARROW ESCAPE.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Naught can for carelessness atone;
Be safe in vigilance alone.
Mrs. Fleetfoot.

It is hard never to be careless. I don't suppose there is anyone who never is careless. Even those whose very lives depend on constant watchfulness are sometimes careless. It happens constantly among the people of the Green Meadows, the Green Forest, the Dry Desert and the Broad Prairie. It results in many narrow escapes and sometimes lost lives.

One morning after the twins had become strong enough to follow her about she headed toward this pool for her daily drink. She didn't take the twins there, however. No, indeed.

It just happened that Howler the Wolf had taken it into his head to have a look around in that part of the hills that morning and he was near the pool when Mrs. Fleetfoot appeared. Howler's eyes gleamed hungrily as he saw her approach. He crouched flat. He did not move, for he knew how keen were the eyes of Mrs. Fleetfoot. He also knew, too, that the rustle of a leaf would be enough to make her suspicious. So he lay, still hoping that she would come within jumping distance.

Had she gone straight to the pool she would have, but for no particular reason she turned and approached the water at a different place from where she usually did. Howler knew that the instant she had had enough she would return to the Broad Prairie. There was nothing to do but try to creep nearer. So carefully he began to creep forward. Suddenly Mrs. Fleetfoot threw up her head and in her eyes he saw alarm and suspicion. It was now or never. He sprang for her.

Quick as he was Mrs. Fleetfoot was quicker. She bounded to one side as if there were springs in her feet. No sooner did her feet touch the ground than she was in the air again, headed for the open country of the Broad Prairie. Howler leaped after her. He is no mean runner, and although he knew just how fleet of foot she was he hoped that he might be able to turn her into the broken country of the hills, where she would be unable to use all her speed and where he was thoroughly at home.

Out onto the Broad Prairie dashed Mrs. Fleetfoot, terror in her eyes, for Howler the Wolf is one of the few enemies she really fears. His small cousin, Speedfoot the Coyote, she could fight, but not this great Wolf. To one side of her and for a while keeping almost even with her raced Howler, as he tried to turn her toward the hills. It was a wonderful race. Mrs. Fleetfoot was terror-stricken but despite her terror she did not forget those precious twins hidden out there not far away. She partly turned toward the hills, and Howler redoubled his efforts. Farther and farther from those precious twins she led him, keeping just enough ahead of him to make him think he had a chance to catch her. Then when she felt it was safe to do so she turned to the Broad Prairie and showed Howler what real running was. With a snarl of disappointment he gave up and trotted back. It was a narrow escape. Indeed, it was.

At 8:30 p. m., Doc Rockwell, radio wit, will be presented from the Leviathan as guest entertainer on the RKO Theater of the Air over an NBC-WEAF network. The remainder of the program will be broadcast from the New York studios of NBC.

The Radio Guild will present "Mrs. Dane's Defense" as its offering at 2:15 p. m. over an NBC-WJZ chain. The Henry Arthur Jones drama tells an exciting story with a courtroom setting.

Francis X. Bushman, screen veteran, will offer another of his screen impersonations during the Armour program at 7:30 p. m. over a NBC-WJZ network. This offering will be followed by Paul Whiteman and his Paintmen at 8 o'clock.

An array of unusually varied scenes will be presented when the Pillsbury Pageant passes along Columbia between 8 and 8:30 p. m. in the second of a new series of all-star presentations. Toscha Seidel, violin virtuoso, will be heard in two solos, both from the pen of classical masters and both of which are known everywhere for their clear melodiousness and universal appeal. Schubert's "Serenade" has been arranged for innumerable instruments by different composers who have been impressed by its beauty, but in no circumstances does it sound better than in this version for violin which Seidel will play on his priceless Stradivarius.

Theo Karle, operatic tenor whose repertoire includes leading roles in a score of great operas, as well as a part in "Fioretta," will sing "With a Song in My Heart," from "Spring Is Here." The Songbirds' quartet, comprising Mary Alice Cheney, contralto, and three star vocalists who already are well-known to Columbia listeners from their appearances in other programs—Mabel Jackson, soprano; Royal Halle, tenor, and Vernon Jayson, baritone—will render "Truly." Sam Lanin will direct his orchestra in a varied program of modern music, all of which he has specially orchestrated for this presentation.

HOW MANY words can you find to rhyme with "elevator?" Two dozen of the choicest, painfully culled from the dictionary, will be used by the Girl Crazy Quartet, stars of the New York revue of that name, during their appearance as guest artists with the Philco orchestra in the transcription program to be broadcast over WSB.

The quaret, famous for its novelties, is presenting a new song called "Who Ate Our Nell," in which they surmise on the possible devourer of the lost maiden. The special arrangement they use advances the suggestion that "maybe the elev-ate'er," "maybe the inciner-ate'er" and the boys finally unearthed 47 other nouns which end in "ator." The best two dozen are used in the song.

Each week one of radio's most popular groups of entertainers appear with the orchestra, which is under the direction of Harry Salter. The Girl Crazy Quartet is making its second appearance on the program.

Giuseppe Creatore, "Svengali of the Baton," will direct his orchestra, including the famous saxophone octet, in a series of six concerts during the Interwoven program broadcast weekly over an NBC-WJZ network from 7 to 7:30 p. m.

During this period Billy Jones and Ernie Hare will be on their annual vacation. The Interwoven Pair will resume their Friday evening offerings of tunes and tomfoolery on September 4.

Music lovers in the United States and Canada are familiar with the work of Creatore. He is an Italian by birth. His forebears were musicians. His father was a skilled member of a prominent Italian orchestra and Giuseppe is a graduate of the Conservatory of Music in Naples.

SIMPLE! SMART! FULL OF CHARM!

The pointed seaming at the front of the skirt is both slimming and smart. The crossover bodice is decidedly length giving. And note the lovely animation the peplum hip flounce gives the skirt.

If you choose a georgette crepe in navy blue and trim the neck and front of the bodice with white eyelet embroidered batiste, then something adorable for town wear will be the result—and enticingly cool.

Style No. 474 may be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. The 36-inch size requires 3 7-8 yards of 39-inch material with 1 3-8 yard of trimming.

TALKING IT OVER
BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

Although I am only 15 years old, I am very mature for my age, good looking, quiet, and well behaved. I don't drink or smoke or pet. I have had dates with several boys, but for some reason I can never be first with any of them. There is always another girl who comes ahead of me. Why am I always second and never first?

SECOND CHOICE.

ANSWER:

I read in the paper this morning of a prize fighter who was aspiring to a title for which he has been grooming himself for many years. It takes years for a person to perfect himself in any art. It is possible that you haven't learned the "tricks of the trade" and since you are only 15 there is yet time.

Nothing is so winning as a circumspect friendliness. The boys may propose other sorts of association but in the end the girl who wins their respect and their love is the girl who offers the sort of qualifications you claim. Boys think about girls as we do about mice. We set the trap with the cheese and set it in a likely place. If the mouse nibbles at the cheese and gets caught we take him out and throw him in the discard, but if he sniffs it, and scenting danger, runs away we respect that mouse.

Don't be deceived by the traps the boys set. They don't marry the ones they catch in their traps. They throw them into the discard.

A distinguished doctor went to Europe on a vacation. He was so impressed with the full and leisurely manner of European living that he sent this message to his partner: "Don't hurry, we have a long time to live." I don't know how he got that tenure on life, but I send you the same message.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Marine Aviators Walk Under Plane Protection

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 23. Two United States marines who came down to a forced landing in the swamps along the Coco river while they were on flight patrol yesterday, were beating their way through the jungle to Logtown today while other planes circled above them to protect them from attack of insurgents.

Sergeant Gordon W. Hermitage was piloting, with Corporal Orville B. Simmons as mechanic and observer when he had to bring the ship down. Another member of the patrol signaled them to burn the disabled plane and strike for Logtown, about 40 miles away.

WEATHER AGAIN HALTS SIAMESE KING'S JAUNT

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—Unfavorable weather conditions caused postponement again today of the projected trip of their majesties, the king and queen of Siam, in the navy dirigible Los Angeles.

It is hoped that the flight, scheduled for late this afternoon, may be made tomorrow.

PUBLISHER DIES AT INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, July 23.—(AP)—John Jay Curtis, Hollywood, Cal., president of the Bobbs Merrill Company, Indianapolis book publishers, died in a local hospital late last night. He was 74 years old.

Mr. Curtis was connected with the book publishing business nearly 60 years and had been president of Bobbs-Merrill since July, 1926.

PATHE WORKERS QUIT WHEN PAY IS SLASHED

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—(AP)—Protesting cuts in salaries and long working hours, a group of sound technicians at the Pathe studios walked out on strike today. Studio executives said the number was so small that production schedules would not be affected.

Harold Smith, business agent of a Sound Technicians' Union, said weekly salaries were cut from $125 to $65 weekly and that the men had been working from 16 to 17 hours daily without overtime payment.

Beware of pads "just like Kotex"
May look the same ... but how were they made? Where? By whom?

THE words "just like Kotex" should be a danger signal to every purchaser of sanitary protection! They cannot be true.

A pad, to be like Kotex, would have to be made in the Kotex factory. Unique, patented machinery makes Kotex from start to finish. Hands never touch it. Rigid cleanliness prevails. Materials used are superior, made especially for Kotex. The only way to make a pad like Kotex is to make Kotex.

Take no chances. Specify genuine Kotex. Accept no substitute of whose makers you know nothing. You know Kotex is safe. Hospitals used more than 10,000,000 pads last year. Their choice should be yours.

Kotex is adjustable. May be worn on either side. Stays soft.

Culbertson on Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

"The Play of the Dummy"

Many a correctly bid hand is defeated at Contract because the Declarer fails to correctly plan the play. In the mental play of the hand, which is what bidding really is, he assumes that at every point he will play the correct card. Bidding, if it is to be accurate, must be based upon carefully planned play of the 26 cards by the Declarer and the time for the Declarer to make his plan is when his left hand opponent leads a card and his partner spreads his hand on the table. The hand below is an example of bidding to the last ultimate trick-taking ability of the combined cards, but the contract would have been defeated unless the Declarer carefully planned his play to the first trick.

East and West vulnerable;
North and South not vulnerable;
South—Dealer.

North: ♠ A 10 8 ♥ 8 5 3 ♦ 10 7 ♣ J 10 9 7 2
West: ♠ K 9 7 4 2 ♥ K J ♦ Q 6 4 ♣ Q 8 4
East: ♠ 6 ♥ Q 9 7 4 2 ♦ K J 8 2 ♣ 6 5 3
South: ♠ Q J 5 3 ♥ A 10 6 ♦ A 9 5 3 ♣ A K

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1NT(1)	Pass	2♣(2)	Pass
3NT(3)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—South does not have a biddable suit, so his only possible bid is notrump. Some players would bid two notrump with his hand, but the bid of one notrump risks little, as he must find his partner with about the strength necessary for a free Takeout to go game.

2—North's hand is very close to the border-line between a bid and a pass.

3—South's bid of one notrump entirely failed to picture the great honor strength he holds. With North's response which shows at lease 1 honor-trick and a biddable suit. South feels justified in bidding for game.

Against the contract of three notrump, West had no better Opening lead than the fourth best spade. On this lead the Declarer, of course, plays his lowest spade from the Dummy, the eight spot and when East fails to recover most players would have been inclined to let it go, assured thus of 3 tricks in the spade suit. Such a program would result in defeat. At all costs the club suit must be established if the contract is to be made and it would be of little value to establish it only to throw away the established card on the lead of other suits. South, therefore, overtook the eight spot with the spade Knave and immediately drew two rounds of clubs. He hoped to drop the Queen, but did not expect to do so as there were six of the suit out. The Queen did not drop, but nothing can now prevent the making of 9 tricks. West was in on the third round of clubs and no shift can stop the making of game. South scoring four clubs, three spades, one heart and one diamond trick.

Had South allowed the spade eight to hold the first trick and then attempted to establish the clubs, West could have successfully defended the hand. Two entries into the North hand are required. If after leading two rounds of clubs, South led either the Queen or Knave of spades, West would refuse to cover, South would win the trick, but he would win it in his own hand and the spade Ace would be the only entry left in the hand. On the other hand, if South led instead, his remaining small spade, intending to finesse the ten, West would cover with the King and again he would be unable to bring in the club suit, as the spade Queen and Knave effectually block entry into the Dummy.

A finesse is an attempt to take a trick with a card not the highest of a suit because of position of other cards in the suit.

Today's Pointer.

The "Trump-Trick" Rule: Penalty Doubles of suit bids below a game contract should not, as a rule, be made without length or strength in opponent's trump.

The Penalty Rule for Suit Doubles: Add the honor-tricks (and the trump tricks, if any, in adverse suit) held in own hand to the minimum number of honor-tricks shown by partner's bid. Subtract the total from 13 and the balance will give the trick-taking limit of opponent's contract.

If player expects to penalize the opponents by at least 2 tricks (the minimum margin of safety for any Double) he may double when not expecting a greater profit at own bid.

Flower of Thorns

INSTALLMENT XII.

"Mean little gal! She ain't a bit nice! But say, how about a little ride tonight? Just me and you, huh? My friend here, Alf Wilkins, can't come. Now how about a little spin? Nice moonlight. Nice car. Nice gal." He reached over the counter and caught her hand before she could move. "Ain't that a cute lil' paw—gee, I sure want to see me and you drivin' in the moonlight!" He leered at her; "I can drive with one hand, sister."

Somebody came with long strides across the room and took him firmly by the collar. Half lifting, half pushing him, the dairyman ran him across the floor, and threw him out bodily.

"Get!" he ordered Alf Wilkins briefly.

Alf Wilkins got, not standing on the order of his going.

The brute had touched her, he had taken her hand. He had spoken to her as to some pert serving wench—to her, Sally Rutherford! Never in all her life had such a thing happened to her. It brought to her, in a rush, the difference in her circumstances. This couldn't happen to grandpapa's darling granddaughter; but it could—and it did—happen to the keeper of a public hot dog stand. Anger almost choked her. She burst into tears.

Awkwardly, miserably, the young man stood looking at her, his face still slightly flushed. He read her feelings and he understood that she was in a royal rage. None the less, she was crying, and that distressed him sorely.

"It's all in the day's work, Sally," he said unguardedly. "It wasn't pleasant, but it really didn't do you any harm. Be a sport and laugh it off! He got what was coming to him, good and plenty, and you haven't lost anything but your temper.

"That's right—be a good sport . . . learn to take it on the chin without yelling," he admonished. Considerately he turned aside and stood looking out of the open back window giving upon Oakleigh grounds. At that moment Maud Lucas' car stopped outside, and Maud herself, followed more sedately by five other girls, hurtled into the room.

"Sally, darling, we want you to plan us a special tea for tomorrow afternoon at five. We want your very nicest"—Maud began, and then stopped, her mouth open. Her eyes had fallen on the milkman's face as he turned. She clapped her hands and squealed.

"Of all the luck!" she shrieked joyously. "Look who's here! The mighty milkman, the butter and egg sheik! Everybody bow—girls, here's Sam Winstead, the hard to get at Sam Winstead, the great Sam Winstead himself!" And then to him: "Stand still, Sam—you can't make a nose dive through that back window. You're caught, fairly caught."

"I am fairly caught, Maud," said he, laughing. "And I wasn't even dreaming of going through any window—I was merely dazed by my good luck."

Sam Winstead! The boy from the mountain school . . . Sam Winstead! Sally went a little sick. How had she been so blind?

"Where have you been hiding, Sam Winstead? And what do you mean by sending regrets to two of my nicest parties?" demanded Maud, who had the impertinence of an adored and spoiled child. Even people who disapproved of her liked Maud Lucas.

"I haven't been hiding, my child. I've been working like a beaver. A milkman must, you understand," said he.

The bevy of girls crowded around him like bright bees.

"O, Mr. Winstead, while we're so near your place, can't we visit the dairy?" they chorused eagerly. "Do let us! We've heard so much about it."

"And be introduced to my prize cows? Well, why not? White Clover Queen is almost royal—I know I'd rather see her than any two legged royalty I've ever heard of," he said. "You've got your car, and mine's outside."

"I'm going with you, Sam," said Maud firmly. "Sally, leave Moses in charge and come along with us. Do, Sally. If you only knew how hard it is to get hold of Sam Winstead and make him play the gallant you'd appreciate this offer at its proper worth, my child."

The milkman looked at Sally expectantly. Her eyes went right through him without seeing him.

"I couldn't manage it . . . not today, Maud. I'm so sorry! I've heard a great deal about Mr. Winstead's wonderful dairy, but I've never seen it. You asked me to plan you a special tea for tomorrow afternoon, didn't you? If you want it, I've got to stick to my job."

"O, Sally, I'd love to have you go with us," said generous Maud. "We'll be back here again after a while, honey—on our way back from Sam's El Dorado. We can't afford to lose this chance—he's too wary a bird. A bird in the hand is worth two in the dairy," she finished impudently. She ran out, followed by the other girls. The tall young man lingered a step or two behind. He leaned to Sally.

"Be a sport!" he pleaded coaxingly. "Besides, I never told you anything but the truth—my name is really Forman—Sam Forman Winstead."

"O, that!" she said with the best Rutherford manner. "What difference could that possibly make? Don't you remember, when you told me your name was Forman, you quoted 'What's in a name? A milk can by any other name would rattle as loudly?'"

He himself had evidently learned to take it on the chin without yelling. He looked at her with a hint of laughter in his eyes. He leaned a little closer.

"Sometimes I find myself unaccountably disliking the salt of the earth, but do you know I've got an unholy hankering for cayenne pepper?"

Then he followed the girls. Sally saw him helping Maud to the seat beside him. The cars whizzed away. Moses peeped apprehensively out of the kitchen door, but Miss Sally was staring ahead of her with unseeing eyes the while she chewed the end of her pencil to pulp.

When the strong old woman who was Caleb Winstead's widow lay a-dying she put in her son Henry's hand the sealed letter left to her care, addressed in Katje's handwriting, "To my son, Sam Winstead: To be opened on his eighteenth birthday." Henry put this letter, together with some favorite, intimate trinkets that had belonged to his wife, in a safety deposit box. On the morning of Sam's eighteenth birthday his father handed him the key, and told him to go to the bank and open the box. This letter from a mother so long dead to the son whose growth she could never see seemed so sacred that Henry could never again mention the matter to the boy.

"While I am writing this you are little Sam, a baby, but if ever you should read it you'll be a great tall boy, a dear boy I shall never see or know, for I'll be dust. Although your grandmother scoffs at me, I have a premonition I may not be able to survive the trial before me—hence the message I am moved to leave you, and which you will receive only if my premonition proves true. I may never see you growing up, little son, but I know you will grow more and more like me, for baby as you are I have seen myself mirrored in you. You are Henry's son—and you are me," wrote Katje.

"My message is this: Do not allow anything—anything—to come between you and your father; do not misunderstand him as have most others. His own parents have never understood him, although they love and respect him. Henry appears to be matter of fact, a little commonplace, and stolid even. In reality he is incurably shy and romantic, kind, tender, loyal—capable of beautiful, foolish, generous deeds—and of being rather afraid and ashamed of those deeds, which puzzle and upset him. Because he doesn't realize—my dear, funny Henry!—that these same traits most truly express his living spirit.

"Be generous and merciful in your demands, son, for your father's love will be unable to refuse or deny you anything you ask for. He will try to move heaven and earth, if need be, for Katje's son. And he is so helplessly inarticulate, so shy, that I am moved to speak for him from my grave—for I shall be in my grave if ever you read this—for I alone in all the world have ever truly understood him.

Another Sharkey-Walker Fight Seen Before End of Summer; Boland Lost to Seeded List as Netmen Reach Quarter-Finals

BREAK of the DAY

By Ralph McGill

Have you and the members of your Saturday afternoon golf foursome had your theater party yet?

It's all the style, the rage, so to speak.

The Bobby Jones golf pictures continue to take the boys by the ears and make them stare and stare and quiver and twitch.

Talk about the emoting of our first-class vampires; or the thrill in Greta Garbo's voice; have you seen one of the dub golfers staring at a Jones golf picture?

BOBBY JONES.

He sits tense and still—his face awe-struck—his fingers moving as he makes the grip on an imaginary club—his feet shuffling as he takes the stances.

Bob Jones' pictures have more G. A. (golf appeal) than there was S. A. in a whole year of the "It" girl's pictures.

Carter Barron, manager of the Fox, says that the latest fashion is for the foursome to come, ready to play. They check their clubs and go in for the Jones picture. Once it is done they come out in the foyer, get their clubs and stand there swinging them, going through what they have seen on the screen.

And then out they go to street car or automobile and on to the golf course to try the lesson on the courses.

There is no doubt but what the Jones golf series is a real contribution to the game. Golf has been stimulated everywhere the pictures have been shown.

They are downright pieces of craftsmanship. And what a great thing for the game that the greatest player it will ever know is kept at his peak for the future.

THE APPROVAL OF THE MOB.

It would be interesting to get inside the Sharkey man's skull and know just what he is thinking. The din of public disapproval is in his ears. Even those who stuck with him have cast him aside.

Possibly it means very little to him. He has managed to earn the respect of his neighbors in the more or less exclusive residential section where he dwells. He is invited in to bridge. And to dinner. He is accepted for what he is, a citizen who pays his taxes, comes home nights and who uses the right fork.

The approval of the mob should mean little to him. It meant nothing to Gene Tunney. Yet Tunney seems better poised than Sharkey, who a few years ago was a sailor on one of our big battle wagons. Just about 10 years ago as a matter of fact.

Sharkey wanted the approval of the mob for a while. He worried because Max Schmeling, a German, received more applause than he when they met.

At any rate the situation is an excellent commentary on American life and the opportunity which awaits one with a good pair of fists and boxing skill. Sharkey has wealth and a certain position.

One wonders how much he would swap for three hearty cheers. Not much, probably, and yet one wonders. There are times when three cheers mean a lot.

Even if they can't be taken down to the corner meat shop and exchanged for pork chops.

A GREAT SUBJECT FOR JULY.

In the door bulged a huge figure. His voice boomed.

"The Catalooche river flows from one of the peaks in the Great Smoky mountains," he said. "It dashes down from the snow peaks through the chill rocks, forming little pools no wider than your desk.

"You use a dry fly," he said. "They are biting a little black and red fly now. And you find one of those little pools where the water goes sliding by. And you drop in your fly.

"It floats along for a few feet and then—zunnng—out goes your reel. You leap from rock to rock or wade through the ice-cold water.

"I caught 30 rainbow trout there the other day," he said. "Thirty of them, the prettiest things you ever saw.

"And I'm going back. I've got the flies. And if you'll go with me we'll catch 30 more, the prettiest things and the gamest fighters you ever saw."

Whereupon the driver of this hack picked up a chair and ran Lake Russell, Mercer football coach, clean out of the office.

No man has a right to enter an office in July and speak of cold mountain streams, the cool air of the mountains, the beautiful scenery, dry flies on a dark pool of water, and rainbow trout in the Great Smoky mountains of Tennessee.

But, gosh, wouldn't it be wonderful?

PALMETTO PROSPECTS.

Johnny Cummings, outfielder, and Benny Rothstein, first baseman, will be the players brought back by the Crackers from the now-defunct Palmetto league.

Cummings, a Memphis boy and a former Vanderbilt University baseball star, injured his knee in spring training with the Crackers. In the Palmetto league he showed a lot of promise and is about ready to go as one of the class B rookies. Rothstein also had a good year. The fate of the two Pattersons, Burkett the pitcher, and J. D., the catcher, remains in doubt.

Despite the fact that the Palmetto league failed, the next spring is pretty sure to see some revivals. Mobile, for instance, will likely enter a new Southeastern league.

GOB AND MICKEY MAY MEET AGAIN IN NEAR FUTURE

Managers, Promoters Discuss Prospects for August Return Match

By Edward J. Neil,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, and Mickey Walker may attempt to settle a question of superiority again before the end of the summer.

Fighters had to be paid, receipts checked, and a maze of post-war details attended to, but there was still time enough today for Jack Kearns, manager of the Irishman, and Johnny Buckley, pilot for Sharkey, to discuss with Promoter Jimmy Johnston a resumption of the hostilities that ended in a 15-round draw in their first match at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, last night.

BOUT ARGUED.

Sharkey insists that the return bout be fought over another 15-round route, late in August, while Walker prefers 10 rounds. If the warriors will compromise on 12 rounds, and split half the gate for their efforts, the bout may be signed for Ebbets field again within a few days.

The complete financial statistics revealed today that the match was a success from all but the standpoint of Sharkey, who entered the ring a 3-to-1 favorite and struggled with small results against the left-hooking former king of the welterweights and middleweights. The gross receipts were $223,356, the net receipts minus tax $212,720, and Sharkey's 30 per cent amounted to $63,628, Walker's 20 per cent to $42,418. The total paid attendance was 30,588.

Through his manager, Sharkey pledged himself to an active campaign in the future, promising that none of the rustiness that showed through his ordinary work last night would be apparent in his next major battle. Sharkey wants to fight Walker again in August, Tommy Loughran if the Walker match cannot be made, and Primo Carnera in September.

MICKEY'S OUTLOOK.

Four stitches in the flesh of Walker's left eyelid were necessary to close the wound Sharkey inflicted. Walker has an offer for a match next month with Max Baer in Los Angeles, and is willing to fight Sharkey or Carnera if the terms are right. Mickey also wants the title chance Max Schmeling will give someone in June next year. Sharkey will be forced to rest an injured left hand at least three weeks before starting training again.

The financial success of last night's show, which will benefit the milk fund for babies to the extent of almost $50,000, set in motion today a line of effort that may result in Johnston gaining use of either the Polo grounds or the Yankee stadium.

It was estimated that the Walker-Sharkey match would have drawn at least $500,000 if staged in the Polo grounds or Yankee stadium.

Writers Favored Walker for Victory.

NEW YORK, July 23—The majority of ringside newspaper observers, as well as the crowd, favored Mickey Walker after his 15-round draw with Jack Sharkey.

The consensus of 15 New York sports writers today showed an average of 8 1-2 rounds scored for Walker, giving him a clear majority, despite the official decision. The same consensus showed 5 1-3 rounds for Sharkey and 1 1-3 even.

Opinions were sharply contrasting, however, one critic scored 10 rounds for Sharkey and two others tallied as many as 11 for Walker.

Walker's Wife Holds Up Purse.

NEW YORK, July 23—Mickey Walker's share of the purse in his fight last night with Jack Sharkey was attached today by order of Supreme Court Justice Byrne. The sheriff's warrant of attachment was served on the request of Mrs. Maude Kelly, Mickey's former wife, who claims $27,800.12 as reimbursement due her for funds she expended in supporting the Walker children, Michael, 7, and Patricia, 18 months.

Mrs. Kelly said her husband had not seen their children since he ordered her out of their home in June, 1929, five months before Patricia was born. She asserted her troubles with Walker started following his return from Paris in 1927.

Baltimore Gets 1932 U. S. Amateur

NEW YORK, July 23—The United States Golf Association today announced the 1932 national amateur golf championship would be held over the Five Farms course of the Baltimore Country Club, Baltimore, Md., and the 1932 national open at the Fresh Meadow Country Club, Flushing, Long Island. The dates will not be announced until next Spring.

Luke Appling Out With Hurt Finger

Luke Appling, star Cracker shortstop in 1930, has been sent home by the White Sox because of an injured finger, according to reports from Chicago.

Appling broke into the Cracker lineup after the start of the 1930 season, coming to the team from Oglethorpe. He played out the year and was sold at the end of the season for $20,000 cash and a player valued at $5,000.

The ex-Cracker started the season as the regular White Sox shortstop. He was given a rest but came back again a short while ago. The injured finger will keep him out for several weeks, it is thought.

MORE OUTFITS DISQUALIFIED IN LEGION PLAY

Terrors, Indians Are Out. Finals Are Scheduled Saturday.

By Max Hall.

Two more of the star sandlot teams of the city were disqualified from play in the Legion junior baseball tourney yesterday, the North Side Terrors and Grant Park Indians going out because of having players over age.

The Legion committee composed of "Scrappy" O'Sullivan, Frank Kempton, Frank Haas, Cherry Emerson and Major Trammell Scott, city and state sandlot director, met yesterday morning, went over the evidence, and made its decisions.

The South Side Robins from East Point, another outstanding team, will be disqualified or restored to good standing this morning. The committee has not completed its investigation on the age of one of the Robin players.

In the meantime the Murphy Eagles and the Blue Devils, two outfits which are clear of all suspicion of breaking the rules, played the first of a two-game series at Piedmont park yesterday morning, and the Eagles won, 7 to 2.

GAME TODAY.

The same teams will play again this morning at 10 o'clock on the southwest Piedmont park diamond. If the Eagles win again today the Blue Devils will be eliminated.

In case the South Side Robins should be vindicated and put back in the meet, they will play the winner of the Eagle-Devil series Saturday morning at Piedmont in the final game to determine which club will represent Atlanta in the state tourney at Gainesville beginning Tuesday.

If the South Side Robins are disqualified this morning, the Maddox Park team, which was eliminated from the tournament some time ago by the Robins, will be allowed another chance at the crown and will play the winner of the Eagle-Devil series Saturday in the finals.

The meet must be completed Saturday in order that the winner can prepare to leave for Gainesville Monday afternoon.

A summary of the situation follows: The Murphy Eagles and Blue Devils are playing a series. The winner will be definitely in the finals. The Eagles won the first game and are the favorites to take the series.

The South Side Robins are under investigation. If they are restored to the meet they will play the winner of the present series Saturday and will be strong favorites to take the championship. If they are disqualified Maddox Park will play Saturday instead.

HERE'S THE DOPE.

It seems pretty certain to this writer that if the Robins are restored they will be champions, and if the Robins are not restored the Murphy Eagles will win the crown.

That is how matters stand. Today's decision with regard to the eligibility of the Robin player, and today's final game between the Murphy Eagles and Blue Devils will be decisive semi-final steps in the selection of a championship team.

The North Side Terrors were disqualified yesterday because the committee decided that Marvin Partee was beyond the age limit, and the Grant Park Indians went out because Bill Edwards and another player, not named, were ruled ineligible according to the rules. The American Legion national rules say that each player must not have reached his seventeenth birthday prior to June 30, 1931.

The Rinky Dinks, another of the classy kid teams of the city, were thrown out earlier in the week for the same cause as the Terrors and Indians.

Up Against Cochet Today

HELEN ENTERS ESSEX FINALS

Queen of Courts Beats California Girl; Foe Undecided.

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 23.—(AP)—The speed and superior strokings of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody today gave her a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Dorothy Weisel, of Sacramento, Cal., and a place in the finals of the Essex Country Club's invitation for the fourth time since 1925.

Mrs. Moody must mark time for another day before learning who will attempt the seemingly hopeless task of withholding the title from her, for the other semi-final, to be waged by Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, last year's winner, and Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper, of Oakland, Cal., who ranks first nationally, was put over until tomorrow to prevent a gallery slump.

Although Mrs. Moody was never forced into a defensive position, her match with the Sacramento girl was not one of her usual walk aways. Her opponent was able to give her just the kind of opposition she needed to sharpen her game.

Dorothy, who appears undersized for the regulation racquet, had but a scanty repertory of strokes but her steadiness, foot work and tireless court courage gave her five winning games, one more than any of Mrs. Moody's five previous opponents was able to set up.

The match was crowned with sparkling rallies and Miss Weisel was not always second best in them.

Every one of Mrs. Moody's many strokes, including her new backhand cut, was called into play to force openings by chasing Dorothy about the court.

Mrs. Moody ran off the first three games before Miss Weisel held her service. She also held in the sixth and while receiving in the seventh forced the game to deuce four times.

An undeserved point, caused by an inattentive linesman, gave Mrs. Moody the lead she required for the second set. It came when Miss Weisel had a 40-30 lead on service and the unexpected decision so upset her that she flubbed the next two points and was broken. Each held from then on and Mrs. Moody ran out the set and match in the ninth game.

Big Racing Season Planned in Miami

MIAMI, Fla., July 23.—(AP)—The Herald says a program of 45 days of racing at the Miami Racing Association's Hialeah park plant has been arranged by the association for the 1932 winter season. The paper says the meeting, offering a total of $390,000 in stakes and purses, will open January 14 and continue through March 5.

Stakes arranged for the meeting, the paper says, will be climaxed by the $10,000 Florida derby on March 5.

Under Florida's new racing law, dates for race meetings are to be set by the state racing commission when permission is granted organizations to operate race tracks, subject to county referendum. The Miami Racing Association has applied for a permit to operate its Hialeah park plant, but the commission has not yet acted.

Following the passage of the racing measure by the state legislature improvements to cost approximately $1,000,000 were started at Hialeah park.

PALMETTO LOOP FAILS, DISBANDED

President Garrison Announces "Collapse"; No Post-Season Games.

GREENVILLE, S. C., July 23.—(AP)—Unable to weather its latest financial crisis, the Palmetto league, organized baseball's youngest circuit, collapsed today.

Diamonds were deserted at Greenville and Augusta this afternoon where Florence and Spartanburg were to have opened week-end series. In announcing the Class D league's demise, Charles H. Garrison, of Greenville, league president, said yesterday's games would be considered the season's end.

Frank Walker, veteran minor league pilot who was operating both the Spartanburg and Florence clubs in the four-city circuit, was unable to finance the trips the teams were scheduled to make today.

Spartanburg, which took over Anderson's franchise in June, was unable to make baseball a paying proposition.

Garrison said the directors would assemble this week to wind up details of the league.

Under the rules of organized baseball, players automatically become free agents when a circuit disbands.

Garrison said no effort would be made to revive the circuit.

LONDON, July 23—Vince Dundee, of Newark, N. J., and Jack Hood, a leading British middleweight boxer, will meet in a 10-round bout at White City next Monday evening, Jeff Dickson, promoter, announced today. Hood was substituted for Len Harvey, British middleweight champion, who withdrew because of a septic throat cold.

BOYS, JUNIORS SEEK CROWNS IN PLAY TODAY

By Roy White.

Atlanta's annual city tennis tournament reached the quarter-finals, with a few exceptions, Thursday afternoon, despite a heavy rain which started about 5:30 o'clock. It was the fourth time within six days that the tourney has been halted by thundershowers.

Only one, Joe Boland, of the eight seeded players, was lost to the list Thursday. Boland fell before the steady back court drives of Jack Boykin in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3.

INCOMPLETE MATCHES.

Harry Gault, the defending champion, had won one and lost one set to Carey Wilmer when rain started Thursday afternoon. It was one of the best matches of the afternoon, and was featured by the excellent placing and careful play of both stars.

Louis Enloe, seeded number eight, and Billy Armstrong were one set each, and Billy Dreger and Preston Chambers had just started when the wind and rain halted activities.

In the completed matches Tom Tumlin beat Allen Campbell, 6-1, 8-6, and lost to George Boynton, 6-1, 6-3. Jack Simpson beat V. Connerat, 6-1, 6-1. Carey Wilmer beat Ike Minor, 8-6, 6-3. Jack Boykin beat Joe Boland, 6-1, 6-3. George Boynton beat Tom Tumlin, 6-3, 6-4.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Links Are Afflicted With Turf Disease

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—An epidemic of turf trouble, far more serious than any previously experienced, has broken out on mid-western golf courses.

The Chicago district courses, especially, have been hard hit. Large and small brown-patch, pythium and scald have destroyed many greens and tees almost overnight and have seriously damaged the fairways.

Fungicides, normally effective in controlling turf infections, have failed to guarantee protection or restriction of damage. Because of the spread of the strange infection the Midwest Greenkeepers' Association has called a special meeting July 27.

Dobbers Are Idle; Play Chicks Today

Tired and with weather conditions poor, the Crackers and the Memphis Chicks took a vacation by agreement Thursday.

The Crackers had invaded Memphis to open a four-game series. It was agreed to call off the Thursday game, allowing the players a bit of rest, and to open the series today.

The postponed game will be played as part of a double-header Sunday.

THE SPORTLIGHT

By Grantland Rice

Off-Trails.

There is the sound of surf, calling me home;
There is light on the hills, leading me back—
What does it matter then, where I may roam,
Woodland or mountain stream, sand dune or foam,
So that I miss the road marred by the pack?

I, who have lived in crowds, part of the throng,
Crowds that are seeking dreams long ago dead,
Listen to hear again, far off, the song—
Song of the surf and winds, echoed along
Trails that I see once more winding ahead.

Cities are lonesome spots, haunted by fears.
I'll take the solitudes, mountain or sea,
Where I can dream again of dreams to be,
Dreams that I know are dreams lost in the years.

Yes, I might dream of songs that I could write
If I had only known, through the long list,
Just how to follow dreams, now lost in flight,
Blown from the golden day into the night,
Will-o-the-wisps that fade into the mist.

Why, in the world we know, should dreams come true?
Then they would turn to fact, bitter or dry;
I'll take the ghosts of deeds that I might do,
I'll take the ghosts of skies, star lit or blue,
Ghosts of the summer rose that cannot die.

The Far Cry.

It is a far cry and a long trail, as far as heavyweights in the United States go, to the days of Sullivan, Corbett, Jeffries, Johnson, Dempsey and Tunney. Jack Sharkey was supposed to be at least one lingering chance when it came to a matter of hauling back the old crown, but a heavyweight contender who can't whip a middleweight is at least no shining prospect.

It may be that Sharkey can beat Schmeling, but when you consider his chances against Dempsey, Heeney, Risko, Stribling, Schmeling and then Walker and recall what he made out of these chances, the evidence at least is not his way.

Sharkey is still the great should-be. But when the white spotlight beats down upon him, something seems to wither and fade as the flame turns to ash. He can show you everything—in flashes. He can show you everything but the old-fashioned will to win. And that still happens to be one of the vital things—something that Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker have far beyond the average.

Sharkey has only had this flame for short moments and brief spots. He had it for two or three rounds against Dempsey—and then promptly cooled off. It has never been a continued march. When he let 169-pound Mickey Walker do most of the forcing and most of the actual fighting, he was the same Sharkey that fought Johnny Risko with a Tunney match and a shot at the big title hanging in the balance. If that lure won't force a heavyweight to keep on trying, nothing else will. The Sharkey that fought Harry Wills at Ebbets field five years ago has gone back further than the eye can see.

Mickey Walker's Place.

Mickey Walker's stand against Sharkey has gummed up the heavyweight show to a marked degree. As good as he looked against Sharkey and as game as he was, few could give him any great chance against the rugged, hard-hitting Schmeling whose short right jolts don't miss as Sharkey missed. The main answer is that some new heavyweight must now be given a chance. Some such heavyweight as Ernie Schaaf or Charley Retzlaff. At least they have been coming along.

It is difficult to know just where to place the 169-pound veteran Walker. He has been the ring's best fighting man, pound for pound, and inch for inch, for some years. But he still doesn't look to be in sight of any heavyweight championship, as game as he is and as good as he is for his weight and inches.

He has heart enough for two heavyweights, but he hardly carries enough heavy artillery to make any great headway against a Schmeling, for one example. He can't punch hard enough. He hit Sharkey almost at will in many rounds without any particular damage worth writing about.

Mickey at least has tossed a monkey wrench into the challenging side of the heavyweight argument. Sharkey was New York state's heavyweight champion. He was generally regarded as the American champion. He then barely earns a draw against an ex-middleweight who has been around for 13 years, not bothering any too much about his physical condition.

This doesn't mean that Walker was out of shape. He was there all the route. But Sharkey's easy going tactics gave him his chances to move along where the ever-crowding Schmeling would have been an entirely different matter. Mickey Walker stands far higher today in his game than he ever stood before. That is a remarkable achievement for a man of his size and years. But he will still have to prove against one of the coming-on younger fighters that he belongs with Max Schmeling in a championship test.

MILO MATCHED WITH HESSLYN

Jim Hesslyn, who after two matches in Atlanta, has been advanced to the headliner class, has been matched with Milo Steinborn for next Tuesday night at Spiller field.

Steinborn, whose prodigious strength won from Ivan Vacturoff last Tuesday night, will meet a wrestler more skilled in the science of the game than was Vacturoff. Steinborn seems to have little trouble with the boys who want to play strong with him. The old bear hug gets them right out of there.

Hesslyn, who recently returned to this country after a series of triumphs in Australia, has been going along in good style, showing plenty of skill.

In the semi-windup it is possible that Cy Williams, the former Florida football player, will be given another chance. Matchmaker Charley Renthrop, who is carrying on in the absence of Henry Weber, who sailed Thursday for London, will announce the semi-windup today. Weber will be gone for six weeks.

Naugatuck Greets Champion Burke

NAUGATUCK, Conn., July 23.—(AP)—Blowing of factory whistles and shouts of welcome from assembled townspeople today made the official welcome of Billie Burke, national open golf champion, to his former town one of the greatest demonstrations ever held in this place.

Later he played an exhibition 18-hole round at the Naugatuck Golf Club with Joe Stein, John Golden, of Stamford, and James Andrews, of the Waterbury Country Club.

A parade in which civic and fraternal organizations marched was held tonight.

Miller and Harbin Wrestle at Almand

Sam Miller, Detroit, and George Harbin, Atlanta, will tussle in the feature bout of a mixed wrestling and boxing card to be held tonight at Almand park, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

Billie Cowan and Eddie Wagner will wrestle in the other mat match, and Irish Branon will meet Claud Whitfield in the boxing bout of the evening.

Norman McMillan Is Bought by Cats

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 23.—Norman McMillan, member of the 1929 Chicago Cub championship team, has been purchased by the Fort Worth baseball club, it was announced today by the secretary. McMillan, an infielder, was obtained from Chattanooga, of the Southern Association, and is scheduled to report to the Cats in Dallas Saturday.

THOMPSON BEATEN.

BOSTON, July 23.—(UP)—Lou Brouillard, of Worcester, was given the judges' decision tonight over Jack Thompson, of Chicago, world's welterweight champion, in a 10-round bout at Boston Garden. The New England fighter had the best of each round and several times had the western negro on the verge of a knockout. The title was not at stake.

WOMEN'S MEET CROWN IS WON BY MRS. WRIGHT

Miss Warren Beaten by Medalist in Final Round.

Mrs. J. C. Wright, the medalist, continued her consistent play Thursday morning on the Capital City Country Club course and won the July match play tournament sponsored by the Atlanta Woman's Golf Association. Mrs. Wright defeated Miss Mary Warren, 5-4.

In the second flight Mrs. Dave Black, one of the new members of the association, won her initial flight title with a 3-2 victory over Mrs. S. B. Ives. Mrs. Guy Butler defeated Mrs. Sam McDaniel, 3-2, to win the third flight title.

The tournament was one of the most successful of the summer season, and produced some of the best golf of recent months. One of the matches in the first flight and two others in the second flight ended in extra-hole matches, while numerous others ended on the 17th and 18th greens.

In the finals Thursday Mrs. Wright and Miss Warren waged a great battle on the first nine, with Mrs. Wright having a one-hole advantage at the turn. Neither player was more than one up at any time during the first nine.

On the back nine Mrs. Wright continued to send her drives straight down the middle, while Miss Warren had trouble with drives and second shots. Miss Warren played a particularly good game on the greens, as did Mrs. Wright, but her iron play on the second nine was not what it was on the first nine.

Mrs. Wright carded a 92, two under her medal score, for the round, despite an 8 on a par 3 hole, where she was in all sorts of trouble. Miss Warren was only a stroke or two away.

Golfers Meet To Organize Club.

A meeting will be held at the clubhouse at Piedmont Park course tonight at 8 o'clock in an effort to organize a Piedmont Park Golf Club to sponsor a championship golf tournament each season, it was announced last night by Billy Wilson, professional at the park.

All municipal golfers are invited to attend the meeting as officers will be elected and plans for the coming season mapped out. A big season is being planned.

Lessons In GOLF

By Roy Grove

Central Press Association

Few golfers realize the importance of the swing at the point of contact.

The less effort expended at this point, the straighter and more accurate the stroke will become. This is controlled on the pivot, that point between the top of the head and the heels.

The average golfer starts the roll before he hits the ball, which opens the face of the club or closes it, getting a hook or a slice.

The right arm is as stiff in hitting through as the left is in coming back.

Keep the head over the ball and let the shoulders work around as on a hinge. Let the right shoulder come under the chin and then look up. This applies to the iron game as well as to the wooden clubs.

The hands must punch out more so towards the hole when using the iron clubs.

Note in the illustration how the player looks at the point after hitting. The theory is to keep on hitting after the ball is hit. Any twist or turn at the point of contact will hook or slice the ball.

Keep the feet close together to keep from turning the club.

CLARK FIGHTS HERE MONDAY

A "battle of giants" will be seen at Roby's open air arena Monday night when Roy (Ace) Clark, of Philadelphia, the largest colored fighter in the ring today, meets Bearcat Obie, Atlanta heavyweight who has 39 victories to his credit and who is yet to be defeated.

This bout will be ten rounds.

Ace Clark, who is a southern negro, went east a few years ago and, under the management of Jack West, has gone rapidly toward the top. Clark is seven feet tall and weighs 240 pounds. He has met such outstanding fighters as Primo Carnera, Knute Hansen, George Godfrey, Jimmy Maloney and a host of other top-notch heavyweights.

Both of these boys are classy boxers and can hit. Their bout should furnish a lot of fast action.

This is the fourth card presented by Roby in his new open air arena. The largest crowd in the brief history of the arena is expected to be present when these two giants square off.

French Decide Against Olympics

PARIS, July 23.—(AP)—The French Olympic committee today decided not to send a team to the Los Angeles games in 1932. The decision followed reports that insufficient funds were available to finance the trip of a representative team.

The communique from the French Olympic committee placed responsibility for the decision on parliament's failure to vote the necessary credits before adjournment.

Despite the announcement of the French Olympic committee, American Olympic officials are hopeful France may arouse sufficient backing to send at least a small team to Los Angeles next year.

France was the Olympic host in 1924 and has scored a number of notable triumphs in the games. The Algerian, El Ouafi, won the marathon for France at the 1928 games. In the track sports, France has the world's 800-meter recordholder in Sera Martin, also a 1,500-meter star in Jules Ladoumegue, second at this distance in 1928.

Duke Quarterback Will Be in Condition

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 23.—(AP)—Lowell Mason, crack Duke University quarterback, who was shot by a policeman here June 18, will be in shape to play football next season, his physicians announced today.

For a time Mason's condition was such that it was considered doubtful if he would return to the gridiron.

He was shot in the pelvis when he attempted to flee from police who arrested him following an automobile crash.

RUTH, GEHRIG SLAP HOMERS TO KEEP PACE

Gehrig now has a four-blow margin on the Big Bam, his total being 30 and the slugging King having 26. It is the second straight day the pair has hit for the circuit, Babe getting two homers Wednesday to gain on Lou, who hit one.

Virgil Davis, of the Phillies, and Charles Grimm, of the Cubs, took places in baseball's Big Six yesterday as the New York-Cincinnati duel lowered the averages of Harvey Hendrick and Frank Hogan.

Davis, idle, as was Chuck Klein, has a .349 mark for second place in the National league group while Grimm made two hits in four trips to bring his average to .346.

Al Simmons took second place in the American league by cracking three hits in four times up against Cleveland.

OCEAN CITY, N. J., July 23.—(AP)—Bruce Barnes, of the University of Texas, gained the semi final bracket in the Atlantic coast tennis championships on the courts of the Ocean City Tennis Club, by defeating John Dillard, of the University of North Carolina, 6-3, 6-2, today and then conquering Karel Kamrath, one of Barnes' traveling partners, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Ted Burwell, Sewanee, seeded No. 2 behind Barnes, along with Martin Buxby, of Miami, Fla.; Joe Olhausen, of Philadelphia; Lucien Lacoste, of Texas; Harold MacGuffin, of Philadelphia, and Eddie Greene, of the University of Pennsylvania, reached the quarter-final round.

Lacoste eliminated Tom Mangin, Washington, D. C., star, 6-8, 6-4, 6-2. Greene conquered Quinn Connelly, of Texas, 6-3, 6-3.

Burwell defeated Fred Roll, University of Pennsylvania, 6-4, 6-1. Buxby conquered Weller Evans, East Orange, N. J., 6-3, 6-2, 6-3. MacGuffin defeated Harvey Y. Lake, Ocean City, 6-3, 8-6.

In the men's doubles, first round, Buxby and Burwell defeated Morgan and Kelly, New York, 6-2, 6-2. In the second-round doubles, Roll and Dillard, University of North Carolina, won from Kramer, Baltimore, and Van Dykes, Atlantic City, by default, and Tom Mangin, Washington, D. C., and Carter, Texas, won from P. A. Hutchinson, Orlando, Fla., and D. Hutchinson, Atlantic City High school, by default.

Transocean Boats Trail Into Harbor

PLYMOUTH, England, July 23.—(AP)—The trans-Atlantic racing yachts Landfall and Highland Light raced up Plymouth harbor today to finish second and third in the 3,000-mile voyage from Newport, R. I., with the scratch boat, Landfall, finishing 10 minutes ahead of her smaller rival.

The unofficial times were 4:20 and 4:30 p. m. (11:20 and 11:30 a. m., E. S. T.)

The race was won Monday by the 52-foot yawl Dorade, designed and sailed by Olin Stephens, of Scarsdale, N. Y. She finished in 17 days, 14 minutes.

Robins Strike Snag In Pennant Drive

Drop Second to Pirates, 17-6; Vance Routed; A's Ten Games Ahead.

By Leo H. Petersen.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(UP)—The mid-season drive of the Brooklyn Robins, which stamped them as serious contenders for the 1931 National league pennant, has struck a snag in the form of the lowly Pittsburgh Pirates.

Pittsburgh, unable to hit its stride during the first half of the season, made it two out of three from the second-place Robins today, 17 to 6, and dropped Brooklyn six and one-half contests behind the pace setting St. Louis Cardinals.

The Pirates made their victory convincing by pounding four pitchers for 21 hits. They started out by knocking Dazzy Vance, dean of Brooklyn's pitching staff, off the mound. Brame, coasting under a big lead, toyed with the Robins and, although he allowed 17 hits, was never in danger of losing.

New York regained third place by defeating Cincinnati, 4 to 2, in ten innings while the Chicago Cubs kicked away a 6-to-3 verdict to the Boston Braves. Carl Hubbell held the Reds to four hits but they bunched three of them in the fifth inning to tie the score at 2-all. The Giants won out in the extra frame on two singles, a hit batsman, and a sacrifice.

The Braves got only five hits off four Chicago pitchers, but they combined them effectively with five Cub errors. Ed Brandt was off to a wobbly start but after the third inning he held the Cubs helpless. The defeat dropped Chicago into fourth place.

The other National league contest scheduled, between Philadelphia and St. Louis, was postponed because of rain.

A'S TEN GAMES AHEAD.

Philadelphia stretched its leadership in the American league to ten full games by defeating Cleveland, 5 to 2, while the second-place Washington Senators lost to St. Louis, 6 to 4.

George Earnshaw allowed the Indians only five hits and was in trouble only once, in the eighth inning, when Cleveland scored both of its runs. The world champions pounded Harder, starting Cleveland pitcher, hard.

Wallace Hebert, rookie southpaw, was credited with hurling the Browns to their second straight over the Senators, but he had to be relieved in the sixth inning. The Browns were off to an early lead when they scored four runs in the third inning, two of them on Heinie Manush's error, and were never headed.

YANKS WIN, 7-6.

The New York Yankees won their first extra-inning game of the season when they set back the Detroit Tigers, 7 to 6, in 13 frames. A single by Dickey, two bunts and a long fly enabled the Yankees to win out over Arthur Herring, who replaced Whitehill after the latter retired in favor of a pinch hitter in the thirteenth. Lou Gehrig got his 30th home run of the season and Babe Ruth poled out No. 26.

Boston pounded two pitchers for 16 hits to turn back the Chicago White Sox, 13 to 4.

Dodd, 'Stege' Lead As Tech, Georgia Grid Coaches Golf

Georgia Tech and University of Georgia football coaches spent an enjoyable afternoon on the Ingleside Country Club golf course Thursday afternoon, with honors for the afternoon shared about equally.

An all-Georgia foursome of Herman J. Stegeman, athletic director; Harry Mehre, football coach; Harold Hirsch, prominent alumnus, and Buster Kilpatrick, former gridiron hero, finished at the eighth hole of the second round when a hard rain started.

Just behind the Georgia foursome were W. A. Alexander, Tech football coach; Bobby Dodd, backfield coach; Dr. Sam Silverman and Jimmy Livingstone, Ingleside professional.

Stegeman led the Georgia foursome with a 38 on the first nine and was going great on the back nine when play was suspended.

As the Tech coaches started out, Dodd said to Alexander, "Let's you and I take on this Ingleside team."

"Not me," replied the coach. "I am going to play with the professional. He really knows this game."

That remark fired Bobby. He was one over par for seven holes on the second nine after carding a 42 on the first side. Alexander and Livingstone were a couple up on the first nine.

Hines and Mooney Play on Court Today

SEDGEFIELD COUNTRY CLUB, GREENSBORO, N. C., July 23.—(AP)—Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., the tournament favorite, moved into the semi-finals of the South Atlantic tennis tournament today in the only match played in the men's singles.

The tall, dark-skinned South Carolinian, seeded No. 1, turned back Jimmy Poole, Greensboro, seeded 6, in their quarter-final match by the score of 6-2, 6-3.

Tomorrow he will meet Jack Mooney, the Atlanta veteran and former southern champion, who reached the semi-finals yesterday. Robert (Lefty) Bryan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., plays Lenoir Wright, of Charlotte, in the other semi-final match.

Bryan and Wright, who are teamed in the doubles, advanced to the finals today with a straight set victory over Melvin Tarpley, of Tampa, Fla., and Arthur Hendrix, Lakeland, Fla.

Before meeting Tarpley and Hendrix, they beat Settle Dockery and Cliff Flowers, both of Rockingham, N. C., in a morning match, 6-0, 6-0.

Tarpley and Hendrix, in the morning matches, beat Mooney and Harvey Harris, of Raleigh, 7-9, 6-2, 6-4.

Both the singles and doubles finals will be played Saturday. In the doubles title contest, Bryan and Wright will meet the winners of a match tomorrow between Hines and Harley Shuford, of Hickory, N. C., and Poole and Lucas Abels, of High Point.

Grid Referee Sees Controversy Ahead

SEATTLE, July 23.—In the codification of the 1931 football rules, loopholes were left for two possible sources of disagreement, in the opinion of George Varnell, Coast Conference referee.

Requiring the umpire to pass judgment on the need of a player to have a hand taped, under rule 5, section 3, is one obscure point, Varnell believes.

The second which he thinks may provoke controversy is rule 7, section 5, which declares ineligible for receiving a forward pass any player who is more than a foot and less than a yard behind the scrimmage line when the ball is snapped.

He contends this virtually will bar quarterbacks from receiving forward passes, unless the rules committee clarifies the interpretation.

FRENCH TEAM 4-TO-1 FAVORITE TO HOLD CROWN

Cochet Plays Austin, Borotra Meets Perry in Singles.

PARIS, July 23.—(AP)—For the first time since 1919, England tomorrow will challenge for the Davis cup, international tennis trophy held by France.

In 1919 England went down to defeat before Australia, at Sydney, in the challenge round and since that time has failed to reach the final round until this year.

Victorious over the United States three matches to two in the interzone finals, the young English team will enter Roland Garros stadium to engage a polished but illness-handicapped French team which has held the cup for four years.

Despite the bear stories on the staleness of Jean Borotra and the ailing shoulder of Henri Cochet, the English team is conceded no better than a one-to-four chance to defeat France.

The draw, made today, favored France in pitting Cochet, king of the world's courts, against H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England's strongest player, and Borotra against Fred Perry.

The English players returning this morning from a few days' rest at Fontainebleau, where they didn't touch a racquet, took a long workout on the center court of Roland Garros. In addition to Austin and Perry, the members of the team are George Hughes, doubles partner of Perry, and Charles Kingsley.

Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, probable choice to play the doubles with Cochet, also took a workout but the little French star chose to rest. Friends said the last few days of practice had convinced Cochet he was back in his best form.

Officials announced the reserved seats for the three days of play were practically all gone.

BEN JEBY GETS NOD.

Mrs. Rockne To See 'Irish' Picture Filmed

KANSAS, CITY, July 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Knute Rockne was en route to Hollywood, Cal., by train today with a group of former Notre Dame football stars to witness the filming of a motion picture in which her famous husband was to have taken a part.

It was while traveling to California in connection with motion picture work that the famous coach was killed in an airplane crash near Cottonwood Falls, Kan., four months ago.

The widow said she would not appear in the film. Three of the famous "Four Horsemen" were in the party of football stars who will cavort again on the gridiron—before movie cameras.

"I was in Chicago to see the boys off," Mrs. Rockne said, "and they urged me to come with them. On the impulse, I decided I would."

She was accompanied by her son, Billy.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—With the exception of bonds, today's financial markets acquired little sense of direction.

Stocks, after a little early unsettlement, dragged into a deadlock that left the averages unchanged at the close for the second time in a week. Wheat, corn and cotton made nominal changes. Bonds, on the other hand, softened.

The turnover on the stock market totaled 760,630 shares, not much more than the Monday volume, and it could hardly be said that the failure of the London conference to adopt aggressive or spectacular measures for the aid of Germany had much effect on sentiment.

It had been apparent for several days that the renewal of short term credits and the laying of a groundwork for more permanent credits would be about as far as the powers would decide to go at this time; hence the actual accomplishments seemed to have been discounted.

The other headlined event of the day in the financial world was the raising of the Bank of England's discount rate to 3 1-2 per cent from 2 1-2. This step had been expected a week ago but the announcement this morning came somewhat as a surprise since it had been thought the bank might hold off a while longer. However, the steady gold withdrawals doubtless necessitated immediate action. Sterling firmed against the dollar and the French franc, although more gold moved from London to Paris.

Bankers pointed out that the increase was the first important break in the easy money policy informally agreed upon by the important central banks some time ago as a means of helping the world out of the depression. However, it was obvious conditions had changed radically since that program was first adopted and that the London banking authorities, faced with a loss of about $75,000,000 in gold in a week, felt obliged to do something. There is no expectation that the federal reserve bank here will lift its rate.

German bonds were weak, and a good part of the recent gain has now been lost.

Domestic developments were mostly in the nature of earnings reports. Both Montgomery Ward and National Cash Register, which had had deficits in the first quarter, returned net profits in the second. Chrysler's earnings of 73 cents a share exactly equalled those of the same period a year ago, and contrasted with a first quarter loss equal to 22 cents a share.

Net changes in principal stocks were largely fractional. U. S. Steel dropped about a point and a half early, more than recovered during the painfully slow rally that ensued and then dipped 3-8 lower at the close.

Losses in wheat were less than half a cent. Corn's variations amounted to minor fractions on either side of the previous close. An erratic cotton market finished 6 to 14 points higher.

The rally in sterling carried cables to $4.84 1-2, a net gain of 7-16. The reichsmark rallied in a nominal market. Francs were off 11-16 here.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, 10 points up, at 8.75. Receipts, 774; shipments, 0; stocks, 169,439.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—Cotton was feverish today, and after showing early declines of 9 to 15 points, prices rallied and closed at about the best of the session.

The October position declined early to 9.15, a loss of 13 points, rallied to 9.40 and closed at 9.38, an advance of 10 points. The general market closed steady at 6 to 14 points net higher.

The opening was steady 4 to 7 points lower in response to disappointing Liverpool cables. More favorable weather conditions, with an absence of rainfall except at numerous places in the gulf states, were given bearish interpretations, although partly offset by a forecast of renewed showery conditions.

Crop accounts in general were favorable and the crop prospects were believed to contain little in the way of buying encouragement. There was, however, enough of a weevil menace in the weather conditions and private advices to check aggressive selling. Toward the close of the day contracts became scarce, and when shorts attempted to cover the market advanced easily and experienced gains of $1 to $1.25 per bale from the early low levels.

The south was credited with selling some cotton here early, but there was little to indicate any increased hedge selling against the new crop.

Liverpool cabled that the market there was lower under liquidation and on the higher bank rate in London and reported Manchester unsettled with business unimportant.

Exports today 9,324, making 6,867,021 so far this season; port receipts 1,874; United States ports, 2,832,207.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS SHOW SMALL ADVANCES

NEW ORLEANS, July 23.—(AP)—Prospects for further showery weather in the belt were responsible for a good rally in cotton following an easy decline on indifferent cables, unsatisfactory news from the London conference and weakness in stocks. Prices dropped off 12 to 13 points in the first part of the morning and the later rally carried values up 16 to 17 points from the lows to levels 4 points above the previous close. The continued showers caused traders to apprehend deterioration to the crop and possibly the spread of weevils. The market continued firm all the afternoon and active months made new highs, 23 to 26 points above the early lows, but reacted 5 to 8 points at the end on realizing. Closing steady the general market showing net gains for the day of 5 to 6 points.

Liverpool cables came in 1 penny worse than due and private cables stated that there was liquidation in the market but some scale-down buying. The cables announced that the Bank of England had increased its money rate from 2 1-2 to 3 1-2 per cent. Manchester cabled that business in cloths was unimportant and yarns irregular.

Brokers' Views

Stock Letters.

FENNER & BEANE

CHICAGO, July 23—Today's market continued under the depressing influence furnished by a lack of decisiveness of news emanating from the London conference. As in recent sessions, however, volume was extremely limited and significant support was evident in such market leaders as United States Steel and American Can.

The market's action clearly indicates that although buying incentive is lacking, there is no disposition on the part of holders of stocks to offer them in volume at these levels. This is readily understood, in view of the fact that domestic industrial activity is now passing through its low ebb period and that within little more than a fortnight definite evidence of seasonal fall improvement should begin to become evident.

DOBBS & CO.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Adjournment of the London conference with satisfactory results, in the opinion of President Hoover and representatives of the nations in attendance, has eliminated those discussions as a source of stock market anxiety, but still leaves Germany's main problems to be solved. For the immediate future we feel that interest in the foreign situation will be supplanted to a large extent by speculation as to the dividend action of United States Steel directors at their meeting scheduled for next Tuesday. Failure of earnings in the second quarter to show improvement over those of the first three months of the year recalls similar conditions in 1921, when the leading factor of the steel industry maintained a $5 dividend rate, although failing to earn it by a substantial margin.

COURTS & CO.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Pessimism toward near-term market appears to be expressed not by active selling but by merely remaining aloof and not translating sentiment into action. Today there was a generally bearish feeling toward the market and yet, after selling at the opening, the list was allowed to drift and succeeded in recovering part of earlier losses.

In banking circles unpleasant possibilities in European situation must have been recognized months ago. While recent developments may have been something of a shock to the lay public, they were probably no surprise to informed observers.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, July 23.—With volume running below 1,000,000 shares for the second day this week the market today backed and filled aimlessly within a very narrow range. The rather disappointing accomplishment of the London seven-power conference and the increase of a full 1 per cent in the London bank rate brought out very little selling and stocks were generally off only fractionally on the day. It is becoming more evident that the European situation is not going to be quickly settled by any one conference. The sharp contrasts between the viewpoints of France, Germany and the United States can only be adjusted over a long period of time. However, the London conference seems to have fixed up the situation temporarily if not permanently so that for the present at least we shall probably witness a shift of interest back to trade conditions.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Volume again was below a million shares and fluctuations narrow in today's trading. Early weakness was succeeded by a firmer tone in the afternoon and the net result of the day was practically a standoff.

One of the striking features of the day was an advance of nearly 4 points in Butterick following the publication of the earnings statement for the first six months which showed profits equal to $2.23 a share as compared with $2.04 for the similar period last year. Usually the third quarter is the poorest of the year, but it is obvious that the stock is selling at an attractive price in respect to its earning power.

Cotton Letters.

FENNER & BEANE

NEW YORK, July 23—The market sold off to net losses of 11@14 points in the early trading, but later recovered 20@25 points and closed near the best of the season, with net gains of 7@10 points on active months. The continent, trade interests and co-ops, as well as New Orleans, were among principal buyers on the decline, while selling appeared to be coming from Liverpool, spot houses and Wall Street. Local professions were on the buying side during the remainder of the session and New Orleans also bought with a fair degree of freedom. While co-ops were credited with purchases of distant months, they were said to have sold October in excess of their purchases of later deliveries.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Liverpool was lower than expected this morning as the first momentary depression of the London conference was considered unsatisfactory in England. Our market met the decline running into some stop-loss orders but during the day both the securities and cotton markets began to show underlying signs of strength as it was realized that people had been expecting too much from the conference and that as an actual matter of fact a great deal has been accomplished. In the first place the immediate pressing credits to Germany which were due for payment and which precipitated the crisis have been postponed and in the interim a committee has been appointed to work out the problems. This is the first step toward a real solution of the international financial situation and a very logical one to take. Unquestionably from this committee will come some definite solution.

Liverpool futures are due tomorrow: October 5.00; January 5.10.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Cotton sold off 2 to 4 points on the opening today when Liverpool cables were slightly worse than due and early reports indicated very little rain fell in the belt overnight. Most of the selling came from the trade, Liverpool and the continent. Prices eased off after the call with offerings fairly well taken on the scale down by shorts taking profits. March and May options being ascribed by the co-operatives. Reports of too much rain in central belt caused short covering and prices were sustained during the final hour on additional reports of weevil infestation, especially in some localities in Mississippi where it is said to be worse than for several years. Optimistic statements from Washington added their influence, prices at the close showed net gains for the day of 5 to 6 points.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Cotton sold off a further 9 to 15 points during the forenoon on further scattering liquidation and selling by spot houses. Liverpool commission houses and the south, but the offerings were well taken by the trade and shorts and during the afternoon prices rallied on week-end covering and some buying by reactionists inspired by the forecast for general showers over the belt, closing steady at a net advance of 6 to 10 points. The market has apparently become somewhat oversold and the advance was due in a measure to a technical readjustment. It is a trading market and we continue to favor purchases on sharp breaks.

Grain Letters.

FENNER & BEANE

CHICAGO, July 23—With Liverpool cables absolutely featureless and export trade almost at a standstill, awaiting further developments regarding European credits, our market dragged in an uninteresting manner, with trade confined almost entirely to pit professionals. The only encouraging feature was a sharp falling off in hedging pressure as a result of small receipts. Winnipeg was weak in the early trading, but they, too, complained of extreme dullness with local longs becoming discouraged and liquidating. Canadian weather is hot and dry and the forecast is for similar conditions tomorrow.

Wall Street Briefs.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Although definite progress has been made toward ultimate consolidation of Sinclair Consolidated Oil Co., Rio Grande Oil Co., and Tide Water Associated Oil Co., negotiations have not yet reached the stage where any preview of possible terms can be given. Harry F. Sinclair declined to discuss the possible basis of the deal, but said that it would be absurd to predicate any merger on a basis of worth.

Celotex Co., through joint arrangements with the American Hair & Felt Co., Robert Gair Co., Alton Box Board and Paper Co., Compo-Board Co., Kalite Co., and others has completed plans for expansion to include full lines of all types of insulating and acoustical products.

Negotiations have been completed between the Commonwealth Edison Co. and Halsey, Stuart & Co., for the sale of $20,000,000 Commonwealth Edison Co. 3½ per cent gold notes, due July 30, 1932. The issue is being offered at 99.88 and interest, yielding 3½ per cent.

Production of bituminous coal has been running behind consumption for almost nine months, with the result that commercial stocks have been drawn down to the lowest level in ten years, if strike periods are excluded, Standard Statistics Co. says. "Current indications," the survey says, "are that the minimum level of bituminous inventories is near; that an upward readjustment of production shortly will be necessary to bring output in line with present demand."

American Alcohol Co. has raised the price of denatured alcohol 1 cent a gallon to 25 cents, tankcars, and 28 cents in drums and carload lots.

Dow, Jones & Co. says Youngstown district open hearth steel producers are operating on a basis of 37 per cent of capacity, an increase of 3 per cent above the average of operations at the beginning of the week. Carnegie Steel Company output is slightly higher, indicating that the company's finishing mills are finding a somewhat better demand, particularly from automobile manufacturers.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Raw sugar was unchanged today. Although local refiners showed no particular interest above 3.55, there was nothing offered below 3.58 or 3.60. Outport refiners, however, were again in the market and purchased 28,700 bags of Porto Rican for second half August shipment at 3.58, 18,000 bags of Philippines for March-April shipment at 3.68 and 9,000 bags of Philippines for April-May at 3.71.

Futures were quiet, and after a fairly steady opening eased off under liquidation and hedge selling, with the close net unchanged for the spot month but 2 to 4 points net lower on later positions. The market opened unchanged to 1 point higher on covering and some buying by houses with Cuban connections. The demand was not aggressive, however, and prices gradually sagged, closing at the lowest of the session.

Approximate sales were only 12,500 tons. July closed 1.50, September 1.44, December 1.51, January 1.51, March 1.57, May 1.63 and July 1.68.

In refined the withdrawal demand was again of liberal proportions, but there was no new buying. Prices were unchanged at 4.75 for fine granulated.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—Insufficiency of buying led to lower grain prices today, notwithstanding reports that foreigners were seeking to purchase some of the federal farm board's wheat holdings. Chairman Stone was credited with a statement that the board was willing to dispose of this wheat if reasonable credits were arranged. Results of the international financial conference were generally looked upon as bearish.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1-8 to 1-2 cent lower; corn unchanged to 1-2 off; oats 1-8 to 1-2 down, and provisions at 2 cents to 10 cents decline.

A wavering start in wheat was followed by evidence during most of the remainder of the day that the market was disposed to sag. Export business was of small proportions.

Cables from London said an additional 50,000 tons of vessel space for July-December wheat exports from Russia had been chartered, and that Russia was offering wheat to Rotterdam equal to 56 1-4 cents, whereas United States wheat at Rotterdam would cost about 58 1-2 cents.

Hot winds in Nebraska and Kansas checked selling of corn, but, as in wheat, a reluctance to buy was apparent. Oats crop news from the northwest was bullish.

Provisions lacked support.

TRADE TRENDS
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

COTTON — Present indications point to a full production of cotton in various foreign cotton growing countries, according to advices from Liverpool to the New York cotton exchange service. Argentina reports that the outturn in the province of Santa Fe has exceeded expectations and that there is a shortage of pickers. Brazil reports that the crop of the state of Pernambuco is large, and the production of the state of Sao Paulo is estimated at around 70,000 bales, against 18,000 last year.

FOOD PRICES — Bradstreet's weekly food index has turned upward and registers a slight gain, fourtenths of one per cent, over the previous week. As compared with a month ago this week's number shows an increase of 1.4 per cent, but is still 18 per cent below the like week of last year. This week's index number is $2.19. Weekly price changes in Bradstreet's list of 87 commodities shows that 18 were higher than last week; 15 were lower, and 54 remained unchanged.

FURNITURE—A limited number of orders for furniture for August sales purposes provided the only activity in the New York wholesale furniture market this week.

HIDES—An analysis by the New York hide exchange shows that the consumption of cattle hides, including kips, during the first five months this year exceeded the movement into sight by 1,158,000 hides.

SILVER — Bar silver continued weak in the primary markets Thursday, sagging an eighth of a cent in New York to 27 5-8 cents an ounce, and a sixteenth of a penny in London to 12 15-16 pence.

BY ALEXANDER HENDERSON.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—Bond prices reacted today in an increased turnover. German issues were mostly weak, and although there was some improvement in the latter dealings the recessions, added to recent declines, meant that a substantial part of the recent recovery had been lost. Numerous other foreigns, especially Latin Americans, were soft.

Heaviness of the rails featured the trading in domestic corporation loans. Several carrier obligations lost as much as a point, although the larger declines were to a large extent in secondary issues. Sales for the entire market totaled $9,097,000.

German Government 5 1-2s closed at 58 for a net loss of 2 1-4. The 7s dropped 4 points to 81 but cut their recession in half. Bank, provincial, municipal and corporate loans of German description returned generally larger losses.

The heavier rails included Central of Georgia 1st 5s, Southern Railway general 4s, Chicago & North Western 4 1-2s, Baltimore & Ohio 1st 4s, the Missouri Pacific 5s, Frisco 5s and Cotton Belt 4s. Losses in that list ranged from 1 to more than 2 points.

A few industrials firmed. Central Steel 8s, Gulf States Steel 5 1-2s, Liggett & Myers 7s and Armour 5 1-2s closed with advances, but their market was mostly thin. Oil issues were quiet and some profit-taking appeared in that group.

The utility division worked lower. United States Governments drifted lower, but only in the Treasury 3 3-4s and 3 1-8s was the turnover at all active.

Highlights of Wall Street

NEW YORK, July 23.—Except for declines of about 1 to 2 points in the early trading the general stock market today failed to register much disappointment at the outcome of the London conference. While there seemed to be general dissatisfaction at the failure of the seven-power representatives to accomplish something more material and beneficial, this feeling failed to find reflection in selling.

Following early offerings the general list firmed up and recovered practically all of the losses made during the forenoon. Dealings continued on a very light scale, less than a million shares changing hands and closing prices showed only fractional net losses in the pivotal issues.

It had been expected that the disappointing results at the London conference would cause a renewal of bear pressure, but most of the big professional bears are away from the Street and have seemingly declared a moratorium on short selling at this time. The big bull group, with headquarters at Boston, continues optimistic, but of late has shown little aggressiveness.

MARKET'S HIGH SPOTS.

Price fluctuations were confined to a narrow range without much feature. Among the specialties there were some bright spots, particularly Safeway Stores which advanced 2 points and Mullins Body, which rose more than 2 points. The increased activity and strength of the latter was attributed to the operations of a pool which has been organized again in the issue.

General Motors was fairly active and closed fractionally higher due to the good report of earnings for the first half of this year made public late yesterday. Reports were current that the Du Pont Company, which is a large holder of General Motors stock, would show earnings of $2.23 a share for the first six months of this year against $2.84 for the corresponding period last year. Such a showing would be considered favorable.

ENGLISH BANK RATE.

The Bank of England advanced its discount rate from 2 1-2 to 3 1-2 per cent which compares with 1 1-2 per cent for the New York Federal Reserve bank. The latter institution's governors held their usual meeting late this afternoon, but failed to announce any change in the rediscount rate. The Bank of England raised its discount rate in an effort to stop the flow of gold from England to France and the United States.

In discussing the results of the London conference local bankers declared that everything possible at this time had been accomplished and that the conclusion of the London parley does not mean that efforts to rehabilitate German finances would be dropped at this time. They declared further that Germany would have to work out its own problems for awhile and that the banking element of the world would take further action toward extending additional credits when it was found that the Germans had accomplished all they could to help themselves.

The suspension of reparation payments and the assurance that present short-term credits will be extended from time to time, bankers state, should aid Germany materially in solving its difficulties.

DIAMOND MATCH DEMAND.

One encouraging development during the day was the beginning of dividends by the Diamond Match Company on its new stock. Directors declared a quarterly payment of 25 cents a share, or at the rate of $1 a share annually. Inasmuch as this action had been expected the stock rallied only fractionally.

Mail order stocks continued to show strength. Montgomery Ward advancing half a point and Sears-Roebuck point. Rumor persisted that these two companies will be merged in the fall and that the consolidation will be accomplished through an exchange of stock, the details of which will be 3-4 shares of Montgomery Ward for share of Sears-Roebuck. The stocks both companies are now selling on at parity.

Oil shares continued to show a firm undertone and the Texas Corporation, following the example of the Continental Oil, announced an advance in prices of crude oil. Confidence is growing in the oil industry and the passage of conservation laws by the Texas legislature now in session would undoubtedly be received as the signal expansion and strength in the market for the oil shares which have accumulated by important peo-

CURB SHARES HOLD IN NARROW RANGE

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

The list was somewhat heavy in the morning, but selling soon disappeared, and irregular recovery set in during the afternoon. The day's turnover aggregated 180,000 shares, the smallest since Monday, which set a low record for five years or more, with 160,000 shares.

Activity was concentrated in the utilities. Electric Bond and Share and American Gas and Electric sold off more than a point in the morning, but recovered, to close with net gains of 1-4 of a point.

Oils were neglected and without definite trend. Humble gained a point, and Vacuum closed a fraction higher, while Socony-Vacuum and Gulf eased a little.

A few recent strong spots in the industrials sagged in profit taking, including Copeland Products, Crocker Wheeler, and Phillip Morris. Ford, Ltd., closed 3-4 of a point lower, and Woolworth, Ltd., was off 1-4.

REPORT SAYS BEARS, BULLS ON VACATION

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—The New York Evening Post said it was learned on good authority today that the secret of the recent dullness of the stock market was that the big bulls and bears had been requested to take a vacation.

Trading in the stock exchange, despite the unsettling developments abroad, has fallen off this week to the lowest levels witnessed since the spring of 1926.

About 25 big operators are said to have received letters requesting them to refrain from upsetting the market during the European crisis. The letter is believed to have been sent out either by the stock exchange or a group of prominent bankers. No confirmation was available, either from the exchange or the banks.

It is understood the movement was at first directed against the bears, but that they refused to agree to the terms unless the bulls did likewise, so it was agreed to declare a truce all around.

It is believed that in endeavoring to check bear raiding, as well as strong arm bull tactics, important stock exchange quarters acted entirely on their own initiative. The stock exchange frowns as much on overbulling as on bear raiding.

LOANS TO BROKERS DECREASE IN WEEK

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York federal reserve member banks for the week ending July 22 were announced by the federal reserve board today as $1,416,000,000, representing a decrease of $14,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

The loans for the week ending July 23, 1930, were $3,226,000,000. The detailed distribution of the loans over the three weeks dealt with in the board's report was:

For own account: July 22, $1,033,000,000; July 15, $1,055,000,000; July 23, $1,619,000,000; for account of out-of-town banks, July 22, $215,000,000; July 15, $209,000,000; July 23, $776,000,000; for account of others, July 22, $168,000,000; July 15, $166,000,000; July 23, $832,000,000.

Note: The federal reserve board adds or subtracts odd thousands of dollars not shown in its report so that addition of the columns will not always agree with the board's total.

DU PONT EARNINGS PASS DIVIDEND MARK

WILMINGTON, Del., July 23.—E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company's semi-annual statement issued today reports net income of $27,610,394 for the half year of 1931. Deducting debenture dividends leaves $24,624,404 or $2.23 a share earned on the average number of 11,065,762 shares common stock outstanding, which was $0.23 a share in excess of dividend requirements for the period. Earnings include dividends from General Motors investment amounting to $1.35 a share on du Pont common. The earnings on du Pont common for current half year, exclusive of income from General Motors investment, were $0.88 a share as against $1.14 a share for same period last year.

ENGLISH BANK RATE RAISED 1 PER CENT

LONDON, July 23.—(AP)—The bank rate was raised today from 2 1-2 to 3 1-2 per cent.

The increase was decided upon by the directors of the Bank of England as a protective measure, made necessary because of the outflow of gold which, during the week ended yesterday, totalled 15,219,704 pounds (about $76,000,000).

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 47
By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan's knife thrust was aimed with all his skill and power. What slender chance for life the ape-man had depended upon the accuracy and the strength of that single blow. The great pteranodon emitted a shrill scream, stiffened convulsively in mid-air and collapsed. As it did so, it released its hold upon its prey, dropping the ape-man into the nest among the gaping jaws of its frightful brood.

Fortunately for Tarzan there were but three of them and they were still very young, though their teeth were sharp and their jaws strong. Striking quickly to right and left with his blade, he scrambled from the nest with only a few minor cuts and scratches upon his legs. Lying partially over the edge of the spire was the body of the dead thipdar. Tarzan gave it a final shove and watched it as it fell three hundred feet to the rocks below.

Then the ape-man turned to survey his surroundings. There seemed little chance that he could find any means of descent from that dizzy height. The young thipdars were screaming and hissing in their death-convulsions. But they made no move to leave their nest as Tarzan began a close investigation of the granite spire upon the lofty summit of which it seemed likely that he would terminate his adventurous career.

Lying flat on his belly he looked over the edge. He swung slowly around the loftly aerie examining the walls of the spire with minute attention to every detail. Again and again he crept cautiously around the edge until he had printed on his memory every projection and crevice and possible handhold that he could see from below. And then he made his decision, though he knew it held but a chance in a million of succeeding.

World Wheat Crop Shows Sharp Drop

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—A world wheat crop 250,000,000 to 300,000,000 bushels less than last year was forecast today by the agriculture department in its latest summary of 1931 prospects.

Surplus stocks of old wheat, however, may total 100,000,000 bushels more than remained on hand July 1, 1930, in exporting countries. On the other hand, supplies in importing nations are probably smaller, the department said.

The farm board is considering the sale of some stabilization wheat in foreign countries. Chairman Stone said today, however, no definite agreements have been made.

The board has advanced as well as received some offers, he added, and would consider sales on a reasonable credit basis.

TREADWAY URGES SPECIAL SESSION

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Representative Treadway, republican, Massachusetts, urged President Hoover today to call a special session of congress immediately before the regular session to organize and assure expeditious action of the war debt-reparations holiday.

The Massachusetts republican said after his visit to the White House that he had called the attention of the president to the fact that the first debt payments were due only seven days after the regular session begins and that to assure time for consideration of the proposals the special session should be called.

Treadway is ranking member of the house ways and means committee which handles all revenue-raising legislation.

He and Representative Davenport, republican, New York, were White House luncheon guests.

'Blink' of Lights Night Ball Woe

OAKLAND, Cal., July 23—(AP) In night baseball, if the lights "blink" just as a fielder is about to make a catch, the umpire can rule out the play, according to Pacific Coast league authorities.

The question arose when lights flashed on and off between innings of a game, causing fans and players alike to wonder what would have happened if the bases had been full.

The rule covering such a contingency is declared to be the clause empowering the umpire to suspend play "on account of rain, darkness or other cause."

Good Field Ready For St. Paul Open

ST. PAUL, July 23.—(AP)—A field of close to 200 sharpshooters, including virtually all the big shots of American golf, shove off tomorrow in the 72-hole gold rush for the second annual $10,000 St. Paul open.

All the front runners of a year ago were entered, including "Light Horse Harry" Cooper, of Chicago, who won the tournament over the championship Keller course a year ago with a par-shattering record of 280 strokes.

Tony Manero, of New York, runner-up; Horton Smith, of New York, third place winner, and Walter Hagen, back in championship form and with a greater reputation since his conquest in the Canadian open, were ready for the three-day battle.

About the only famous money winners of American golf missing were Billy Burke, of Greenwich, Conn., new national open champion; Johnny Farrell, New York, who remained out because of his fear of the heat; MacDonald Smith, of New York, and Leo Diegel, who told his golfing friends he needed the rest right now more than cash.

George Von Elm, big businessman of golf, who gave Burke a 72-hole over-time fight at Toledo this month, before he lost his big chance by one shot, was on hand, and one of the ruling favorites. Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazen, Wiffy Cox, Olin and Mortie Dutra, Al Espinosa and Ed Dudley were other big money winners in the field.

The Keller course, a rolling stretch easily accesible to the whims of winds, was regarded as a true test to the new balloon ball.

Eighteen holes will be played tomorrow and Saturday, after which the low 60 and ties will fight it out over 36 more holes of medal play for the big purse Sunday. In case of a tie at the end of the 72-hole stretch, 36 holes more will be played Monday.

First prize was listed at $2,500, with runner-up money set at $2,000. Other prizes will be graded down to $100.

Tubby's Crackers Play at Fort Sunday

Atlanta fans will have opportunity to see Tubby Walton's Firecrackers, amateur organization which he has taken to all parts of the state for ball games, in action this Sunday afternoon.

Walton will take his aggregation to Fort McPherson for a game with the army post team.

He will himself play first base for his Firecrackers, and will keep the contest lively with his famous antics. He is weighing only three or four hundred pounds these hot summer days, they say.

The Firecrackers include in the line-up several college and amateur stars. The fort team is coached by Lieutenant E. C. Mack, post athletic director.

He said a car containing four men pursued him from the wrestling match and overtaking him in the park ordered him to stop, whereupon he drove his car into the lake.

STILL'S BILL ASKS JUDGES' ELECTION

Fulton Member Would Keep Salaries as They Are at Present.

Representative Luther Still, of Fulton, Thursday introduced in the house a bill providing for election of the judges of municipal court of Atlanta instead of their appointment by judges of the superior court. Introduction of the Still measure follows that of a somewhat similar bill offered by Representatives W. G. McRae and George A. Eckford.

Mr. Still said that he was unable to sign the McRae-Eckford bill because it contained a number of provisions to which he could not agree, but that he had promised in his campaign to seek election of the municipal court bench by the people, and the bill he offers is designed to carry out that pledge.

The McRae-Eckford bill, according to Mr. Still, calls for reduction in salaries of the municipal court judges and other changes in the court to which no reference was made during the campaign of the Fulton legislators. He will oppose the bill offered by his colleagues and insist on adoption of the measure introduced Thursday, Mr. Still said.

Mr. Still said that there is no controversy in the delegation over the manner of electing the judges, but that other provisions of the McRae-Eckford bill force him to protest against it.

MAN ORDERED HELD IN AUTO FATALITY

Victor Barron, 2305 Boulevard drive, S. E., a newspaperman, was bound over to the grand jury Thursday by Recorder A. W. Callaway on a charge of involuntary manslaughter, the charge growing out of the death of Miss Grace Plott, a nurse, who was struck and killed by a motor car as she was crossing Capitol avenue near the Piedmont hospital on the night of June 11. Miss Plott died June 28.

P. P. Pierce, a street car operator, testified that at the scene of the accident a man he identified as Barron got out of the car which struck Miss Plott. E. L. Taylor, motorcycle patrolman who made the case against the newspaperman, reported that the license tag on the car which struck Miss Plott was issued to Barron.

Barron entered a plea of not guilty. He was released on bond of $500.

Atlanta, City of Younger Sons, Is Topic of Magazine Article

"Atlanta, the City of Younger Sons," is the title of a well-written and attractively illustrated article about this city and its citizens appearing in the August issue of "World's Work." The article was written by Freeman Tilden, and it sketches in a concise yet pleasing and colorful style something of the past and much of the present spirit which has gone into the making of Atlanta.

The article begins with a little joke at the expense of our Bibb county neighbors. "There are several theories to account for the extraordinarily rapid development of Atlanta, the metropolis of the southeast," writes Mr. Tilden. "The shrewdest, if not exactly the kindest, may be called the Maconian theory. Do not confuse this with the Baconian theory; that is 'another pair of sleeves,' as our French friends say.

"A haughty citizen of Macon, Ga.," the writer continues, "being asked to what he attributed the great growth of Atlanta, replied tartly: 'Well, you see the people in Atlanta, not having any traditions to look back upon, nor any historic shrines to worship at, just naturally began to think about themselves. They didn't have anything to do but get to work.' There is salt in the remark, even though it arose from the distaste of an aristocratic town, tracing its descent from Hernando DeSoto, year 1540, at seeing a parvenu rise so smartly in the world."

"It is true that Atlanta started from absolute scratch, in 1837. It had no family, no history, no heirlooms. It even lacked a name."

And then Mr. Tilden composes a little rhapsody on the theme of Atlanta's name. It gives you "the idea of beauty and power," he says. "A tourist, idly gazing at a list of cities, without caring particularly where he went, would be seized by the allurement of this word. Equally, the head of a great corporation, at a loss to know where to open a branch office in the southeast, would unconsciously by swayed by these sounding syllables. There is something in a name."

Illustrations include a beautiful shot of Five Points from the roof of a neighboring skyscraper, a view of the skyline from the Terminal station yards, with a couple of giant locomotives in the foreground, the solidly beautiful facade of the Federal Reserve Bank, the Georgia Tech campus, a glimpse of Druid Hills. And, just to tap the veins of sentiment, a very small negro with a very large smile picking the inevitable cotton.

NEW JUNIOR COLLEGE PLANNED FOR TAMPA

TAMPA, Fla., July 23.—(AP)—Tampa is going to have a new junior college next fall. It will be housed in the Hillsborough High school building and the course will cover first year college work.

CHINESE SURRENDER AMERICAN PRISONER

SHANGHAI, July 23.—(AP)—An authoritative dispatch from Peiping today said Chinese authorities at Tsinanfu had surrendered Dr. Francis F. Tucker, American missionary held for fatally shooting a Chinese employe of a mission hospital, to the American consul at Tsinanfu on instructions from the nationalist government.

The American consul, acting on instructions from Washington, yesterday requested Chinese officials to deliver Dr. Tucker into his custody. The missionary was arrested recently at Techow.

In the hands of American authorities, Dr. Tucker will be tried under United States laws rather than under Chinese statutes.

CONNIE BENNETT STARS AT CAPITOL

"The Common Law," which opened at the Capitol Thursday night, is a pictorial account of a bout between what polite persons call "companionate marriage" and old-fashioned marriage.

Convention scores the knockout in the final reel and Constance Bennett and Joel McCrea are shown in the fade-out heading for a justice of peace.

Constance Bennett plays the part of the woman who, as the ad has it, "paid for his brilliant future with a tarnished past." The "his" referred to is the future of Joel McCrea, who is cast as a mighty earnest young painter in Paris, who incidentally has loads of money and an interferring family back home. After all maybe it is just as well the family interfered—or else Connie and Joe might have just kept on being model and painter, and never man and wife. Thus no plot.

The animated cartoon is good and there is a kid comedy picture with some laughable sequences of a football game. If you like kid comedies you'll like this, but if you don't—well, you won't. The program this week must be good, for all cash customers in the rear of the house seemed pleased, if their comments on leaving are to be taken seriously.

BEAVERS DEMANDS LIQUOR EVIDENCE

Chief Surprised by Wet Charges of Key Recall Sponsors.

Calling on members of the Greater Atlanta Prohibition and Law Enforcement Club to "supply this department with evidences of law violation where children buy liquor within the very shadow of the city hall and youths are threatened to be taken for a ride because they object to bootlegging activities" as is charged in a statement issued by leaders of a recall movement against Mayor James L. Key, Chief of Police James L. Beavers asserted Thursday night that every facility of the department will be available for prosecution.

"I never heard of such things before," Beavers said when informed of the statements. "If this club has such evidence, it is its duty to submit it to the law enforcement agencies We shall not falter in our duty, and have never done so. As chief of police, I have stood for sobriety and law enforcement as my record will show."

These same charges were made several days ago when a committee from the W. C. T. U. called on Mayor Key, and at that time he asked for evidence, but it was not furnished.

The same statement from the club, which was signed by John A. Manget, president, and the Rev. C. A. Norton, told of ward prayer meetings to ask divine blessings on the recall effort which the club is sponsoring against Key for saying the prohibition law can not be enforced as its friends want it done, and, therefore, is a failure. It denies that "bitterness," "enmity" or a "legacy of scars" will follow the ouster move as Key charged Wednesday in his first statement regarding the movement.

Another statement from Adiel Jarrett Moncrief Jr., pastor of the Oakland City Baptist church, denies a statement of Dr. Len G. Broughton that a large majority of the ministers of Atlanta oppose the recall move.

At the same time Key was in receipt of a copy of The Christian Index and Southwestern Baptist, published March 31, 1881, 50 years ago, in which failure of the prohibition law was predicted by Dr. Henry L. Tucker, editor of the publication, and at the time chancellor of the University of Georgia.

Dr. Tucker pointed out:

"A law that can not be enforced with at least a tolerable degree of certainty, ought not to be enacted. The tendency is to bring contempt not only on itself, but on all law and thus to engender a general spirit of disregard for authority."

The club statement says Key is only an "incident in the recall;" that the good women of the country are responsible for prohibition and are asking divine blessings on the fight against Key; recites the alleged sales of intoxicants to "12-year-old children;" calls on the council police committee to fire members of the department convicted of being drunk instead of giving them short suspensions, and the recall is on and will continue.

Rev. Moncrief's statement says in part:

"I believe the majority (of Atlanta ministers) are in favor of the recall as a means of strengthening the prohibition cause, and demonstrating the public sentiment of Atlanta toward a stricter enforcement."

Talk of Politics With Chicago Mayor Denied by Smith

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—The New York American quotes Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago, as saying, "judging from my talk with former Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, today he is not in a receptive mood to make another try for the presidency in 1932."

Governor Smith, the democratic presidential nominee in 1928, however, asserted he made no mention of politics during his visit with the Chicago mayor in his office atop the Empire State building. He maintained the silence regarding his plans for 1932 that has been apparent since 1928.

"We did not talk politics," Mr. Smith said. "Cermak had a lot to say about conditions in Chicago. I showed him through the Empire State building and that wound up our visit."

After his visit with the former governor, Mr. Cermak spent more than a half hour with Smith's successor, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, at the latter's home here. Although the American says he did not commit himself as backing Mr. Roosevelt for the democratic presidential nomination, it said he reported Governor Smith as speaking in favorable terms regarding Mr. Roosevelt.

Cermak also was quoted by the newspaper as saying "Smith is wet, but I am wetter," and adding that he believed prohibition repeal and the depression would go hand-in-hand as major issues in the 1932 presidential campaign.

PASSPORT IS GRANTED FOR VIVIAN'S BABY

PARIS, July 23.—(AP)—The Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune says the Swedish consul here has issued a passport for the baby of Vivian Duncan, American actress, as an exceptional measure, and has offered Miss Duncan one for herself.

The action was taken because the Swedish government considers the actress a Swedish subject by virtue of her marriage to Nils Asther, actor. The nationality of the baby became a question because the father is Swedish, the mother American, and the child was born in Germany.

Taxi Fares Slashed In Capital Price War

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(UP) A taxicab ride to work for three cents was made possible today by a price-war in the capital.

Three companies cut prices to 15 cents, within a zone including most of the city, today, effective tomorrow. As many as five can ride for a single fare.

Street car fares are 10 cents here.

This cut followed a cut from 35 to 20 cents by companies operating more than 1,000 cabs.

FRANCO-SOVIET PACT SEEN BY OBSERVERS

PARIS, July 23.—(AP)—A non-aggression pact and a commercial working agreement between France and Russia were forecast in international circles today.

It was learned that at the suggestion of Moscow the French foreign office is actively engaged in drafting the terms of the non-aggression pact as a supplement to France's recent action annuling her decrees against Russian dumping, especially of wheat.

Russia has denounced her decrees which prevented purchases in France. It is understood a Russian commission is due in Paris soon to negotiate the placing of large orders.

It is expected that Russia will endeavor to negotiate a non-aggression pact with Poland, France's ally on Russia's western frontier. Discussions between France and Russia for Russian recognition of the legal existence of Russian bonds held by the French will probably take place.

FOUR OFFICERS NAMED IN CAROLINA SLAYINGS

WILMINGTON, N. C., July 23.—(AP)—Three deputy sheriffs and a county officer were indicted for manslaughter by the New Hanover county grand jury today in connection with the deaths March 15 of Lupo Roberts, mail truck driver, and W. P. Starling, deputy sheriff.

Named in the indictments were A. B. Crews, E. J. Hale and L. M. Massey, sheriff's deputies; and Porter Davis, a county officer.

Roberts and Starling were slain in an exchange of shots that followed when the former drove his truck into a barricade five county officers had erected on the Smith Creek bridge here in an attempt to catch an alleged rum runner.
